OSCE activities should be streamlined in order to be able to better address the needs of Participating States in:

- elaboration of legislation in the field of education and its consistent implementation;
- fostering cooperation with international think-tanks and centres of excellence;
- introduction and development of distance learning programs;
- reforming vocational training and education,
- establishing OSCE University Network,
- recognition of degrees and diplomas, review of current curricula and teaching methods, exchange of students and academia;
- combating corruption in the field of education,
- promotion of fellowships and scholarships for academic professionals and students;
- development and implementation of civil service legislation.
