

OSCE Quarterly Selections 1/2021

January – March 2021

The following six groups have been categorised with a view to helping readers navigate among the “official document” collections available on the OSCE web. Each group is chronologically organized and provides links to individual documents front pages where one can also access available language variations. Some sections include recently released documents related to events or activities that took place prior to this time period.

- I. OSCE PERIODICALS AND E-PUBLICATIONS are digital resources such as annual reports, e-books, guidelines, manuals, factsheets and other OSCE e-publications.
- II. DECISIONS, CONSENSUS DOCUMENTS AND JOURNALS OF THE DAY yielded by regular OSCE negotiating and decision-making bodies (such as plenary meetings of the Permanent Council and the Forum for Security Co-operation).
- III. SELECTED STATEMENTS, INTERVENTIONS, REGULAR REPORTS AND CONTRIBUTIONS made by the OSCE Chairperson-in-Office and High Officials representing OSCE structures, institutions and field activities.
Statements and contributions made by national delegations during regular plenary meetings are grouped according to the negotiating body they were delivered at. See Permanent Council meetings at <https://www.osce.org/pc/109624> and Forum for Security Co-operation meetings at <https://www.osce.org/fsc/109625>.
- IV. CONSOLIDATED SUMMARIES, REPORTS AND AGENDAS (non-consensus) released by/at various OSCE meetings, events, conferences, seminars and workshops. This section also includes recently released documents related to events that will take place in the months to come.
- V. ELECTION OBSERVATION REPORTS prepared by various types of OSCE/ODIHR election missions, as well as statements or opinions and analysis concerning election observation in participating States.
- VI. SELECTED INTEREST AND REFERENCE DOCUMENTS relating to events or activities within the three OSCE dimensions.

| 14  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: How to Use the Publication. The compendium is aimed at all those working to promote, protect and ensure effective implementation of the human rights of armed forces members, including military personnel, policymakers, judges, ombuds institutions, professional military associations and non-governmental organizations.  |                   | English  | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480155                                 |
| 15  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: Women. Women's participation in the military goes beyond the question of representation, and encompasses recruitment, promotion and retention, working conditions, respect for family life, and issues of discrimination and sexual violence.  |                   | English  | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480161                                 |
| 16  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: National Laws. National laws provide democratic control of the armed forces, and include constitutional provisions, parliamentary oversight and legislation specifying the role of the military and the rights of its personnel.   |                   | English  | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480170                                 |
| 17  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: International Human Rights Law. Human rights are explicitly articulated in international standards that carry very real and meaningful implications for every individual.  |                   | English  | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480176                                 |
| 18  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: Civil and Political Rights. Many states impose restrictions on the enjoyment of these rights for service personnel, for example because of the need for discipline and political neutrality within the armed forces. The degree to which they do so varies among OSCE participating States.  |                   | English  | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480182                                 |
| 19  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: Freedom of Expression. As with other civil and political rights, the freedom of expression of service personnel is sometimes restricted in an effort to ensure the political neutrality of the armed forces. In certain situations, including operational deployments, special restrictions will be necessary to maintain the security of armed forces personnel.                                |                   | English  | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480218                                 |

|-----|------------------------------|---|-----------------|----------|---|
| 20  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: Military Unions and Associations. Freedom of association, which is defined as the freedom to join professional bodies and trade unions, is a fundamental right. However, it does not apply without limitations to men and women in the armed forces throughout the OSCE region.  |                 | English  | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480233 |
| 21  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: Conscientious Objection to Military Service. The right to object to conscription for compulsory military service is closely linked to the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion or belief. In recent decades, many states have abolished universal conscription in favour of voluntary enlistment. A minority of states have reintroduced conscription, with Norway and Sweden extending the practice to include women. |                 | English  | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480251 |
| 22  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: Freedom of Religion or Belief. Armed forces should make every effort to remove barriers to the manifestation of religion or belief for their personnel. This is important not only to protect the right to freedom of religion or belief, but also to ensure that armed forces are representative of the diverse communities they serve.   |                 | English  | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480257 |
| 23  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: Ethnic and Linguistic Minorities. Equally, promoting equality and preventing discrimination is important for ensuring the operational effectiveness of the armed forces.   |                 | English  | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480266 |
| 24  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: LGBTI Members. Across the OSCE region, a growing recognition of widespread discrimination against LGBTI service members is resulting in greater efforts to protect their rights. LGBTI people have historically been banned from serving in the armed forces of many OSCE participating States.  |                 | English  | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480272 |
| 25  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: Children. OSCE participating States have committed to ensuring that the recruitment practices for service in its military, paramilitary and security forces are consistent with human rights obligations, including the Convention on the Rights of Children. The threshold for voluntary recruitment should not be less than age 16.  |                 | English  | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480281 |
| 26  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: Preventing Ill-treatment and Abuse. In addition to violating the fundamental rights of service personnel, ill-treatment and abuse create fear and mistrust, undermine unit cohesion and military effectiveness, and damage the reputation of the armed forces among potential recruits and the general public.   |                 | English  | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480287 |
| 27  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: Working Conditions and Support for Veterans. Good working conditions help prevent accidents, sickness and casualties in the workplace and have a positive impact on work and life in the barracks.   |                 | English  | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480293 |

| 28  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: Human Rights Education.Human rights education helps service personnel understand their rights and obligations. It also helps to create a positive working environment free from discrimination, intolerance and bias.   |                   | English                        | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480299   |
| 29  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: The Role of Commanders and Individual Accountability. All commanders play a central role in upholding the rule of law and respect for human rights in the armed forces. The principle of individual accountability underpins respect for human rights, and promotes responsible behaviour by each member of the armed forces.                           |                   | English                        | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480305   |
| 30  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: Discipline and Military Justice.Armed forces personnel are subject to the same criminal laws as civilians. In many countries, they must also adhere to a separate system of military discipline. Military justice systems are usually set up in order to maintain high standards of discipline necessary for military operations.                   |                   | English                        | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480311   |
| 31  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Compendium on Human Rights of Armed Forces Personnel: Ombuds Institutions.Ombuds institutions provide independent oversight of the armed forces by handling complaints, conducting investigations, issuing reports and developing recommendations. Their fundamental purpose is to protect the rights and well-being of armed forces personnel and in this way improve the effectiveness of the military. |                   | English                        | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480317   |
| 32  | Factsheet/ODIHR              | Gender-Based Hate Crime. Gender-based hate crimes often seek to intimidate and suppress ways of life or expressions of identity that are perceived as not complying with traditional gender norms.  |                   | English                        | https://www.osce.org/odihr/480847   |
