Foreword by the Secretary General

OSCE police-related activities demonstrate in a very tangible way the potential of our Organization’s comprehensive approach to security. We are tackling transnational threats such as organized crime, terrorism, trafficking in human beings, cybercrime, as well as supporting the law enforcement of OSCE participating States in upholding and promoting democratic principles and human rights.

Within their respective mandates, the OSCE Secretariat, Institutions and field operations continued in 2021 to support OSCE participating States in two main categories of police-related activities.

Firstly, activities related to general police development and reform, including - crucial spheres of anti-corruption efforts, combating gender-based violence, community policing, and hate crime.

Secondly, activities focused on countering threats involving criminal activities, such as organized crime, trafficking in human beings, terrorism, trafficking in illicit drugs and chemical precursors, and cybercrime.

I am pleased to see that, despite the widespread restrictions due to the COVID-19 pandemic, in 2021, our police-related activities saw an upward trend across the entire OSCE area, with an increase of 20% compared to the year before. This points to the resilience and importance of the OSCE in that area as well as to the dedication of its staff in ensuring continuity of activities and leveraging opportunities offered by technology.

However, I noted that the women accounted for only 36% of participants in OSCE police-related activities in 2021, which is 4% lower than in 2020. Supported by the nomination of qualified persons by participating States, I hope we can reverse this trend in 2022 and 2023.
At a time when security challenges are rapidly evolving, effective platforms for the exchange of information and best practices are essential to strengthen and reform law enforcement capacities. In 2021, two of the most important recurring OSCE-wide police-related events took place: the Annual Police Experts Meeting and the OSCE-wide Drug Conference. Gathering over 300 participants in total, these two events enabled expert discussions between representatives from OSCE participating States and Partners for Co-operation, regional and international organizations, non-governmental organizations, academia, and the media.

The 2021 Annual Police Experts Meeting was dedicated to addressing joint challenges and allowed for the exchange of good practices, providing an opportunity to enhance international co-operation and revisit the importance of a comprehensive and holistic approach in the prevention of transnational organized crime.

The 2021 OSCE-wide Drug Conference provided an opportunity for experts from OSCE participating States and Partners for Co-operation to discuss challenges posed by trafficking in illicit drugs and its linkages with other forms of organized crime, including corruption and money laundering.

In summary, 2021 police-related activities demonstrated OSCE’s effectiveness in providing an exchange platform, linking its participating States and Partners for Co-operation with experts from other regional and international organizations, think tanks, civil society, academia, and the media. I believe this report shows that last year’s efforts represented a substantial and practical contribution to the Organization’s core mandate in strengthening peace and security across the OSCE area.

OSCE Secretary General
Executive Summary
The Annual Report of the Secretary General on Police-Related Activities provides a comprehensive overview of all police-related projects, events and programmes implemented by the OSCE executive structures, including the thematic units in the Secretariat, field operations (FOs) and institutions.

The Report is submitted in accordance with Decision 9, Paragraph 6, of the 2001 Bucharest Ministerial Council (MC) Meeting, while the activities described in this report are based on a comprehensive list of individual mandates and tasks, which have been provided by various Ministerial Council (MC) and Permanent Council (PC) Decisions since 1998. A full list of all MC and PC Decisions and Action Plans with a focus on police-related activities is provided in Appendix 3.

The police-related activities described in this report are presented in two main categories:

1) General Police Development and Reform, including Anti-Corruption, Gender-based Violence, Community Policing and Hate Crime;

2) Threats Posed by Criminal Activity, including Organized Crime, Counter-Terrorism, Trafficking in Illicit Drugs and Chemical Precursors, Trafficking in Human Beings, and Cybercrime.
Executive Summary

This report provides data regarding the number of police-related activities implemented by the OSCE executive structures in 2021, as well as a comparison with the previous years. While in 2020, the COVID-19 pandemic and its hampering effects generated a decreasing trend, in 2021, an upward trend was registered throughout all police-related activities in the OSCE area. More specifically, the total number of police-related activities recorded in 2021 is 955 compared to 797 recorded in 2020. This is an increase of approximately 20%. Of this total, the number of general police development and reform activities (category 1 above) recorded in 2021 is 514, compared to 418 recorded in 2020 (23% increase), while the number of activities related to countering threats posed by criminal activity (category 2 above) recorded in 2021 is 441, compared to 379 recorded in 2020 (16% increase). This increasing trend is reflected in all types of activities within the two groups.

In order to show a nuanced presentation of the collected data, the following paragraphs will analyse the percentage shares of the different types of police-related activities in comparison with previous years.

In 2021, the three areas of police-related activities with the highest percentage shares were: Community Policing, Police-Public Relations and Crime Prevention (19%), Police Development and Reform (11%) and Organized Crime (11%).

In 2020, the areas recording the highest percentage shares had a different composition: Community Policing, Police-Public Relations and Crime Prevention (14%), Counter-Terrorism & VERLT (13%) and Gender-based Violence (11%).

The areas that recorded a higher percentage share in 2021 than in 2020 were the following: Community Policing, Police-Public Relations and Crime Prevention (an increase of approximately 5%), Organized Crime (3% increase), as well as Police Development and Reform, Human Rights and Police Accountability, Hate Crime, Public Order and Crisis Management, Trafficking in Human Beings, and Border Security and Management/Customs (each a 1% increase compared to 2020). On the other hand, the areas with the biggest decline in their percentage shares were the following: Gender-based Violence (recorded a decrease of approximately 6%), Counter-Terrorism and VERLT (3%), Cross-Border Co-operation in Criminal Matters (2%), as well as Anti-Corruption, Gender Mainstreaming, and Illicit Drugs and Chemical Precursors (each a 1% decrease compared to 2020).

The majority of OSCE police-related activities in 2021 continued to be dedicated to the area of general police development and reform, with a slightly higher percentage than in 2020 (54% compared to its 2020 share of 52%). Within this group, a particular focus was placed on activities related to Community Policing, Police-Public Relations and Crime Prevention (19% of the total), and Police Development and Reform (11%), and Gender-based Violence (5%). The activities related to the area of Community Policing, Police-Public Relations and Crime Prevention and Police Development and Reform recorded an increase of 5% and 1%, respectively, compared to 2020. The activities related to Gender-based Violence recorded a decrease of 6%.

The percentage share of the total number of activities related to addressing threats posed by criminal activity in 2021 was 46%, which represents a decrease of 2% compared to its share in 2020 (48%). Within this group, the activities related to Organized Crime recorded the highest percentage share (11%), followed by Counter-Terrorism and VERLT (10%), Trafficking in Human Beings (8%), Cybercrime and Cyber/ICT Security, Border Security and Management/Customs, and Illicit Drugs and Chemical Precursors (each of these approximately 5% of the total number of activities). This group recorded the greatest shift of focus, with the activities related to Organized Crime recording the highest percentage increase of approximately 6% compared with their share in 2020, while the activities related to Counter-Terrorism and VERLT recording the highest percentage decrease of approximately 3% compared to their share in 2020.

Activities related to Human Rights and Police Accountability have seen an increase in 2021, however the trend is still overall declining as compared to other years. During this year, the percentage share of this activity was 3% of the total, which is higher than its percentage share in 2020 (2%), but less than its percentage share in 2019 (4%) and in 2018 (13%).

When the data is analysed according to executive structures, it shows that in the Secretariat, the activities with the highest percentage shares were: Organized Crime (18% of the Secretariat’s total), Trafficking in Human Beings (15%), and Counter-Terrorism & VERLT (14%). In the OSCE Institutions, the activities recording the highest percentage shares were: Hate Crime (33% of the Institutions’ total), Community Policing, Police–Public Relations and Crime Prevention (15%), and Public Order and Crisis Management (15%). Across the different OSCE field operations, the three activities with the highest percentage shares were: Community Policing, Police–Public Relations and Crime Prevention (23%), Police Development and Reform (14%) and Organized Crime (9%). This shows that, while other priorities differ across the OSCE executive structures, Organized Crime and Community Policing, Police–Public Relations and Crime Prevention are a priority among their police-related activities.

Geographical analysis shows that in South-Eastern Europe, the police-related activities with the highest percentage shares were: Community Policing, Police–Public Relations and Crime Prevention (21% of the total number of police-related activities in South-Eastern Europe), Police Development and Reform (14%) and Organized Crime (13%). While the first two activities had the highest percentage shares in 2020, registered activities related to Organized Crime increased by 7% between 2020 and 2021.

In Eastern Europe, the three types of activities with the highest percentage shares are: Border Security and Management/Customs (33% of the total number of activities in Eastern Europe), Police Development and Reform (21%) and Human Rights and Police Accountability (10%). In 2020, the areas with the highest percentage shares were: Gender-based Violence, Police Development and Reform, and Financial Investigations, Anti-Money Laundering and Seizures of Criminal Proceeds. Thus, the data show a shift of focus, with Border Security and Management/Customs taking the place of Gender-based Violence among the police-related activities with the highest percentage shares in this region’s police-related activities in 2021.

In Central Asia, the three types of activities with the highest percentage shares in 2021 were the following: Community Policing, Police–Public Relations and Crime Prevention (30% of the total number of activities in Central Asia), Counter-Terrorism & VERLT (13%) and Police Development and Reform (10%). In 2020 the activities that had the highest percentage shares were: Gender-based Violence, Community Policing, Police–Public Relations and Crime Prevention, and Police Development and Reform. This also shows a shift of focus, with Counter-Terrorism & VERLT taking the place of Gender-based Violence among the police-related activities with the highest percentage shares in Central Asia in 2021.

In line with OSCE commitments to promote gender equality, which stem from the 2004 Gender Action Plan, while preparing the 2021 Annual Report of the Secretary General on Police-Related Activities, TNTD/SPMU collected disaggregated data on the gender composition of participants in OSCE police-related activities, where the data was available.

The recorded data shows that the 2021 participation of women in OSCE police-related activities was approximately 36% (7,494 out of 20,750 in total), which is a decline of 4% compared to 2020. This points to a gap between the current composition and gender-balanced representation.

Within the group of activities related to the category of general police development and reform, the percentage of female participants in its activities was approximately 33% (3,689 of a total of 11,131), which is a 9% decline compared to the same area in 2020. There is particular room for improving gender-balanced participation in activities in the areas of: Public Order and Crisis Management (female participants 9%), Police Development and Reform (23%), Specialized Investigations Units/Forensics (27%), and Community Policing, Police–Public Relations and Crime Prevention (29%).

Within the group of activities related to addressing threats posed by criminal activity, the composition of female participants in its activities was approximately 40% (3,805 of a total of 9,619), which is a 1% increase compared to the same area in 2020. Within this group of activities, the areas that recorded the lowest percentage shares of female representation were: Illicit Drugs and Chemical Precursors (female participants 14%), Cybercrime (16%), Cross-Border Co-operation in Criminal Matters (29%), and Organized Crime (30%). Overall, gender disaggregated data collected in 2021 shows that female participation could be improved in all police-related activities organized in the OSCE area.

Activities of the Transnational Threats Department
In line with the 2011 Vilnius MC Decision No. 9/11 on Strengthening Co-ordination and Coherence in the OSCE’s Efforts to Address Transnational Threats, the Transnational Threats Department (TNTD) became operational on 1 January 2012. Its role is to optimize the support provided to the Secretary General, the OSCE Chair and the participating States on matters related to transnational threats. Led by the Co-ordinator of the OSCE Activities to Address Transnational Threats, the main role of TNTD is to act as a focal point for OSCE-wide programmatic activities that relate to countering transnational threats, whereby ensuring co-ordination and coherence of actions across all three OSCE dimensions and amongst all OSCE executive structures with respect to their mandates.

TNTD consists of a Co-ordination Cell (TNTD/CC), which covers cyber/information and communication technologies (ICTs) as well as security issues, and three thematic units: the Action against Terrorism Unit (TNTD/ATU), the Border Security and Management Unit (TNTD/BSMU) and the Strategic Police Matters Unit (TNTD/SPMU).

Activities Related to General Police Development and Reform

Police Development and Reform

On 26 January, TNTD/SPMU organized a thematic meeting for the OSCE Police Academies Network (PAN), gathering 35 participants (12 women; 23 men). The meeting focused on the topics of excessive use of force by the police and the role of police academies as well as the challenges for police academies related to the COVID-19 pandemic.

In February, TNTD/SPMU launched a new three-year follow-up project Building Intelligence-led Policing (ILP) Capacities on Regional and National Levels in the OSCE Area based on a needs assessment carried out in 2020. The OSCE Guidebook on Intelligence-Led Policing is now used by numerous national law enforcement training institutions as well as by international and regional organizations such as INTERPOL, Europol and the European Union (EU) Agency for Law Enforcement Training (CEPOL). The new 2021-2023 project builds on the former one, but focuses more on concrete training activities in line with the mentioned needs assessment, where 20 participating States expressed their interests in receiving further capacity-building support on ILP.

On 30 March, TNTD/SPMU launched the publication The OSCE Project on Intelligence-Led Policing 2017-2020: From Reactive to Proactive Policing, summarizing activities and achievements of the first ILP project (2017-2020). The project covered the drafting of the OSCE Guidebook on ILP and its translation into ten languages, the development of tutorial and promotion materials based on the Guidebook, some 20 regional and national workshops, training and events for 35 participating States, eight Partners for Co-operation and 19 member States of the League of Arab States, with over 550 law enforcement officials taking part in these activities.

On 12 May, in collaboration with OSR/CTHB, TNTD/SPMU organized the second thematic online meeting for the PAN Focal Points. The meeting aimed at presenting police training institutions curricula for police cadets on how to effectively fight trafficking in human beings (THB) and how the police can protect women from being trafficked. Speakers included academia and police academies, as well as a human trafficking survivor currently working for the victim support services in Canada. The meeting, gathering 90 participants, highlighted the importance of broad co-operation across professional fields, underscoring the importance of involving both social and health services as well as THB survivors.

On 23 June, in close co-operation with OSCE field operations in South-Eastern Europe, TNTD/SPMU organized online a regional workshop on implementing ILP in South-Eastern Europe and sharing experiences and lessons learned. The event gathered 20 law enforcement managers and officials (3 women; 17 men) responsible for ILP programmes in the region and 13 representatives (6 women; 7 men) from OSCE field operations. The event provided an overview on the status of the ILP implementation in the region and served as an interactive platform for exchange of good practices and ideas.

On 10 March, TNTD/SPMU organized an online event launching the Key Findings and Recommendations Report of a situational analysis and needs assessment carried out as part of piloting the extra-budgetary (ExB) project Increasing and Supporting the Participation of Women at all Levels of Policing in Montenegro. The event, gathering 68 participants (47 women; 21 men), was attended, inter alia, by representatives from the Ministries of the Interior (MoI), Justice, Human and Minority Rights, the Police Directorate and the Police Academy of Montenegro. The pilot project, implemented from July 2020 to February 2021, was carried out in close co-operation with the OSCE Mission to Montenegro and the Police Directorate in Podgorica. The report presents recommendations of concrete and tailored measures to increase the number of women in the Montenegrin Police, as well as to strengthen their advancement and empowerment within the police.

On 23 and 25 March, TNTD/SPMU held online meetings with representatives from OSCE field operations in South-Eastern Europe and Central Asia to discuss the implementation of the OSCE-wide project on ILP. Based on a comprehensive needs assessment carried out from August to December 2020, the newly drafted ExB project on ILP (2021-2023) will focus on building capacities of law enforcement services in applying evidence-based and intelligence-led measures to address criminal activities and to general policing.
From July to August, in close co-operation with the OSCE field operations in South-Eastern Europe and the training provider from United Kingdom, Shortest Path Training, TNTD/SPMU organized a series of training courses on operational intelligence analysis with the utilization of the i2 Analyst’s Notebook and i2 iBase software in criminal intelligence analysis. The training courses gathered 18 criminal analysts (6 women; 12 men) from law enforcement agencies in South-Eastern Europe. Participants refreshed and updated their knowledge in the utilization of the two analytical software tools most commonly used in law enforcement.

From July to September, TNTD/SPMU organized consultations with representatives of the OSCE Presence in Albania, the Ministry of Internal Affairs (MoIA) of Georgia as well as the OSCE Centre in Ashgabat. The meetings focused on needs-assessment for potential ILP capacity-building assistance to the law enforcement authorities in Albania, Georgia and Turkmenistan.

From 4 to 22 October, in co-operation with the six OSCE field operations in South-Eastern Europe, TNTD/SPMU organized a series of training courses on operational intelligence analysis with the utilization of the i2 Analyst’s Notebook and i2 iBase in criminal intelligence analysis. Some 18 participants (7 women; 11 men) learned to apply analytical tools, practiced interrogating and charting from data sources, and creating efficient and effective briefings and presentations. The training courses, organized in the framework of the ExB project on ILP, focused on enhancing participants’ technical skills to professionally analyze law enforcement data and conduct inquiries through the software tools.

From 22 to 25 November, in co-operation with the OSCE Centre in Ashgabat, TNTD/SPMU organized an awareness-raising training event focused on the aforementioned software. The event gathered 13 law enforcement and criminal justice officials (men) from Turkmenistan, representing the MoIA, the Ministry of National Security, the Ministry of Justice (MoJ), the General Prosecutor’s Office (GPO) and the Supreme Court. Participants examined the theoretical and research foundation of ILP, the main benefits of applying the model, the role of crime analysis and assessments in modern policing, as well as the main decision-making procedures of ILP. They also explored some international good practices in implementing ILP, possible approaches for preparing and planning ILP implementation in Turkmenistan, and how ILP works at the strategic and the operational levels.

On 9 and 10 December, in co-operation with the OSCE Presence in Albania, TNTD/SPMU organized a training course for preparing and planning ILP implementation in Albania. The target-audience that took part in this course consisted of 46 high level managers (2 women; 44 men) from Albanian State Police central and local directorates. Participants improved their knowledge in applying ILP as a working model providing more efficient policing and enabling the existing resources and procedures to be at their most optimal level for achieving the best possible policing results.

From 14 to 17 December, jointly with the OSCE Centre in Ashgabat, TNTD/SPMU organized the training course on utilizing i2 Analyst’s Notebook and i2 iBase in criminal intelligence analysis. The course, gathering 11 experts (1 woman; 10 men) from the MoIA and the Supreme Court of Turkmenistan, helped participants to improve their understanding of the structure, functionality, and capabilities of the software. Participants explored how the two analytical software tools can help to support and enable criminal intelligence analysis within the framework of ILP model.

Gender Mainstreaming

On 8 March, on the occasion of the International Women’s Day, TNTD/SPMU organized an online PAN meeting on thematic topics related to gender and police training issues from different perspectives, gathering 30 participants (12 women; 18 men). In particular, experts presented the Gender and Security Toolkit on Policing and Gender as a useful resource for police academies. Likewise, ODIHR also delivered a presentation on the human rights challenges in security sector institutions and the OSCE Gender Issues Programme presented its WIN project.

1 The new Gender and Security Toolkit provides practice-based policy and programmatic guidance for governments, international and regional organizations and security and justice institutions to integrate a gender perspective and advance gender equality in security and justice policy, programming and reform. Community Policing, Police-Public Relations and Crime Prevention

From January to March, TNTD/SPMU developed a new project that builds on its multi-year work in support of the police reform in Armenia, succeeding the previous project on Strengthening police-public partnership in Armenia. The objective of the new project is to support the implementation of the police reform in Armenia, with a special emphasis on community policing and the educational system. To tailor the new project to the needs of the beneficiary State, TNTD/SPMU organized several meetings with the Armenian Delegation to the OSCE, the Armenian MoJ, and representatives of the Armenian Police.

On 18 March, in co-operation with the OSCE Programme Office in Nur-Sultan and ODIHR, TNTD/SPMU organized an online workshop focusing on law enforcement agencies’ responses to the COVID-19 pandemic and international best practices. The workshop aimed at raising awareness among Kazakhstan’s law enforcement agencies about human rights standards and the applicability of community policing techniques within the context of restrictions related to the COVID-19 pandemic. The workshop covered regulations and recommendations related to the COVID-19 pandemic and the ways the police could encourage and enforce compliance, as well as an introduction to community policing, fundamental human rights and freedom of peaceful assembly. Some 16 participants (4 women; 12 men), representing the Ministry of Health and the MoIA learned about the importance of providing police with clear instructions on how to bolster public confidence and strictly avoid human rights violations while maintaining COVID-19 restrictions. They also learned that co-operation between the police and various sections of the community plays an important role in fostering among residents the understanding about the restrictions, such as their duration and possible penalties for non-compliance.

In March, TNTD/SPMU launched a video that introduces the community policing approach as a major pillar of the OSCE’s police-related activities. The aim is to use the video to present the concept and principles of community policing in all related workshops and training courses. The video has been uploaded to the OSCE website and YouTube Channel in English2 and Russian3 languages, published on the OSCE social media channels and translated to Bosnian, Macedonian and Serbian languages.

From May to June, TNTD/SPMU held a series of four online workshops for Armenia’s MoJ and law enforcement authorities. The aim of the workshops series, designed to support Armenia’s implementation of police reforms by strengthening community policing strategies, was to share international strategies and best practices from across the OSCE area. The four different sessions featured presentations by six representatives (3 women; 3 men) from Canada, Estonia, Kazakhstan, Norway, and Sweden, who shared national community policing strategies and models as well as best practices to further support Armenia in developing its own national strategies.

On 30 September, TNTD/SPMU organized a meeting between the Swedish police and officials from the Armenia’s MoJ and police. The aim of the meeting was for the Swedish police experts to explain the concept of dialogue police, which aims to reduce violent confrontation between the police and the public during public gatherings, and explore the interest and possibility of introducing this concept in Armenia. During the meeting, the possibility for a study visit by an Armenian delegation to Sweden for further introduction of the concept was discussed. This concept will then be implemented throughout 2021 and early 2022. The project is part of the EU-funded joint United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) project Accountable institutions and human rights protection in Armenia.

From 3 to 5 November, jointly with ODIHR and in co-operation with the OSCE Mission to Skopje, TNTD/SPMU organized a training event on preventing terrorism and countering violent extremism and radicalization that lead to terrorism (P/C VERLT) through a community policing approach. The event, held in Skopje, gathered 20 police officers and community members (9 women; 11 men) representing organized groups and religious communities, as well as individuals and staff from local governmental agencies such as social services. It provided knowledge and skills on human rights-based, multi-stakeholder approaches to P/C VERLT and offered a venue to discuss common challenges and good practices in this area. The training activity was based on the OSCE guidebook Preventing Terrorism and Countering Violent Extremism and Radicalization that Lead to Terrorism: A Community Policing Approach.

From 13 to 20 November, TNTD/SPMU supported a preparatory mission of two dialogue police experts from Sweden (1 woman; 1 man) to design a training programme for the Armenian Police. During the five-day visit, the experts met with representatives of the Armenian Police, MoJ, as well as with other government and non-governmental stakeholders. Based on experts’ preparatory findings, a two-week training programme, which includes theory, case studies and

As a follow up of the visit, from 6 to 9 December, TNTD/SPMU organized a three-day visit to Sweden for a delegation of five participants (men) from the Armenian Police as well as the Deputy Minister of Justice (woman), to study the dialogue police experience of the Swedish Police. The aim of the visit was to provide a broad understanding of the dialogue police concept and practice in Sweden, as well as the development of the concept during its twenty years of existence.

On 16 and 17 December, jointly with the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), TNTD/SPMU held an online workshop to discuss together with a peer-review working group (WG), consisting of 18 experts (8 women; 10 men), and three consultants (2 women; 1 man) the findings of the first draft of the updated version of the 2008 OSCE publication Good Practices in Building Police-Public Partnerships. The meeting served as a communication platform for the experts working of the new draft, who will take into consideration the findings from the WG in the further work on the new version of the guidebook.

Gender-based Violence

On 9 and 10 September, TNTD/SPMU convened the first meeting of the Advisory and Co-ordination Board (ACB) established as part of its ExB project Enhancing Criminal Justice Capacities for Combating Gender-based Violence in South-Eastern Europe. The one-day event gathered 16 participants (12 women; 4 men), among whom representatives of the OSCE field operations in South-Eastern Europe, the OSCE Secretariat’s Gender Issues Programme, ODIHR, the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), UN Women, the Council of Europe (CoE) and OSCE participating States. The aim of the meeting was to exchange good practices and lessons learned from previous and on-going initiatives on preventing and combating gender-based violence in the region, as well as identify synergies, with a focus on avoiding overlapping and strengthening sustainability of the project’s expected results. The meeting concluded with partner organizations expressing interest in the project activities and with agreed modalities to enhance impact and long-term sustainability, in the area of the project.

On 13 September, TNTD/SPMU convened the first meeting of the Multi-Agency Committee (MAC) established in Albania as part of the ExB project on combating gender-based violence in South-Eastern Europe. The one-day event, held in Tirana, brought together 11 participants (9 women; 2 men), including representatives of the OSCE Secretariat and OSCE Presence in Albania, the Albanian State Police, the MoJ, the Ministry of Health and Social Protection, representatives of the judiciary, the Child Rights Centre Albania and the Center for Legal Civic Initiatives. The aim of the event was to discuss the project’s strategy and implementation with local stakeholders to help tailor the project activities to the countries’ needs. The MAC in Albania will provide guidance to the project team to help ensure that the project activities comply with local strategies and other existing activities and minimize duplication or overlap with other initiatives. They will work together with the MACs established in the other project beneficiary States, ensuring a regional approach as well as fine-tuning of activities as per the local needs.

On 20 and 21 October, TNTD/SPMU organized the first meeting of the MAC in Montenegro, established as part of the ExB project on combating gender-based violence in South-Eastern Europe. The event, held in Podgorica, gathered 12 participants (11 women; 1 man), among whom representatives of the OSCE Secretariat and the OSCE Mission to Montenegro, the Montenegrin Police Directorate, the Prosecutor’s Office in Podgorica, the MoJ, the Ministry of Health, the Police Academy, the Supreme Court, as well as SOS Podgorica and SOS Nikšić. The meeting highlighted the need to enhance the co-ordination between all stakeholders, in particular between police officers, prosecutors and health representatives through a multi-agency approach, as the approach is not systematized and often depends on individual willingness.

On 26 October, TNTD/SPMU organized the first meeting of the MAC in Serbia, established as part of the ExB project on combating gender-based violence in South-Eastern Europe. The event, held in Belgrade, gathered 11 participants (7 women; 4 men), among whom representatives of the OSCE Secretariat and the OSCE Mission to Serbia, the Police Directorate and Police Training Center, the Republic Public Prosecutor’s Office, the Higher Prosecutor’s Office in Belgrade, the MoJ, the Ministry of Labour, Employment, Veteran and Social Affairs, and the Autonomous Women’s Center. The meeting highlighted the need to broaden the focus of the training and awareness activities on other forms of gender-based violence than domestic violence, which is already addressed at the national level.

On 23 November, TNTD/SPMU organized the first meeting of the MAC in North Macedonia, established as part of the ExB project on combating gender-based violence in South-Eastern Europe. The event, held in Skopje, gathered 13 participants (10 women; 3 men), among whom representatives of the OSCE Secretariat and the OSCE Mission to Skopje, the MoJ’s Police Training Centre and Public Security Bureau, the MoJ, the Ministry of Labour and Social Policy, the Basic Prosecutor’s Office in Skopje and the Academy for Judges and Public Prosecutors. The meeting highlighted the need to train all stakeholders in a systemic and co-ordinated manner especially in the context of the recent and on-going amendments to the Criminal Code related to gender-based violence cases.

On 30 November, TNTD/SPMU organized the first meeting of the MAC in Bosnia and Herzegovina, established as part of the ExB project on combating gender-based violence in South-Eastern Europe. The event, held in Sarajevo, gathered nine participants (7 women; 2 men), among whom representatives of the OSCE Secretariat and the OSCE Mission to Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Center for Judicial and Prosecutorial Training of the Republika Srpska, the Center for Judicial and Prosecutorial Training of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, Criminal Police Sector of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, Brčko District Police and the MoI of Republika Srpska. The meeting highlighted the need to enhance the co-operation and co-ordination between all stakeholders dealing with gender-based violence cases, to ensure victim protection and avoidance of secondary victimization. The establishment of the MAC will contribute to enhanced multi-sectoral co-operation and co-ordination.

On 9 December, TNTD/SPMU organized the launching event of its ExB project on combating gender-based violence in South-Eastern Europe. The event gathered 81 participants (69 women; 12 men) among whom representatives of the regional ACB and the five national MACs established in the framework of the project, as well as the OSCE participating States. The event created a platform for sharing needs, good practices and lessons learned in the area of training for law enforcement and judiciary on gender-based violence in the region. The main outcome of the event was the agreement by all stakeholders on a project work plan for 2022. Throughout 2022, the project will focus on increasing the effectiveness of criminal justice practitioners when responding to cases of gender-based violence. Among the planned activities are developing curricula in accordance with the CoE’s Istanbul Convention and other international standards, and expanding the networks of trainers with expertise on the topic in the region.

Other activities, including co-ordination and co-operation

On 22 September, TNTD/SPMU delivered a presentation on community security at the Building Sustainable Peace and Security training course, conducted in co-operation between OSCE’s Conflict Prevention Centre (CPC) and the Austrian Study Centre for Peace and Conflict Resolution in Stadtschlaining, Austria.

On 7 October, TNTD/SPMU supported the Swedish Chair in organizing the Annual Police Experts Meeting (APEM) on the topic of preventing transnational organized crime. The event, organized in a blended format, gathered 108 experts (39 women; 66 men) among whom law enforcement experts and other criminal justice practitioners, representatives of regional and international organizations, researchers, as well as civil society (SC) representatives from OSCE participating States and Partners for Co-operation. Participants explored joint challenges and good practices for addressing transnational organized crime in a comprehensive and holistic way. They also discussed institution-building activities, co-ordination among national institutions and the part played by public-private partnerships in state efforts.

Counter-Terrorism and P/C VERLT

On 14 January, TNTD/ATU published and circulated a Perception Paper reflecting nonbinding recommendations advanced during the OSCE-wide Counter-Terrorism Conference, organized by the Albanian OSCE Chair with TNTD/ATU’s support on 14 and 15 September 2020 and held in Vienna in a blended format. The Perception Paper contains a summary of key findings of the discussions during the five plenary sessions of the conference, as well as of the seven side events organized on the margins of this OSCE-wide event.

On 2 March, TNTD/ATU participated in the Plenary Meeting of the Global Counterterrorism Forum (GCTF) WG on Justice and Rule of Law, held online. The meeting served to take stock of the national and international efforts in promoting the implementation of various GCTF good practices memoranda in the legal field, as well as to adjust the WG’s future plans. TNTD/ATU gave an overview of the OSCE’s efforts in preventing and countering terrorism, particularly in the areas related to criminal justice, law enforcement and respect for human rights.

On 12 March, TNTD/ATU organized a webinar entitled Terrorist Use of the Internet: Designation of Illicit Content Online and Gaps in Regulatory Frameworks with the support of the Albanian Chair of the OSCE Asian Partners for Co-operation Group and the OSCE External Co-operation Section. The event brought together 182 participants (72 women; 110 men), including experts and high-level officials from across the OSCE area. It built on the OSCE roundtable discussion titled Leveraging Innovation and Technology to Address 21st Century Security Challenges and Crises across the OSCE and Asian Partners for Co-operation, held in November 2020. Experts, including the OSCE Representative on Freedom of the Media as well as researchers and practitioners from think tanks and academia in Canada, Italy and Japan, shared innovative approaches and expert advice on designating and moderating violent extremist and terrorist content online. The importance of transparency, remedy mechanism and accountability in pertinent regulatory frameworks was highlighted throughout the event. The webinar provided a platform to review and examine current and emerging issues related to the national designation of illicit and terrorist content online, and on how online platforms address these questions through their “terms of service”. Experts also discussed how initiatives addressing violent extremist and terrorist content online might negatively affect human rights.

On 14 April, TNTD/ATU participated in the online symposium on supporting victims of terrorism in cross-border situations, organized within the CoE Network of Single Contact Points for the exchange of procedural information regarding the legal standing of victims of terrorism. Presentations and discussions touched upon practical examples on challenges related to victim identification, psychological support or logistical aspects following an attack, including shelter, medical assistance, or response-time. TNTD/ATU contributed to a panel discussion on addressing the needs of victims in the context of counter-terrorism capacity-building.

On 15 April, TNTD/ATU contributed to the Joint OSCE Parliamentary Assembly (PA) - Parliamentary Assembly of the Mediterranean (PAM) Working Session on assessing the terrorist threat and efforts to prevent violent extremism. The Working Session was part of an International Parliamentary Conference organized online by the OSCE PA, the PAM, the Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS), the UN Office of Counter-Terrorism (UNOCT) and other partners. While the conference provided a platform to discuss the prevailing issues of terrorism and violent extremism worldwide, the Working Session that TNTD/ATU contributed to aimed at a better understanding of evolving trends of the terrorist threat, particularly against the backdrop of the COVID-19 pandemic, as well as at evaluating ongoing international efforts to prevent all forms of violent extremism.

On 20 and 21 April, TNTD/ATU supported the Swedish OSCE Chair in organizing the annual OSCE-wide Counter-Terrorism Conference, held in Vienna in a blended format and gathering 591 participants (250 women; 341 men) from the OSCE area. During the conference, high-level representatives and experts from governments, state agencies, the OSCE participating States and Partners for Co-operation, the UN and other international organizations, as well as representatives from the public and private sector, OS, and academia shared good practices and lessons learned. Participants dis-discussed specifically how to address the root causes of violent extremism and radicalization that lead to terrorism (VERLT), including the importance of ensuring human rights-compliance in policy and practice. The Conference also provided a platform to discuss the importance of ensuring that tools for preventing terrorism and VERLT online uphold freedom of expression.

The event gathered 200 senior experts, government officials and representatives of regional and international organizations, including the UN. Participants exchanged good practices, lessons learned, and recommendations for policy options for developing effective ways of detecting and suppressing terrorist financing channels and combating organized crime. The conference discussions built on the recommendations made during the OSCE High-Level Regional Conference on countering terrorist financing and addressing potential links with organized crime, held in Ashgabat on 17 and 18 April 2019.

On 19 and 20 May, TNND/ATU participated in ODIHR’s sub-regional online workshop on protecting human rights while countering terrorism. Experts took stock of ongoing and emerging human rights challenges in the development and implementation of counter-terrorism legislation, policy and practice, including with regard to returning foreign terrorist fighters (FTFs). The workshop facilitated an exchange of experiences and good practices between state and non-state actors, with a particular focus on the impact that responses to terrorism can have on domestic rule of law and human rights frameworks, civil liberties and fundamental freedoms.

In June, TNND/ATU completed a self-evaluation of its ExB project’s E-learning course on countering the use of the internet for terrorist purposes. The e-learning course was launched in May 2020 and is available in English and Russian languages on the OSCE e-learning platform. The evaluation gathered 1,166 users (393 women; 683 men; 90 persons did not provide information on their gender) from 115 countries and different backgrounds. A total of 534 persons (198 women; 287 men; 90 did not provide information on their gender) successfully completed the course and received electronic certificates. According to the feedback received, the e-course became a part of mandatory training courses for internships in several intelligence and private companies worldwide in the field of preventing and countering violent extremism and terrorism online.

From 18 to 21 August, together with the Anti-Terrorist Center under the State Committee for National Security of Kyrgyzstan and the OSCE Programme Office in Bishkek, TNND/ATU organized the Eight Annual Anti-Terrorism Experts Meeting. The events focused on international legal frameworks and practices in counter-terrorism co-operation. In the first event, TNND/ATU presented on the parameters of the international legal counter-terrorism framework, while in the second one, on its work in the area of countering the use of the internet for terrorist purposes, including plans for future activities in Central Asia. During both events, discussions focused on the challenges faced by national agencies engaged with the prevention and investigation of terrorism related offences in cross-border contexts.

From 15 to 17 September, jointly with the OSCE field operations in Central Asia, TNND/ATU organized online the Central Asia Expert Dialogue on Age- and Gender-Sensitivity in managing FTF returnees, which focused on good practices in the treatment of FTF returnees. The event gathered 75 participants (39 women; 36 men), among whom government and international experts, academics, policymakers, and CSOs from all across the OSCE area, to discuss the treatment of women and children associated with FTFs, including their prosecution, rehabilitation and reintegration. The event provided an overview of the situation that these women and children face in different regions of the OSCE. Discussions addressed the importance of gender-responsive programmes and individually tailored approaches to helping returning women disengage and reintegrate into society. The expert dialogue also addressed the need for age-sensitive support in rehabilitating and reintegrating FTF-affiliated children and juvenile offenders.

On 23 and 24 September, TNND/ATU attended the South-East Europe Police Chiefs Association Conference, held in Budva in a blended format. The event was hosted by the Police Directorate of Montenegro’s MoI, with the support of the OSCE Mission to Montenegro. Participating police experts from South-Eastern Europe focused on examining two aspects of cybercrime: countering online radicalization that leads to violent extremism and countering online sexual exploitation of children. During the meeting, TNTD/ATU presented its work in the field of countering the use of the internet for terrorist purposes, including plans for future activities in the region. The conference facilitated an exchange of experiences on the relevant emerging threats and placed a special emphasis on the importance of reinforcing a regional response through the joint exchange of data on the exploitation of the internet for criminal purposes.

Cross-Border Co-operation in Criminal Matters

In 2021, TNTD/BSMU developed a five-year TNTD-wide programme on the combating of the illicit cross-border trafficking in cultural property (TCP) in the OSCE area as a follow up of an ExB project implemented by TNTD/BSMU since 2016.

In October, TNTD/BSMU launched the curriculum for the post-graduate studies on TCP for law enforcement officers of the OSCE participating States and Partners for Co-operation, developed in close co-operation with the Donau Krems University, Austria. Jointly with OSCE Communication and Media Relations Section (COMMS), TNTD/BSMU developed a podcast on TCP to further promote the importance of the topic and to gain more visibility. The three initial test episodes, recorded in 2021, will be completed and distributed to a broad public in 2022, via platforms such as Spotify. TNTD/BSMU also developed a Cultural Property Protection Resources Platform under OSCE POLIS platform, uploading handbooks and guidelines for border, police and customs officers and introducing a section for military personnel to increase awareness and learning on the phenomenon and how to address it.

From 15 to 18 March, in co-operation with the World Customs Organization (WCO), TNTD/BSMU organized an online training course on the prevention of illicit trafficking cultural heritage (PITCH) for 24 customs officers (14 women; 10 men) from Bulgaria, Croatia, Estonia, Georgia, Hungary, Lithuania, Latvia, Moldova, Poland, Romania, Slovakia, Slovenia and Ukraine, as well as the Regional Intelligence Liaison Office (RILO) for Eastern and Central Europe. The training course, delivered by six experts (3 women; 3 men) from the WCO, the OSCE, INTERPOL’s Works of Art Unit, the University of Oslo and the Association for Research into Crimes against Art (ARCA), was tailored for the custom services from the Eastern and Central European Regions. It aimed to ensure a consistent and harmonized approach in countering illicit TCP and to co-ordinate their actions throughout the region as well as serving to enhance participants’ overall skills and knowledge and networking skills. The course, in line with provisions of the WCO's 2016 Council Resolution and the United Nations Security Council Resolution (UNSCR) 2347 (2017), was the third of its kind, following the previous two joint WCO-OSCE PITCH training courses held in Central Asia in 2019 and in South-Eastern Europe in 2020.

On 18 March, TNTD/BSMU organized an online roundtable on how vaccine travel documents can be used in the OSCE area and what consequences this brings on the operations of border security agencies. The event provided an opportunity to enhance knowledge and ideas on a rapidly developing subject, bringing together 102 participants (33 women; 69 men) from OSCE's Border Security and Management (BSM) National Focal Points (NFP) Network, along with experts and representatives from OSCE participating States, the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), the International Air Transport Authority (IATA), and the United Nations World Tourism Organization. TNTD/BSMU will continue to monitor developments in vaccine passport implementation and facilitate connections between NFPs and the World Health Organization (WHO), the IATA and the ICAO.

On 25 March, TNTD/BSMU finalized the first online platform on the OSCE Mobile Training Team (MTT) curriculum on the detection of FTFs at borders, aimed to benefit Border Police and law enforcement agencies from OSCE participating States and Partners for Co-operation. The two week self-paced learning program provides general information about FTFs, modules on travel document security and risk assessment and risk analysis, including lectures on behavioural analysis and interviewing techniques. On 19 and 20 May, TNTD/BSMU conducted the second online training course on the identification of impostors at border crossing points for the OSCE NFPs in BSM, and other border agencies from the OSCE participating States. The training course, developed by the experts of the Austrian Federal Mol, gathered 194 officers (54 women, 140 men) from 25 OSCE participating States. During the two-day training course, participants enhanced their skills in the identification of impostors at borders through interactive exercises, by focusing on relevant anatomical features and behavioural indicators. The course also served as a forum for the exchange of information on the latest trends in the field of identity and document fraud, and addressed the topic of morphing and the use of fraudulent COVID-19 tests and vaccine certificates for travel purposes.

In June, TNTD/BSMU launched an Advance Passenger Information and Passenger Name Record (API/PNR) needs assessment mission in Bosnia and Herzegovina in order to facilitate discussions amongst different government agencies, ministries and international organizations, and assess the current status of API implementation in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Meetings were co-ordinated with the Ministry of Security as well as with multiple law enforcement and border management organizations. As a result, a short-term National Action Plan was developed, including the creation of Bosnia and Herzegovina’s first interagency WG.

On 25 June, in co-operation with the OSCE Mission to Serbia, TNTD/BSMU conducted an online training course for five officers (1 woman; 4 men) from the Service for Combating Terrorism within the Criminal Police Directorate of the Mol of the Republic of Serbia. The training course was organized following the request from Serbian authorities to conduct more training activities on this topic, particularly after the in-person training course for Serbian first-line border officers in December 2019. Following the evaluation of the course, TNTD/BSMU will further adjust and improve the curriculum.

In August, TNTD/BSMU hosted an online workshop in co-ordination with the International Organization for Migration (IOM) office in Turkmenistan and its Inter-Agency WG on API. Discussions focused on inter-organizational co-ordination as well as legislative developments to implement passenger data systems in support of UNSCR 2396 (2017).

On 27 and 28 October, jointly with UNOCT, TNTD/BSMU launched the first Eastern European Informal Working Group (IWG) on Passenger Data. The launching ceremony was held in a blended format and gathered 62 participants (19 women; 43 men). Based on the EU IWG and consisting of 17 OSCE participating States, the IWG will serve as a working-level technical platform to advance API/PNR implementation across the OSCE area. The Kyrgyz Republic was appointed to the position of Chair on a voluntary basis for one year. The four thematic Vice-Chairs are Albania, Georgia, Mongolia and Montenegro, and will oversee the work of the four different sub-WGs (Legal, Operational, Transport Industry Engagement, and ICT and interoperability). The IWG will support OSCE participating States in implementing UNSCR 2396 (2017), which mandates states to collect and analyse passenger data for preventing the return of FTFs.

On 28 and 29 October, jointly with UNOCT, TNTD/BSMU organized the fifth OSCE-wide Seminar on Passenger Data Exchange. The event was held in a blended format and gathered 232 participants (86 women; 146 men). The event’s main purpose was to provide further support to OSCE participating States and Partners for Co-operation in developing API/PNR systems and opportunities to identify potential partnerships. This event marks the third consecutive joint seminar between the OSCE and UNOCT and is a direct result of the Biennial Action Plan for 2019-2021 signed in September 2019. The event targeted expert-level officials involved in the establishment of national API/PNR systems as well as representatives from national targeting centers and/or Passenger Information Units (PIU).

From 29 November to 1 December, in close co-operation with the OSCE Mission to Bosnia and Herzegovina, TNTD/BSMU organized the 13th deployment of the MTT on the identification of FTFs. The three-day training course, held in-person in Jahorina, Bosnia and Herzegovina, gathered 23 participants (3 women; 20 men) among whom were first and second-line border officers. Participants learned about international and regional legal frameworks, the effective use of INTERPOL databases, API/PNR Systems, travel document security as well as risk analysis and management in the identification of potential FTFs at borders. Participants were also trained on how to detect behavioural indicators of FTFs and interviewing techniques. Since being established in 2016 the BSMU MTT has proven to be a valuable tool for the awareness raising as well as capacity building for the phenomenon of FTFs.
From 6 to 10 December, in co-operation with the OSCE Mission to Bosnia and Herzegovina, TNTD/BSMU held a training course on identifying forged travel documents for instructors at the Agency for Education and Professional Training of the Ministry of Security of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The course, held in-person in Mostar, gathered 12 participants (3 women; 9 men) from the Agency and the Border Police, who focused on the travel document manufacturing process, security features, forgery methods, and specialized equipment to detect forgeries. With this initiative, TNTD/BSMU is contributing to the development of national capacities in Bosnia and Herzegovina related to the fight against document and identity fraud, in line with human-rights standards and procedures. Trained representatives will act as trainers for their fellow colleagues, thus ensuring ownership by the beneficiaries and long-term sustainability.

On 17 December, TNTD/BSMU supported the organization of the first online meeting of the newly-established Eastern European IWG on Passenger Data. The launch meeting has significantly increased cross-border, cross-regional co-operation and mutual support in the development of API/PNR systems with a solid agenda for 2022. In the long term, the partnerships stemming from this new group will advance day-to-day information sharing and technical co-operation, and will significantly increase travel security across the OSCE area. TNTD/BSMU will serve as the Secretariat of the group, whereas the funding will be provided by the UNOCT.

Introduction

The Programme for Gender Issues (the Programme) within the OSCE Office of the Secretary General (OSG) supports OSCE participating States in implementing activities aimed at preventing and combating gender-based violence, as well as in preparing National Action Plans to implement the UNSCR 1325 on Women, Peace and Security.

Activities Related to General Police Development and Reform

Gender-based Violence

The 2019 OSCE-led survey on Violence against Women found that the percentage of women reporting to the police their experience of intimate partner violence is very low. As a follow-up to the recommendations of the OSCE-led survey, the Programme initiated a mapping exercise of police and justice sectors training curricula in South-Eastern Europe. Therefore, within the framework of the WIN project, in 2021 the Programme mapped existing training modules for the law enforcement and justice sectors in South-Eastern Europe to identify good practices, gaps, and lessons learned.

In November, draft findings were presented during an online roundtable meeting, gathering 66 participants (58 women; 8 men) from the law enforcement and justice sectors in South-Eastern Europe. Participants agreed that combating violence against women and girls needs to be a priority in police and judiciary training curricula and stressed the importance of a multi-sectoral approach and impact-based evaluations of trainings. The mapping exercise and the expert discussion provided a critical baseline that will guide the work of OSCE executive structures in preventing and combating violence against women and girls across the OSCE area. The final report is set to be published in 2022.

3.2 Office of the Special Representative and Co-ordinator for Combating Trafficking in Human Beings

Introduction

In line with MC Decisions No. 02/03 and No. 3/06, the Office of the Special Representative and Co-ordinator for Combating Trafficking in Human Beings (OSR/CTHB) is mandated to address all forms of THB, to ensure the co-ordination of the OSCE’s efforts in combating THB across all three dimensions and to act as a focal point for the OSCE’s efforts in this area. In 2021, the OSR/CTHB continued its efforts to support OSCE participating States and Partners for Co-operation in preventing and prosecuting human trafficking and protecting its victims in line with the OSCE anti-trafficking commitments and recommendations set forth in the 2003 OSCE Action Plan to Combat Trafficking in Human Beings and its 2005 and 2013 Addenda, particularly through policy recommendations and capacity-building.

In 2021, the OSR/CTHB further intensified its exchanges with the OSCE field operations, especially with the counter-trafficking focal points. These engagements were instrumental for strategic planning and concrete activities such as workshops and conferences, and wider capacity-building activities such as the national simulation-based exercises organized in Albania, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, and Ukraine in 2021. The OSR/CTHB co-operation with ODIHR, TNTD, the OSG/Programme for Gender Issues, Department of Management and Finance/Procurement and other OSCE Secretariat teams has deepened, which has resulted in shared planning and a number of co-ordinated activities.

Activities Related to Threats Posed by Criminal Activity

Trafficking in Human Beings

From 22 to 25 March and from 12 to 14 July, respectively online and in-person, the OSR/CTHB and OSCE PA, in co-operation with OSCE Mission to Bosnia and Herzegovina conducted an official visit to Bosnia and Herzegovina to assess the risks of trafficking in mixed migration flows. During the visit, the discussions focused on ways to improve the identification of and assistance to victims of trafficking among migrants, refugees and asylum seekers transiting the country. The OSCE delegation also called for strengthening national, regional and international co-operation to dismantle international trafficking networks and provide support to victims of human trafficking in a coherent, durable and humane way.

On 14 April and 16 December, the OSR/CTHB facilitated meetings of the Alliance Expert Co-ordination Team (AECT), including INTERPOL and Europol, gathering 72 participants (48 women; 24 men). The meetings focused on strategic medium-term anti-trafficking priorities of the AECT members, the role of technology in preventing and responding to THB, addressing the vulnerabilities of victims of trafficking and enhancing national strategies to combat THB.

On 27 and 28 April, within the OSR/CTHB project titled Responding to Technology-Facilitated Trafficking in Human Beings, the OSCE and its Asian Partners for Co-operation organized a roundtable on combating technology-facilitated THB in Central Asia and across the OSCE Asian Partners for Co-operation, namely Afghanistan, Australia, Japan, Republic of Korea, and Thailand. Roundtable participants discussed the misuse of technology in these regions, especially when traffickers advertise victims of sexual exploitation, including children, on online platforms. The event gathered 171 national and international practitioners (89 women; 82 men) working on combating THB and representatives of international organizations and law enforcement agencies such as INTERPOL, Europol, and the United States Depart-
On 26 May, the OSR/CTHB launched its Occasional Paper Applying Gender-Sensitive Approaches in Combating Trafficking in Human Beings. Based on findings from a multi-method research project, including surveys, expert interviews, and expert group meetings, the study explores a range of gender aspects that are often not addressed in existing prevention, protection, and prosecution strategies aimed at combating THB. At the same time, the publication provides a basis for policy development and better implementation of gender-sensitive approaches.

On 28 May, the OSR/CTHB released the Russian translation of its publication Following the Money: Compendium of Resources and Step-by-step Guide to Financial Investigations into Trafficking in Human Beings. The publication categorizes more than 600 indicators and typologies of human trafficking and outlines a list of steps needed to establish a framework for successful financial investigations.

From 14 to 16 June, the OSR/CTHB organized its 21st Conference of the Alliance against Trafficking in Persons entitled Confronting Demand: Tackling a Root Cause of Trafficking in Human Beings. The three-day event, held in a blended format, gathered 828 participants (577 women; 251 men) from OSCE participating States and Partners for Co-operation, international organizations, and NGOs which are partners in the Alliance against Trafficking in Persons, as well as CS, media, the private sector, academia and relevant professional networks of national anti-trafficking practitioners. Participants discussed policies and tools to address demand as a means of prevention – and specifically discourage the demand that fosters trafficking for the purposes of labour and sexual exploitation as a core, long-term strategy towards ending human trafficking. A special OSR/CTHB side-event put a spotlight on the demand that fosters trafficking in children.

On 15 June, on the margins of the 21st Alliance against Trafficking in Persons Conference, the OSR/CTHB launched its Occasional Paper Discouraging the Demand that Fosters Trafficking for the Purpose of Sexual Exploitation. The publication sheds light on the importance of addressing the demand that fosters trafficking for sexual exploitation, in particular the exploitation of the prostitution of others; highlights the role of demand in encouraging exploitation and causing harm to victims; outlines the scope of the international obligations and commitments of States to discourage demand; analyses the ways in which States have responded to these obligations and commitments in their criminal justice and prevention practices; and finally, offers recommendations on how to better incorporate demand into national efforts.

On 17 June, jointly with the OSCE Presence in Albania, the OSR/CTHB organized a conference on joint efforts to combat THB in Albania, focused on promoting partnerships and a multi-agency approach to enhance co-operation in addressing THB. Representatives of central and local government institutions, parliament, judiciary and law-enforcement bodies, the international community, CS, and academia discussed the importance of strengthening a human rights-based and victim-centred approach in all anti-trafficking actions.

On 7 July, jointly with the OSCE Mission to Bosnia and Herzegovina, the OSR/CTHB organized a webinar for 31 Border Police officers (7 women; 24 men) from Bosnia and Herzegovina working on THB and human smuggling. The discussions aimed at increasing the capacity of first line responders to screen and address vulnerabilities of the migrant population and underlined the need to identify and assist victims of trafficking among migrants and asylum seekers, irrespective of the country of exploitation or country of destination.

On 9 July, the OSR/CTHB launched its publication Trafficking in Human Beings and Terrorism: Where and How They Intersect. The research paper reviews normative and policy frameworks governing actions against THB and terrorism, provides an in-depth look at the aspects of THB used by terrorist groups, discusses key principles in anti-trafficking responses and the complexity of their application in the context, and offers targeted recommendations to assist participating States in addressing THB committed by terrorist groups.

On 14 July and 9 December, in partnership with the International Organization for Judicial Training, the European Judiciary Training Network and the International Association of Judges, the OSR/CTHB conducted expert meetings on building the capacity of the judiciary in combating THB. The 3rd Capacity Building Expert Meeting gathered 39 participants (28 women; 11 men), while the 4th Capacity Building Expert Meeting gathered a total of 41 participants (27 women; 14 men). Based on the finding of the surveys aimed at assessing the availability, the frequency and the scope of THB-related trainings for the judiciary as well as the outcomes of the meetings, the partners initiated the development of a model skills-based training module on combating THB that judicial academies can adapt and integrate into their national curricula.

On 20 July, the OSR/CTHB held a roundtable with international organizations and CSOs to conduct a landscape assessment of initiatives on financial flows related to THB. During the event, gathering 13 participants (6 women; 7 men), the OSR/CTHB presented the findings of its survey that mapped the existing initiatives and fostered dialogue on how to enhance information exchange and improve the harmonization of financial investigatory strategies and tactics to detect and dismantle THB networks.

On 19, 23 and 24 August, jointly with ODIHR, the OSR/CTHB organized informal expert consultations on the impact on and response to trafficking in persons belonging to ethnic, national and religious minorities. Bringing together 45 participants (39 women; 6 men), among whom were survivor leaders and experts from the CS as well as representatives of international organizations and academia, the events aimed at discussing existing research, policies and practices that recognize the nexus between THB and discrimination based on race and ethnicity, including as a vulnerability and risk factor, as well as an obstacle to the delivery of protection and justice to victims.

From 27 September to 1 October, the OSR/CTHB conducted a five-part webinar series aiming to equip 26 criminal justice professionals (15 women; 11 men), primarily investigators and prosecutors, with tools to better understand and apply a victim-centred, trauma-informed, gender-sensitive and human rights-focused approach to the prosecution of human trafficking cases.

On 8 and 9 November, the OSR/CTHB hosted a roundtable discussion on effective prosecution strategies. The event gathered 16 participants (7 women; 9 men), among whom were prosecutors, law enforcement officers, lawyers, and experts from ten countries, who shared experiences on victim-centered approaches to evidential issues around victim consent in law and practice and worked on a fictitious scenario involving labour trafficking. Participants also took part in a mock trial to improve their skills in countering consent-based defense arguments, thus enhancing prosecution efforts in cases where the victim’s consent is obtained by subtle forms of coercion, such as through the abuse of vulnerability.

On 15 and 16 November, jointly with the CoE, the OSR/CTHB organized the annual meeting of National Anti-Trafficking Co-ordinators and Rapporteurs or equivalent mechanisms. The meeting, gathering 161 participants (91 women; 70 men) from all OSCE participating States and three Partners for Co-operation, sought to identify joint actions in addressing current human trafficking-related challenges in the region and foster the implementation of relevant OSCE and CoE commitments. A particular focus was placed on THB for labour exploitation, ways to support and assist victims of trafficking independent of the criminal justice process, and mechanisms to maximize national anti-trafficking responses such as National Action Plans and National Anti-Trafficking Rapporteurs.

On 29 November, together with the United Kingdom Independent Anti-Slavery Commissioner and the Finance against Slavery and Trafficking, the OSR/CTHB facilitated a roundtable discussion with the financial services sector, financial intelligence units, and anti-trafficking agencies to encourage NGOs, and lawyers practiced a multi-disciplinary response to tackle complex cases of human trafficking, while ensuring a victim-centred and human rights-based approach. Participants were also encouraged to promote better judicial co-operation, for example by engaging Eurojust in the operations. The simulation also introduced new elements to reflect at best current trends in human trafficking, for example how to tackle online sexual exploitation.
proactive investigation of human trafficking financial flows by financial service providers. The roundtable, gathering 74 representatives (34 women; 40 men) from 12 participating States, resulted in the production of a Joint Statement on the Critical Role of the Financial Sector in Combating Trafficking in Human Beings and Modern-day Slavery⁹, issued by the three partner organizations and joined by ten other organizations and experts.

In 2021, the OSR/CTHB conducted country visits to Bulgaria (22-24 June) and France (28 June - 2 July), as well as official visits to Bosnia and Herzegovina, Liechtenstein, Serbia, Spain, Sweden, the United Kingdom, and the United States. Through consultations with government authorities, parliamentarians, law enforcement agencies, judiciary and CS, these visits enabled the Special Representative to highlight the anti-trafficking agenda at the highest levels of government, identify good practices, share knowledge and lessons learned with participating States, as well as to provide technical assistance when appropriate.

During 2021, the OSR/CTHB supported the Inter-Agency Coordination Group against Trafficking in Persons (ICAT), in developing a number of issue brief papers, including on Trafficking in Persons for the Purpose of Organ Removal¹⁰. The issue briefs, which represent the collective output of ICAT’s 27 entities, provide recommendations for States and practitioners on how to tackle particularly challenging issues related to THB.

Community Policing, Police–Public Relations and Crime Prevention

Local Safety Councils

The establishment of LSCs in Albania, as co-ordinating mechanisms for matters of security at the local level, presents the opportunity for local institutions to co-ordinate their efforts more effectively in emergencies.

On 4 March, the Presence organized an online meeting to present the findings of the evaluation report conducted during 2020 on LSCs in six targeted municipalities. From 8 to 11 September, the Presence supported a training course in the framework of TNTD/ATU’s and UNODC’s multi-year programme on CFT. The course, held in Pogradec, gathered 21 participants (7 women; 14 men) from the ASP, State Intelligence Service, and the AFIU. Two international (men) and five national trainers (3 women; 2 men) delivered the course, which covered the topics of disruption cycle-understanding and analysis, functional analysis and vulnerability analysis, disruption planning audit process, and predictive analysis. An additional purpose of the training was to establish a network of experts from different national agencies and foster collaboration in the field of CFT.

On 14 October, jointly with the National Coordination Center on CVE, the Presence organized a regional conference on the role of women in countering violent extremism in the Western Balkans. The conference, held in a blended format, brought together 64 participants (49 women; 15 men), CVE co-ordinators, relevant women organizations, and professionals and policy makers from Albania, Austria, Italy, Montenegro, North Macedonia, and the United Kingdom. Participants from Kosovo also attended. The Conference allowed regional actors to discuss the gender dynamics in violent extremism and radicalization in the region with the overall aim to create better and more gender-sensitive responses to VERLT.

Cybercrime and Cyber/ICT Security

On 29 June, in support of the country’s efforts in the fight against cybercrime, the Presence organized a workshop on the prevention and investigation of cybercrimes. The event, held in Tirana in a blended format, gathered 35 participants (6 women; 29 men), among whom the Head of the Presence, the Deputy Minister of Interior, representatives from the ASP, the SA, the National Authority for Electronic Certification and Cyber Security, the Directorate for the Security of Classified Information, the State Intelligence Service, and representatives of regional law enforcement agencies from Croatia, Kosovo, North Macedonia as well as Europol, diplomatic missions in Albania, and OSCE field operations in the region. The main objective of the workshop was to discuss the latest developments in the prevention of cybercrime, to share best practices on national policies tackling cybercrime and improve international co-operation in investigation of cybercrime cases. The workshop also allowed for an exchange of practices among law enforcement agencies in the region and provided a forum for police liaison officers accredited in Tirana to present their work in facilitating investigations of cybercrime cases initiated by their respective authorities.

Border Security and Management/Customs

On 2 and 3 November, to support the newly launched Regional Anti-Corruption Platform for Internal Oversight of Border Police Agencies from Western Balkans, Ukraine and Moldova, the Presence facilitated the participation of the Albanian members of the platform, representing the Service for Internal Control and Complaints of the Moli and the customs administration, to the Annual Meeting of the OSCE-supported Regional Anti-Corruption Platform organized by TNTD/BSMU, in Vienna.

On 16 June, the Presence donated ICT equipment to the Albanian BMP. The donation includes 12 laptops, 11 multimedia projectors, eight multi-functional printers and 11 projection screens, which were distributed among seven Regional Directorates of the BMP and three Border Police Commissariats to enhance the training capacities of the police.

In 2021, in response to the challenges of irregular migration in the region, periodic co-ordination meetings have taken place between Albanian institutions, the Presence, UN High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), IOM and other relevant organizations. In particular, jointly with UNHCR, the Presence has supported the Albanian Government to revise the procedures for the treatment of irregular migrants in order to enable an approach integrating law enforcement with social protection.

Introduction

The OSCE Mission to Bosnia and Herzegovina (the Mission) remained highly engaged in several police-related activities in 2021, despite the lack of a specific programme or unit dedicated to police matters. The Mission's comprehensive support to the security sector aims at enhancing the capacities of law enforcement agencies and police officials, as well as at fostering inter-agency co-operation and multi-sectoral partnership. Law enforcement representatives actively took part, contributed and benefited from activities and efforts aimed to enhance their operations.

 The Mission does not have a separate Department on Police-Related Activities.
Key priority areas in supporting police modernization continue to be preventing and combating terrorism and VERLT, control of SALW, border security, THB, corruption, hate crimes, and domestic violence. Consistent with OSCE and international standards, the Mission also assisted law enforcement agencies and institutions in improving cyber security, promoting gender equality, gender mainstreaming, and ethnic diversity, and ensuring freedom of assembly.

Activities Related to General Police Development and Reform

Police Development and Reform

In 2021, owing to close collaboration with the Mission and TNTD/SPMU, the Republika Srpska MoI Administration for Police Training officially joined and registered as a new member of the OSCE’s PAN. The Republika Srpska MoI Police Academy, within the Administration for Police Training, is among the most important police training institutions in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Furthermore, a regular procedure for dissemination of invitations for training and education events by the TNTD/SPMU to relevant organizational structures of the Republika Srpska MoI has been agreed with its International Co-operation Department. Apart from the direct benefit to the Republika Srpska MoI and its training structures, this development will strengthen the impact of future Mission engagements in police-related activities as well as for wider OSCE undertakings in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Throughout 2021, the Mission participated in a series of consultations concerning the amendments to the Law on the Brčko District (BD) Police adopted in late 2020. The amended provisions contravened the essential principles of independence, transparency, and merit-based appointment proceedings of key managerial positions in the BD Police by bypassing recruitment procedures through the independent police board. The Mission contributed to advocacy efforts that resulted in the repeal of the problematic amendments by the BD Assembly in April 2021. Moreover, this effectively illustrates the value of a co-ordinated approach by international actors in providing sustained support to the independence and integrity of law enforcement system and functions at all levels of authority in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

In 2021, the Mission finalized and registered a five-year ExB project aimed at bolstering the effectiveness of law enforcement in Bosnia and Herzegovina to combat serious crimes and threats to security by further improving an ILP approach to policing. The project will help systemically develop and standardize an ILP model in police agencies, promote and develop coherent policies, guidelines and structures, provide IT equipment and enhance coherence, develop stronger co-ordination and information exchange mechanisms, and support overall training capacity skills at all organizational levels. As a modern approach to law enforcement, ILP prompted law enforcement agencies to expand the intelligence-led proactive methodology used to address serious and organized crime to all areas of police management. ILP will help highly fragmented and decentralized law enforcement agencies in Bosnia and Herzegovina to strengthen their organization and human resources to tackle serious security threats more effectively. This would also improve the quality of operational co-operation with INTERPOL, Europol, and foreign law enforcement agencies, and thus contribute to successful international investigations and police operations. The Mission has prepared and conducted several fundraising activities to secure resources for the project.

On 11 March, the Mission organized and delivered a training course on freedom of expression and co-operation between police and the media for 140 police cadets attending the Republika Srpska Police Academy in Banja Luka (9 women; 131 men). The training course covered international human rights standards in the field of freedom of expression, media freedoms and the OSCE Guidelines for Co-operation between Media and Police.

On 6 and 8 April, the Mission delivered online introductory courses for cadets at the Republika Srpska Police Academy on the use of ILP and criminal intelligence in police operations. Two groups of 150 police cadets (10 women; 140 men) improved their understanding of the criminal intelligence cycle, from initial collection of information, its analysis, and subsequent lawful use for crime prevention and investigation. The Mission also presented the essential features of ILP as a modern, proactive concept of police management and strategic response to the emerging threats to security and serious crime.

In August 2021, the Mission supported the organization of the annual Police Summer School in BD, dedicated to the topic of youth and security. Amongst other topics covered during the three-day event, the Mission presented on freedom of peaceful assembly and freedom of expression for 39 participants (23 women; 16 men).

12 The project was developed based on the findings and recommendations of the corresponding ILP needs assessment conducted in 2019.

On 14 September, the Mission delivered a training course for 25 senior police officials (3 women; 22 men) in BD on the implementation of the new BD Law on Peaceful Assembly. The training course focused on practical aspects of the international human rights standards in the field of freedom of peaceful assembly and best practices identified in the OSCE area.

On 2 December, the Mission supported a training activity for 15 police officials and local media representatives (3 women; 12 men) on the revised OSCE Guidelines for Co-operation between Media and Police. The event focused on practical aspects and situations where journalists and police interact, and concluded with an agreement to produce pocket-size editions of the Guidelines for easy reference in fieldwork.

Throughout 2021, the Mission co-operated with the MoI in Canton 10 and Canton Sarajevo in developing the new laws on peaceful assemblies by participating in meetings of the WGs that prepared the drafts as well as by providing comments to the drafts. It is expected that both laws will be adopted in 2022.

Gender Mainstreaming

In 2021, the Mission’s Gender and Youth Unit supported the role and visibility of the Bosnia and Herzegovina Association Network of Women Police Officers by co-organizing a series of events. This includes a general gender-training course for women police officials of the Sarajevo Canton MoI, attended by 28 women, the annual assembly of the association, and a training course for enrolment in peacekeeping missions, both attended by 26 women police officers. The Mission also supported an annual assembly meeting of the Republika Srpska Association Network of Women Police Officers that gathered 30 members (women).

In the course of marking the 16 Days of Activism against Gender-based violence and the White Ribbon Campaign, the Mission agreed with the management of the Republika Srpska MoI Police Academy to share white ribbons amongst staff and cadets. The Academy organized a lecture on the importance of the campaign and distributed pinned white ribbons to about 400 cadets and academy staff (40 women; 360 men).

Gender-based Violence

On 23 and 25 March, the Mission delivered two online lectures to 346 cadets (24 women; 322 men) of the Republika Srpska MoI Police Academy. The lectures focused on the police competencies and duties envisaged by the Republika Srpska Law on Protection from Domestic Violence.

On 30 November and 1 December, during the UN’s 16 Days of Activism against Gender-Based Violence campaign, the Mission hosted a workshop on victim-centric approaches to prosecuting domestic violence. Some 36 participants (26 women; 9 men), among whom were law enforcement and justice sector representatives, and social welfare actors, engaged in structured and open discussions, during which they addressed issues that arise when responding to reports of domestic violence. They also took part in a practical exercise that helped sensitize them to the needs and experiences of victims and survivors. Participants also began identifying possible interventions to improve responses to domestic violence. Potential entry points include multi-sectoral co-operation, case law harmonisation, social reintegration, psychosocial support for perpetrators, psychologists in basic/municipal courts, compensation for victims and survivors, and the collection of material evidence.

Hate Crime

In October, the newly appointed National Point of Contact for Hate Crimes (NPoCHC) submitted a 2020 report on hate crimes and bias-motivated incidents to be included in OSCE/ODIHR 2020 Annual Hate Crimes Report. As previously reported, the Bosnia and Herzegovina MoD appointed the NPoCHC following the Mission’s successful advocacy in 2020. Noting the need for improved quality of the data, the submission of the report promotes the recording and case-tracking system of incidents.

On 23 February, the Mission organized an event for police officials and prosecutors in Canton Sarajevo on hate crimes and incitement to hatred. The event, gathering 20 participants (6 women; 14 men), contributed to building capacity of police and prosecution to investigate and prosecute hate crimes cases.

On 30 March and 1 April, the Mission delivered online introductory presentations for two groups of 150 police cadets (10 women; 140 men) of the Republika Srpska MoI Police Academy as part of their training curriculum.

On 28 May, the Mission participated in a blended event and presented its monitoring findings in relation to bias-motivated incidents against the LGBTI15 community in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The workshop was organized within the project on improving efficiency of courts and prosecutors’ offices in Bosnia and Herzegovina16 and the Sarajevo Open Centre, an LGBTI NGO, gathering 41 participants (31 women; 10 men) from the judiciary, police and CS.

On 3 December, in co-operation with the Republika Srpska Judicial and Prosecutorial Training Centre and the BD Judicial Commission, the Mission co-organized a seminar for police officials and prosecutors on hate crimes and incitement to hatred. Police officials from the BD Police and Republika Srpska MoI of Brčko District in Bosnia and Herzegovina as well as prosecutors from the Bijeljina District Prosecutor’s Office and the BD Prosecutor’s Office attended the event (5 women; 10 men).

On 23 November, the Mission supported a delivery of the Annual Regional Hate Crimes Conference, held in a blended format, gathering field operations’ staff and stakeholders from South-Eastern Europe. The conference focused on the victims of hate crimes, and addressed different aspects of their protection and support. Some 70 representatives (38 women; 32 men) from the police, judiciary and CS attended the event.

The awareness-raising activities in 2021 continued to focus on developing resources for sharing knowledge and raising awareness. To address the low number and quality of reports on bias-motivated incidents and hate crimes, on 4 March, the Mission officially launched and widely distributed a Report Hate Crimes Leaflet17 both online and in the print form. The leaflet provides definitions of incidents, explains impact on the victims and provides guidance on ways to report incidents to the police. The NPoCHC and the Ministry of Security (MoS) supported the launch and distribution of the leaflet as a unique awareness-raising tool in Bosnia and Herzegovina. To complement the leaflet, the Mission also developed a pocket-size booklet entailing indicators for identification of bias-motivated incidents that will be shared with police and other stakeholders.

Activities Related to Threats Posed by Criminal Activity

Organized Crime

Small Arms and Light Weapons

In 2021, the Mission supported the development of the 2021-2024 BiH SALW Control Strategy and the corresponding Action Plan, adopted in February by the Bosnia and Herzegovina Council of Ministers (CoM). During the same month, the Mission also assisted the Bosnia and Herzegovina MoS with the organization of a meeting of the BiH SALW Co-ordination Board. The event promoted Una-Sana Canton’s good practice development of the Law on Firearms to advance harmonization with the UN Firearms Protocol and the EU Firearms Directives18 in the other Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina cantons.

In May, the Mission organized and delivered a training course for the Republika Srpska MoI K9 Unit on detection of SALW and explosives. Seven police officials (men) learned about the structure, capacity and plans for detecting firearms and explosives by the K9 Unit.

On 28 October, the Mission supported the organization of a regular meeting of the BiH SALW Co-ordination Board, gathering representatives of the Bosnia and Herzegovina MoS, State law enforcement agencies and cantonal MoIs (11 women; 31 men). The meeting focused on the implementation of the BiH SALW Control Strategy, including the process of harmonization of cantonal laws on firearms. The Mission also took the opportunity to present a draft gender-monitoring framework aimed to monitor and evaluate gender aspects of SALW projects in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

As part of implementation of the BiH SALW Control Strategy and the Roadmap for a Sustainable Solution to the Illegal Possession, Misuse and Trafficking of SALW and their Ammunition in the Western Balkans by 2024, the Mission has begun implementing the ExB project Addressing security and safety risks of illegal possession, misuse and trafficking of SALW and their ammunition in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The project is focused on five priority areas: (i) improving SALW and ammunition storage capacity of law enforcement agencies; (ii) increasing institutional awareness on SALW control; (iii) strengthening K9 capabilities of law enforcement

In May, the Bosnia and Herzegovina CoM established a WG for drafting the proposals of the 2021-2026 BiH Strategy for Preventing and Combating Terrorism (CT Strategy) and its Action Plan. The WG consists of security and non-security actors, as well as CS, in line with whole-of-government and whole-of-society approaches to P/C VERLT. Following the request of the Bosnia and Herzegovina MoS, the Mission supported the development of draft materials for the Strategy, particularly focusing on development of the methodology, prevention measures, clear and tangible objectives, as well as impact and performance indicators. Due to political blockage, the WG did not meet until November 2021.

On 7 and 8 July, the Mission organized a roundtable jointly with the Bosnia and Herzegovina MoS, on countering the financing of terrorism pertaining to the non-profit sector, to support the implementation of the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) recommendation 8. The event gathered 32 participants (8 women; 24 men), including policymakers, prosecutors, law enforcement, financial institutions and the non-profit sector. During the event, participants discussed the current situation in Bosnia and Herzegovina regarding the misuse of non-profit sector, relevant FATF recommendations and existing legislation in Bosnia and Herzegovina, as well as possible ways forward to regulate this field and mitigate the risk of misuse.

From 13 to 15 October, jointly with the Bosnia and Herzegovina MoS and the NGO Atlantic Initiative, the Mission organized a thematic workshop for institutions representatives to help inform the development of the new CT Strategy. The Mission used the event, gathering 36 participants (19 women; 17 men), to define priorities in addressing challenges in the field of prevention and the fight against violent extremism as well as the subject of FTFs. It also worked to help identify objectives and measures that will strengthen the prevention pillar of the new Strategy. The WG, composed of representatives from all levels of authority, reconvened its work on developing strategic priorities and actionable measures. The final draft of the Strategy is expected in the first quarter of 2022.

In November, to support the efforts of the authorities to develop effective and sustainable rehabilitation and reintegration (R&R) measures, the Mission organized a follow-up workshop with trainers of the specialized training programme on R&R, benefitting 22 participants (17 women; 5 men). The workshop resulted in a set of recommendations aimed to adapt the training programme for other sectors, to establish better multi-stakeholder networks at cantonal and local levels, and to promote multi-sectoral training courses and teamwork. The conclusions were shared with the State-level co-ordinating team tasked with developing systems and procedures for the return and reception of citizens of Bosnia and Herzegovina from conflict zones in Syria and Iraq.

On 23 November, jointly with the RACVIAC Centre for Security Cooperation, the Mission organized a conference on media, terrorism and FTFs. The conference took place in Rakiti, Croatia, gathering 33 representatives (13 women; 20 men) of governmental institutions and security agencies, the media, and CSOs from the Western Balkans. In addressing the threat of terrorism through the abuse of digital platforms, the conference emphasized the need for greater co-operation with tech companies, and the value of awareness-raising campaigns.

Trafficking in Human Beings

On 7 July, in response to a direct request from Bosnia and Herzegovina authorities and in co-operation with OSR/CTHB, the Mission organized a webinar on combating THB for Bosnia and Herzegovina Border Police. A total of 31 Border Police officials (7 women; 24 men) improved their knowledge on essential differences between THB and smuggling of persons.

In October, the Mission organized a webinar for Bosnia and Herzegovina Border Police on identification of vulnerable migrants, with a focus on minors. A total of 31 investigators and Border Police officers (7 women; 24 men) discussed legal criteria for identifying vulnerable categories and relevant human rights principles, the application of the do-no-harm principle, and referral procedures for identification of migrant minors. The webinar also focused on regional and international experiences, and co-operation in investigating the criminal offence of smuggling of minors. Participants expressed the need for increasing organizational, technical and human capacities of Border Police to ensure full compliance with relevant international principles and procedures.

On 19 and 20 October, the Mission organized a two-day peer-to-peer workshop on the experiences and challenges in processing criminal cases involving migrants, refugees, and asylum seekers. The workshop gathered 15 participants (11 women; 4 men), including judges, prosecutors, and representatives from the respective MoIs and the Service for Foreigners Affairs’ branch offices, from Una-Sana Canton and Tuzla Canton. Participants examined the unique challenges presented during criminal proceedings involving members of the mixed migration community. This includes the establishment of identity, the appointment of ex officio defence counsel, the availability and use of translators, and the need for multi-sectoral responses. Participants also identified the need for additional support on these issues, and the Mission agreed to facilitate the continued sharing of information and experience.

Cybercrime and Cyber/ICT Security

In April, the Mission organized a training activity on combating cybercrime for 150 police cadets (10 women; 140 men) from the Republika Srpska MoI Police Academy.

On 24 June, the Mission organized a training course for law enforcement agencies in Bosnia and Herzegovina to strengthen their capacities to combat cybercrime and cyber-enabled crime. The training course benefited a total of 38 participants (5 women; 33 men) from the State Investigation and Protection Agency, the Directorate for Co-ordination of Police Bodies, cantonal police agencies, and cadets from the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Police Academy. Participants gained knowledge and skills on the basics of cryptography and hash functions, the acquisition of digital evidence, as well as on receiving applications, hearing witnesses, compiling reports, obtaining orders, and communicating with partners in Bosnia and Herzegovina and abroad. Trainers also presented the basis of criminal offenses against electronic data processing systems and networks within the current legal framework.

Border Security and Management / Customs

From 8 to 10 September, jointly with the NGO Centre against Trafficking in Works of Art, the Mission facilitated an introductory training course for 14 law enforcement officials (4 women; 10 men) on countering trafficking in cultural property. The Mission successfully advocated for integration of the training course into the official curriculum of the Bosnia and Herzegovina Agency for Education and Professional Training, to ensure sustainable capacity to effectively train security sector personnel on the prevention and investigation of this crime and its proceeds.

From 29 November to 1 December, jointly with TNTD/BSMU, the Mission organized an interactive three-day training course on the identification of FTFs at the borders for 22 first- and second-line Bosnia and Herzegovina border and immigration officers (4 women; 18 men). Participants improved their knowledge on relevant legal frameworks, effective use of INTERPOL databases, API/PNR systems, travel document security, as well as risk analysis and management in the identification of potential FTFs at borders. They also benefited from guidance on detecting behavioural indicators of FTFs and interviewing techniques.

From 6 to 9 December, in collaboration with TNTD/BSMU, the Mission organized a four-day ToT course for 12 instructors (3 women; 9 men) of the Bosnia and Herzegovina Agency for Education and Professional Training, aiming to bolster their skills in developing travel documents, including security features and forgery methods, using specialized equipment for detecting forgeries. Further to delivering the training course, the Mission and TNTD/BSMU plan to finalize the donation of equipment for identification of falsified documents to the Agency, to be used in future trainings for cadets and border officers.
Other activities

In November and December, jointly with the Republika Srpska MoJ, the Mission organized three training courses on audit reports of public institutions for police officers, public prosecutors, and expert associates, gathering in total 30 participants (9 women; 21 men). The training courses focused on developing new expertise of prosecutors and police officers in understanding and using the Republika Srpska Audit Office reports, and resulted in strengthened co-operation between the Republika Srpska Audit Agency, Republika Srpska Ministry of Justice, prosecutors, and the police. Participants emphasized the need for developing a glossary of relevant terms used in audit reports that should assist law enforcement and prosecutors when processing cases deriving from findings of audit reports.

In 1999, the OSCE was mandated with training the new police service of Kosovo to uphold human rights and democratic policing principles. To do so, the Mission’s Department of Police Education and Development (DPED) created an institution called the Kosovo Police Service School (KPSS) that in 2006 evolved into the Kosovo Centre for Public Safety Education and Development (KCPSED) and in 2011 into the Kosovo Academy for Public Safety (KAPS). In order to better reflect the broader context of its programmes in justice, safety and security sector development, the DPED itself became the Department for Security and Public Safety (DSPS) in 2006.

Based on the needs and requests of its beneficiaries, in 2021 the DSPS continued to offer capacity-building, strategic, advisory and technical support to public safety institutions, with a view to advancing their overall performance in providing security and safety, as well as to assist them in managing the consequences of the COVID-19 pandemic. It conducted unified budget and extra-budgetary project activities consisting of specialized and advanced training, seminars, workshops and roundtables. The activities of the DSPS focused on strengthening the capacities of the MoIA and its security sector institutions, as well as other public safety institutions and fora to prevent and counter transnational threats and promote overall safety. These activities targeted organized crime, cybercrime, terrorism and violent extremism and radicalization, THB, illicit narcotics, domestic violence, hate crime and enhancement of communication, community policing and community safety infrastructure. In addition, the DSPS continued to contribute to drafting and reviewing strategic documents of public safety institutions, with the intent of enhancing the overall security sector.

The DSPS also utilizes its field presence in five Mission’s regional offices to monitor cases in the public’s attention, as well as the human rights compliance of the Kosovo Police (KP), with a particular focus on promoting appropriate police responses to cases of hate crimes and public assemblies. It additionally uses its field staff to advice and advocate for local and municipal safety mechanisms, and to sensitize these mechanisms to contribute more to the safety in their localities. Additionally, in its activities related to the advancement of community rights, the Mission’s Department of Human Rights and Communities also co-operates with the police and undertook a number of relevant activities in 2021.

Activities Related to General Police Development and Reform

Police Development and Reform within Security Sector Reform

From 1 to 3 February, the Mission organized an in-person workshop in Pejë/Péć on finalizing the KP Strategic Development Plan 2021-2025. This event gathered 22 local and international interlocutors (1 woman; 21 men) members of the WG. The Strategic Development Plan is a crucial strategic document that will assist the KP in its development and growth for the next five years and outline current deficiencies, while helping the Mission and other stakeholders in the planning of future activities.

From 23 to 25 March, the Mission facilitated a three-day workshop and provided expertise in drafting the Kosovo Probation Service (KPS) Regulation on Internal Organization and Systematization of Workplaces. The WG, consisting of 12 senior probations service managers and representatives (5 women; 7 men) of the Mission, the EU Rule of Law Mission in Kosovo (EULEX) and ICITAP, drafted a version of the regulation, which lays out the structure of the KPS, its roles and responsibilities, as well as its chain of communication and command. Moreover, in line with the changing trends in the area of safety and security, the WG also focused on the establishment of a special supervisory unit, primarily tasked to perform probation work with individuals associated with violent extremism and radicalization.

On 24 March, the Mission organized and delivered a course on media relations to 16 officers (3 women; 13 men) of the Kosovo Correctional Service (KCS), the Emergency Management Agency (EMA) and Customs, within the framework of their first line supervision training course at the KAPS. Through scenario-based exercises, participants learned about the importance of building a strong working relationship with the media and how to meet their information needs.
at best by using a proactive approach. Since the communication between these agencies and the media and the public is centralized, the event helped understanding that professional communication is a crucial component in accurately informing the public about their work and achievements.

On 2 April, as a member of the WG, the Mission took part in the final review of the Kosovo Agency on Forensics (KAF) Development Strategy and Action Plan 2016-2020, and contributed to the evaluation of strategic objectives and implementation of the Action Plan. The WG, consisting of eight participants (men), concluded that the assessment of the overall four-year strategic cycle is successful and ascertained 80% of activities were implemented.

On 7 May, the Mission equipped the KAF with ten laptop computers to assist them in conducting effective evidence examination, and enable the development of the capacities of KAF staff members through online training courses, seminars and workshops.

From 22 to 25 June, with the aim to support public safety institutions’ compliance with the Law on the Use of Languages, the Mission gathered 25 representatives (8 women; 17 men) of the Office of Language Commissioner (OLC), the KAPS and the KP, to develop the Police Bilingual Handbook. The quick reference handbook contains terminology used during daily police work, key traffic violations and traffic fines, while enabling the police to use basic vocabulary in Albanian and Serbian languages.

From 23 to 25 June, the Mission delivered a training course on webpage and social media management to 21 communication officers (6 women; 15 men) of the MoIA, the KAPS, the KP, the Police Inspectorate of Kosovo (PIK), the EMA, the KCS and the Association of Women in Kosovo Police (AWKP). The course focused on the importance of organizational communication, which building relationships and enhancing internal interaction. It also trained participants on how to communicate with the public through social media, create online events, as well as formulate messages and generate engaging content. In addition, participants were trained on techniques that will enable them to build effective counter disinformation narratives.

On 29 June, the Mission equipped the KCS with ten laptops, particularly important during the COVID-19 pandemic period, as most activities are implemented via online platforms. The equipment will be used in the Mission’s future training courses for the KCS.

The survey was conducted in three phases and involved an international hate crime expert (man). The results provide an analysis of residents’ perception towards the hate crime victimization and quality of response provided by law enforcement agencies to hate crime victims. With a view to continue boosting the employment of the ILP concept combined with community policing in the overall police work, the Mission supported the KP in finalizing the Guidebook on the Intelligence Cycle as part of the KP Integrated Intelligence-led Policing and Community Policing Strategy and Action Plan 2021-2025. The Guidebook will serve the police staff for education purposes and increase their capacity in improving performance in community policing, intelligence gathering, processing and using ILP products throughout the police service. The Mission facilitated eight workshops to introduce the Guidebook to 194 officers (26 women; 168 men) of the KP from all police departments, general and regional directorates, and police stations. The workshops familiarized the officers with their roles and responsibilities stemming from the Integrated ILP and Community Policing Strategy, with clear instructions on how to apply it. It also supported the printing of the Guidebook and distributing 3,000 copies in Albanian, 500 in Serbian and 50 in English languages to all police regions. To further implement the Integrated Intelligence-led and Community Policing Strategy, the Mission supported the KP in finalizing the Standard Operating Procedure on Registration, Access and Administration of KP databases. The SOP serves to direct and clarify the authorizations, duties and responsibilities of the KP personnel based on the positions they hold and their job descriptions. In addition, the SOP harmonizes and unifies police procedures for entering into the systems, recording reports and operational police information in their areas of responsibility. Building on this, the Mission further supported the KP in finalizing a platform to feed the KP systems electronically through entry of data and information about activities, operational engagements, police reports about investigations, and other police work. Furthermore, the electronic entry of data is expected to contribute to record individual engagements of all KP employees, develop analytical reports, and in the performance appraisal process for the entire KP personnel.

Considering the above and the KP work on building internal capacities, increasing human resources in specialized units and monitoring at central level, this endeavour has largely led to increased intelligence processed by KP in both quantity and quality terms, with 11,028 reports processed in 2021, compared to 2,472 in the same reporting period in 2020.

Over the last two decades, the police organization in Montenegro has undergone several institutional changes, from being part of the MoI to being an independent institution. In June 2021, the Parliament adopted a new Law on Internal Affairs, re-integrating the Police Directorate (PD) yet again into the MoI, two years after it was established as an autonomous entity by the previous government. The law prescribes a stronger MoI oversight over police work, while it ensures police operational independence and introducing important improvements relating to the recruitment, career path and evaluation of police officers.

Activities Related to General Police Development and Reform

Police Development and Reform

In October, the Mission conducted the third annual public perception survey on police work to better identify areas for future actions and overcome identified challenges. The survey found that the PD is the third most-trusted institution in Montenegro, enjoying the trust of 53.9% of respondents. This is an increase from 48% in 2020. Compared to 2020, significantly higher satisfaction scores were reported particularly in the areas of combating organized crime, corruption and illicit drug smuggling. However, there was a decline compared to 2020 in satisfaction with police performance in areas such as response to domestic violence and traffic safety. The survey found over 82% of respondents feel safe in their community and 68.6% of respondents describe the security situation in Montenegro as favourable (compared to 63.4% in 2020). It should be noted that while the level of those who have a favourable view of safety in Montenegro has increased from 2020, it is lower than in 2019, as police independence from external influences and ethics remains an area of concern for citizens. The survey also showed that 84.3% of respondents believe that women and men are equally capable of carrying out police duty, similarly to 2020.

On 8 and 9 November, the Mission facilitated a two-day workshop with a focus on human intelligence sources and use of informants. This activity was a continuation of the Mission’s efforts to promote and advance ILP. The Mission provided advance training for 25 police officers (men) in the use of Geotime, a software that allows the PD Criminal Intelligence Unit to have a visual analysis of events over time and track the activities of organized crime groups.

In November, the drafts of the Police Development Strategy 2022-2025 and accompanying 2022-2023 Action Plan were finalized by the MoI WG, consisting of 14 representatives (4 women; 10 men) from the Mission, the MoI, the PD, the Centre for Integrity in the Defence Sector (CIDS) and ICITAP. The Strategy, expected to be adopted in 2022, articulates PD’s commitment to continue developing into a professional organization, capable of addressing modern security risks and challenges and respond to specific security needs. It builds on achievements, results and shortcomings identified in the Police Development Strategy 2016-2020, developed with the Mission’s support in 2015. Consequently, the Mission will shape activities in accordance with the strategically identified priorities for the police to support the effective implementation of the new Strategy and Action Plan.

In December, the Mission supported the PD in drafting communication guidance and SOPs to increase police transparency and enhance police in-service and communication with the public, the media and during in crisis-situations. The guidance and SOPs will be used as a baseline to further elaborate and develop a four-year plan for police communications as foreseen in the new Police Development Strategy.

In 2021, following the rapid development of internet and communication technologies combined with restrictions imposed by the COVID-19 pandemic, the Mission supported the development of an e-learning platform for police officers as well as a mobile application for citizens to access police services. The Mission, jointly with Geneva Centre for Security Governance (DCAF), worked to support this initiative following the government’s strategic goals for digitalization. In October, the Mission supported a working visit for a delegation from Montenegro to the Serbian MoI’s Centre for e-learning and in November to CEPO to explore e-learning management systems. In November, the MoI issued a Decision to establish an e-learning team and conducted in-service needs assessment with respect to introducing e-learning, including mandatory training on gender. As a result, building on the needs identified, jointly with DCAF, the Mission will support platform development and implementation of identified training needs for the platform management in 2022.

Gender Mainstreaming

Currently, women compose 15% of Montenegro’s police force, 13.9% of whom are in uniform, however, there are no women in senior management positions. In May, the Mission supported the PD and the Police Academy’s public information campaign to attract women to apply for a career in the police. The timing of the campaign was streamlined with the announcement of the Police Academy’s call for enrolment of the new generation of police cadets. Following the call for enrolment, the Police Academy reported an increase of approximately 10% more women candidates enrolled at the Academy in 2021, 27 out of 67 (38.8%). The campaign included six 30 second videos, produced by the Mission, which promoted women as police officers and demonstrated how a career in policing represented an attractive employment opportunity for women. The materials drew on the professional and personal experiences of police officers, highlighting the importance of recruiting more women in policing. The Mission also developed a brochure and a poster with practical information about policing, as well as education and employment opportunities for police officers. The campaign was aired on six national television stations and eight billboards were posted in eight towns with police security centres throughout Montenegro as well as on social media platforms. On social media, the campaign received high exposure, with data highlighting that the majority of targeted users were women.

The campaign triggered an exchange of regional experiences and networking events among the Women Police Associations from Montenegro and Serbia. On 14 October, the Mission and the Swedish Police Regional Project Office in Belgrade supported the first meeting of the Women Police Association from Montenegro and the Network of Women in Police from Serbia. The meeting enhanced networking and mutual co-operation of women in police regionally and exchanged best practices in empowering women within the police services.

Specialized Investigation Units / Forensics

On 6 September, the Mission donated specialized equipment and software, including mobile equipment to detect weapons and explosives for use at crime scenes, a high-capacity digital evidence analysis workstation and a device to test mobile phones, tablets and other small electronic devices to support the PD and the Forensic Centre’s capacities in combating organized and transnational crime. The equipment also included software licenses to recover digital evidence from multiple sources. Additionally, audio-video recording equipment was installed in an interview room of the Special Police Department, to ensure an accurate record of witness and suspect statements.

In September, the Mission also supported the upgrading of the capacities of the Forensic Centre’s Ballistics and Chemical Laboratories with technical equipment and software. This was achieved by (i) upgrading a forensic comparison microscope used for examination of fired bullets and tool marks, (ii) providing an engraving tool, necessary to provide an indelible way of tracing bullet shells and projectiles, and (iii) supplying a vacuum evaporator with carbon used to prepare gunshot residue samples, which will increase its capacities to accurately identify and analyse gunshot residue found on crime scenes. The modern equipment will support the Forensic Centre’s bid to internationally accredit their Ballistics Laboratory and allow the Centre to have state-of-the-art tools to investigate crimes with a firearms components.

Activities related to threats posed by criminal activity

Organized Crime

Small Arms and Light Weapons

In close co-operation with the SALW Commission of Montenegro, the Mission further supported their efforts in the implementation of the national Strategy for Combating Illegal Possession, Misuse and Trafficking of SALW and Ammunition from 2019 to 2025 and the Roadmap for a Sustainable Solution to the Illegal Possession, Misuse and Trafficking.
of SALW and their Ammunition in the Western Balkans by 2024. The Mission contributed to the enhancement of policies and capacities of Montenegrin authorities to manage stockpiles of ammunition by supporting the drafting of the Rulebook on safe storage of ammunition. In October, the Mission hired an international expert (man) to support the drafting process and the WG composed of ten representatives (3 women; 7 men) from the MoD and the MoI. The draft Rulebook incorporates the latest international standards and best practices on ammunition management. Once adopted in 2022, it will serve as national policy to regulate the management practices of the army and the police.

In November, the Mission supported the national partners in developing a public awareness campaign to encourage citizens, predominantly men, to surrender their weapons to the local authorities, or legalize them by the deadline prescribed by the Law on Weapons. The Mission hired an international expert (woman) who supported the WG consisting of eight representatives (3 women; 5 men) from the SALW Commission, the MoI, the PD, and the Ministry of Economic Development, in drafting the campaign’s communication strategy and plan to be launched in 2022. This project will contribute to awareness-raising activities in Montenegro, as set out in Goal 4 of the SALW Strategy 2019-2025, as well as the Western Balkans SALW Control Roadmap.

Counter-Terrorism and P/C VERLT

On 7 and 8 June, jointly with the PD, the Mission organized a workshop for 22 representatives (12 women; 10 men) of CSOs about youth engagement in P/C VERLT. The workshop, held in Budva, stressed the youth’s potential to combat radicalization and prevent violent extremism through promoting peace-building, tolerance and intercultural learning and is a prominent example of cross-programmatic activities carried out by the Mission.

From 26 to 28 October, the Mission provided support to national partners in strengthening their capacities to address VERLT by organizing a training workshop for first responders in the northern, central and southern regions of Montenegro. The workshop, gathering 38 participants (24 women; 14 men), covered the areas of risk assessments, mechanisms for combating violent extremism, network radicalization and abuse of social networks, de-radicalization and reintegration as well as relevant case studies to strengthen the capacity of participants in recognizing, suppressing and combating violent extremism among young people.

On 10 November, in close co-operation with the MoI’s State Secretary and National CVE Coordinator, the Mission organized a training course on non-custodial rehabilitation and reintegration of FTFs for representatives of the Institute for Execution of Criminal Sanctions, municipal governments, social service centres and NGOs. The workshop, gathering 27 participants (15 women; 12 men), focused on instruments to screen and assess risks and needs of violent extremist prisoners, as well as the role of the Assistance and Protection Team in processing post-penal support and reintegration into the community.

Trafficking in Human Beings

The Mission continued to promote the legal framework and recommendations for formal identification of victims of THB. In 2021, Montenegro made progress in enhancing institutional capacities to tackle THB, especially in terms of prosecution of THB cases and formal identification of victims, which resulted in more convictions and an increased number of identified victims. As prioritized in the Strategy for Combating Trafficking in Human Beings 2019-2024 and the 2021 Action Plan, the Mission developed training programmes for representatives from the police, the state prosecutor’s office, judiciary and social workers. The Mission hosts regular co-ordination meetings to enhance inter-institutional co-ordination and co-operation to prevent and combat THB.

From 5 to 8 October, in close co-operation with the MoI’s Department for Fight against THB, the Mission organized a training course on THB for police officers from police stations throughout Montenegro. The course gathered 76 participants (5 women; 71 men) who increased their knowledge on the basic THB elements, such as indicators and phases of human trafficking, differences between human trafficking and human smuggling and the protection of victims’ rights. Participants also increased their competences in the identification of different types of THB, such as sexual exploitation, forced begging and forced criminality, and understood the importance of collecting and analysing gender and age disaggregated data in order to effectively prevent and detect THB.

On 19 and 20 October, the Mission supported the finalization of a guidance for police officers interviewing potential victims of THB. Some 19 practitioners (16 women; 3 men) from national law enforcement agencies worked with an expert (woman) to finalize the guidelines, which include a standardized set of questions for police officers conducting interviews with victims of THB. The guidance will enable law enforcement officers to identify victims of trafficking and enhance their ability to ensure the respect of victims’ rights.
Cybercrime and Cyber/ICT Security

In 2021, the Government of Montenegro has committed to strengthening its national cyber/ICT security capacities. Montenegro used its 2021 presidency of the Southeast Europe Police Chief’s Association (SEPCA) to bring together representatives from Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Moldova, North Macedonia, Romania, Slovenia and Serbia to explore how to develop a regional approach in addressing cybercrime.

On 23 to 24 September, the Mission supported the Mol and the PD in organizing a two-day conference where 31 participants (13 women; 18 men) examined how to counter online radicalization leading to violent extremism and online sexual exploitation of children and enhance the capacities of SEPCA member states to address these threats. While reinforcing national responses, the possibility of a regional response through the joint exchange of data was also discussed. The discussion was focused on good practices and was facilitated by TNTD, Europol, the International Centre for Missing and Exploited Children and the NGO Parents from Montenegro. The conference concluded with a renewed commitment to a regional co-operation in countering cybercrime and in fostering the new relationships formed during the event.

In 2021, the Mission applied a comprehensive and inclusive approach to co-operation in the security sector in Serbia, linking the reform process to the areas of criminal justice, law enforcement, democratic control of security, and community participation. The Mission’s Security Co-operation Department, consisting of four international and fourteen national staff, continued supporting Serbia’s authorities in the reform process despite the COVID-19 pandemic.

Adjusting its working methods to the challenges posed by the pandemic, the Mission assisted the host country in fostering a more accountable security sector, able to address serious threats and crimes, while ensuring public safety and the protection of human rights of all citizens. The Mission’s assistance focused on: improving internal control and police accountability systems; embedding community policing in crime prevention through partnerships with local self-governments and CS; fostering regional co-operation in combating transnational and organized crime; developing a holistic approach to P/C VERLT; enhancing inter-agency co-operation to increase and improve prosecution of corruption and economic crimes, including money-laundering; building police capacities in cyber forensics and investigating cybercrime; promoting the OSCE’s comprehensive approach to co-operation in the security sector; strengthening the mechanisms responsible for the protection of victims of THB and supporting the implementation of the Strategy and Action Plan to Prevent and Suppress Human Trafficking, with a particular focus on combating trafficking in women and children; and controlling SALW.

Activities Related to General Police Development and Reform

Police Development and Reform within Security Sector Reform

On 7-8 September in Belgrade, 13-14 September in Sokobanja, 21-22 September in Novi Sad, and 28-29 September in Zlatibor, the Mission and the MoI organized eight capacity-building workshops for the MoI’s Department for Data Processing, Complaints and Co-operation with Independent Bodies. The events focused on processing complaints against police work and personal data protection. The interactive workshops gathered some 270 officers (90 women; 180 men) authorized to process complaints against the work of the police and personal data protection focal points from the respective police districts.

Human Resources / Police Management

To increase the police service’s representativeness, from 25 April to 5 May, following the open call for applications to enroll in basic police training, the Mission supported the vocational police association European Police Officers of National Minorities in organizing preparatory workshops to help applicants from national minorities prepare for the entrance exam. Held in Belgrade, Bor, Jagodina, Leskovac, Niš, Novi Sad, Požarevac and Vranje, the workshops gathered 93 applicants (25 women; 68 men). Simultaneously, the same workshops were provided online to 149 applicants (39 women; 110 men).

From 12 to 14 July, through a three-day seminar in Belgrade, the Mission supported six members (5 women; 1 man) of the MoI’s Centre for Police Training in advancing their skills in the production of high quality training and learning material through the application of diverse sound, photo, and text editing software. The skills gained at the seminar will advance the competences of the MoI’s training professionals in the design and development of learning material and its use in e-learning and blended learning formats on topics ranging from combating corruption and data protection to crime scene investigation and forensics.

To assist the MoI in increasing its efficiency and effectiveness to co-ordinate and manage all aspects of international co-operation and assistance, from 19 to 23 July and from 13 to 17 December, jointly with the MoI’s Sector for International Co-operation, European Affairs and Planning, the Mission organized four capacity-building events on managing online meetings and events. The events, held in Srebrno Jezero, gathered 36 staff members (24 women; 12 men) of the MoI. In the context of the COVID-19 pandemic, the Sector is facing a growing demand to be effective and pragmatic, while consistently executing the Ministry’s international co-operation priorities. For this reason, the Mission recognized as essential to enhance the capacities of MoI key staff to adjust to the new working environment, while maintaining the same level of efficiency and effectiveness.

From 4 to 15 October, the Mission supported the MoI in organizing a two-week training evaluation course to strengthen police training capacities. The course gathered 10 members (7 women; 3 men) of the MoI’s Centre for Police Training/Sector for Human Resources Management, and focused on evaluating the impact of training in various areas of the MoI’s work, such as organized crime, anti-corruption, community policing, and police accountability. In December, the Mission assisted the MoI to finalize the Training Evaluation Course Manual, contributing to the sustainability of the comprehensive Training Development Programme, jointly implemented by the Mission and the MoI.

From 16 to 19 December, in Vrnjačka Banja, the Mission facilitated a four-day retreat for 14 members (8 women; 6 men) of the vocational police association European Police Officers of National Minorities. With the Mission’s support, the association took stock of efforts in engaging with national minority candidates to apply to basic police training in 2020 and 2021. The association also developed its new Action Plan, addressing the best approaches and lessons learnt in working with youth and encouraging the representation of women belonging to national minorities in the police service. The Action Plan will be shared with the MoI in 2022.

Human Rights and Police Accountability

From 29 June to 9 December, jointly with the MoI’s Sector for Internal Control, the Mission organized three online training courses on anti-corruption risk assessment for 226 police officers (66 women; 160 men). The participants were representatives of the WG on corruption risk assessment, established within each line of work of the General Police Directorate. In addition to the MoI, the Mission collaborated with DCAF, the Romanian Anti-Corruption General Directorate, and the Serbian Agency for Prevention of Corruption in organizing this activity, to enhance police accountability.

Anti-Corruption

From March to June, under the second phase of the project Enhancing the capacities of Serbian police to fight corruption and jointly with the MoI, the Mission transformed the specialized training course curriculum on the prevention and suppression of corruption cases into an online training. Seven police officers (2 women; 5 men), who are financial forensic experts, optimized the curriculum for online learning. The experts recorded video lectures and uploaded them on the MoI’s online learning platform. Having this specialized online course available to all present and prospective staff of the MoI’s Anti-Corruption Department, has strengthened the sustainability of the Mission’s efforts invested in this particular area.

From 15 to 17 June, under the second phase of the project Enhancing the capacities of Serbian police to fight corruption and jointly with the MoI, the Mission organized a two-day online training course on the detection and prevention of the use of cryptocurrencies for illicit activities, primarily money laundering. The event gathered 21 police investigators (7 women; 14 men) from the MoI’s Anti-Corruption Department. Guided by two international experts (men), participants increased their knowledge of cryptocurrencies and the associated risks related to the implementation of the newly adopted Law on Digital Assets. Participants also explored the legislative framework, and learnt how to trace illicit financial flows channelled through cryptocurrencies.

On 21 June, the Mission held an official closing event of the project Enhancing the capacities of Serbian police to fight corruption. The results of the project included: (i) 130 police officers and prosecutors were trained to investigate corruption, financial fraud and economic crime, (ii) 14 police investigators obtained international certifications as money laundering specialists or anti-fraud examiners, (iii) 12 participants, who earned international certificates, became MoI’s official trainers and will continue providing training to their colleagues, thus ensuring the sustainability and local ownership of the project, (iv) prevention and suppression of corruption related cases training curricula were transferred to an online mode and uploaded to the MoI’s e-learning platform.

On 29 October, the Mission presented its assessment of the implementation of the Law on Organization and Jurisdiction of Government Authorities in the Suppression of Organized Crime, Terrorism and Corruption, which entered into force in 2018. The report analyses the work of the newly established specialized anti-corruption departments in the MoI and the prosecution, issuing recommendations to further improve their work. The event gathered 35 judges, prosecutors and members of the specialized anti-corruption departments (8 women; 27 men) at the MoI as well as the Head of Mission who addressed the participants.

In December, jointly with the Republic Public Prosecutor’s Office (RPPO) and the MoI, the Mission finalized the development of the Handbook on establishing and managing task forces with the aim to improve the enforcement of the anti-corruption legislative framework. The Handbook, produced by a multi-stakeholder expert group, offers (i) a typol-
A training course for school police officers on best practices in preventing illicit drug use and the correct application of police powers in a school environment, organized jointly by the Mission and the MoI, Belgrade, 5-7 July 2021.

Milan Obradovic
On 11 August, jointly with the National Youth Council of Serbia (KOMS), the Mission organized a closing event awarding the participants of the project on promoting youth safety. Out of 73 submissions, the three best multi-media, graphic and essay works on the topic “What is safety for you?” were selected. The awardees discussed the issues of youth safety with the Head of Mission and the KOMS Secretary General at an online award ceremony.

On 24 August, jointly with the MoI, the MoESTD, and the CSO Friends of the Children of Serbia, the Mission organized a workshop for nine juvenile crime police officers (5 women; 4 men) from Belgrade, Kragujevac, Niš, Novi Pazar, Novi Sad and Subotica. The workshop served as final preparation for the police officers to define the guidelines and practice the scenarios before the autumn rollout of workshops in their local communities.

On 4 and 5 October, the Mission supported the MoI’s Criminal Investigations Directorate and its Department for Prevention and Suppression of Juvenile Crime, to deliver the first out of the planned six workshops for youth on juvenile crime prevention, entitled My Right to Know my Rights and Obligations. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the workshops were organized in an abbreviated format for 20 participants (9 girls; 11 boys) from two high schools. Facilitated by experts from the MoI, the MoESTD and the CSO Friends of Children of Serbia, the workshops tackled various aspects of juvenile crime prevention through an interactive approach, with the aim to inform high school students of their rights and responsibilities in contact with the police. To promote the project, the Mission also supported a billboard campaign in central locations in Belgrade, featuring the project’s key messages, as well as the printing of t-shirts for all workshop participants. The remaining five workshops were postponed to 2022 due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

From 12 to 14 October, together with the MoI’s Service for Prevention of Drug Addiction and Suppression of Narcotics, the Mission organized the second training for school police officers, in Zlatibor. Some 25 school police officers (men) from Bajina Bašta, Čačak, Novi Pazar, Prijeponje, Sjenica and Užice learned more about the risk factors for young people entering into illicit drug dependence. The Mission also supported the printing of 1,000 copies of illicit drug-awareness posters. The aim was to inform the public of the hazards stemming from illicit drug abuse, and to raise awareness and knowledge of the nature and extent of types of illicit drugs, illicit drug addiction, and their effects on individuals, families, and communities. This material was distributed among police officers, teachers, parents, social services, and local community offices. The content of the poster was developed in close co-operation with the Ministry of Health and the poster was published on the MoI website.

From 16 to 19 November, the Mission supported the MoI’s Department for Organization, Prevention and Community Policing to organize two rounds of training courses on the concept of community policing and its practical aspects. The workshops, gathering 46 police supervisors (2 women; 44 men) from the Belgrade, Pančevo and Šabac police districts, equipped the participants with necessary knowledge on community policing, enabling them to provide support to the community policing officers within their police districts.

On 2-3 December, in Kragujevac, the Mission organized the initial workshop for the MoI’s WG tasked to draft the strategic plan for the development of voluntary firefighting in Serbia. The MoI established the group consisting of 19 members (7 women; 12 men).

In December, the Mission commissioned a national-level survey on citizens’ attitudes towards the work of the police. The sample encompassed 1,000 respondents using the methodology of structured questionnaire and person-to-person interviews in direct contact with the citizens across the country. This was the fourteenth annual survey the Mission has commissioned since 2008. In addition to questions about the perception of the police work, it included questions regarding the security situation, including those related to the COVID-19 pandemic and the implementation of the Strategy on SALW Control in the Republic of Serbia.

Gender-based Violence

From June to December, jointly with its implementing partner the CSO FemPlatz, the Mission implemented the project Safe Cities for Women and Girls to improve the safety of women in public spaces. The project aims to build capacities of local actors from three local self-governments, namely Kraljevo, Pančevo and Zemun, on the safety of women and contributed to improving local co-operation of different local stakeholders on the issue of women’s safety. Direct beneficiaries of the capacity-building component were local gender equality mechanisms, municipal safety councils, and social welfare institutions. The advocacy component of the project aimed at improving local co-operation on women’s safety and gender equality. The project produced concrete recommendations to local authorities, with regard to the mechanisms of involving women in local planning.

On 1 July in Subotica and on 13 July in Kragujevac, the Mission and the Commissioner for Protection of Equality organized two consultative meetings and focus groups with local self-governments to support the implementation of the National Action Plan on the UNSCR 1325 on Women, Peace and Security. The events served to address relevant challenges in the second National Action Plan’s implementation from the perspective of local self-governments, and provided lessons learned that will be useful in drafting the third National Action Plan. Some 32 representatives (women) of local self-governments - focal points on gender equality and security - participated in consultative meetings aiming at underlining the purpose and comprehensiveness of the women, peace, and security agenda.

Hate Crime

On 24 March, the Mission’s Democratization and Security Co-operation programmes facilitated communication between ODHR, the World Jewish Congress and the Serbian MoJ regarding the organization of ODHR’s online event titled Raising Awareness and Building Effective Communication between the Law Enforcement and the Jewish Community in Serbia. Two police officers and one prosecutor (2 women; 1 man) attended the online event. On the occasion, ODHR presented its practical guide Understanding Anti-Semitic Hate Crimes and Addressing the Security Needs of Jewish Communities.

On 1 and 2 July, in Vrdnik, jointly with the Commissioner for Protection of Equality and the MoJ, the Mission organized a workshop for the police on recognizing discrimination and providing adequate response. The aim was to build the police capacities to identify various types of discrimination and to provide an adequate response. Through cross-departmental co-operation between the Mission’s Security Co-operation and Democratization Departments, the training also included the topic of hate crimes. Following the completion of the above task, the Mission’s PDU has been supporting law enforcement agencies, particularly the MoIA, in developing a depoliticized, professional service in line with international democratic policing principles and human rights standards to support comprehensive effective and efficient security. This support has taken the form of delivering and facilitating police training, supporting the development and implementation of the National Police Reform processes and strengthening of institutional capacities of law enforcement agencies to effectively counter transnational threats.

During 2021, in the light of the COVID-19 pandemic, the Mission focused on blended implementation methodologies (in-person and online) and continued to support the MoIA in improving its professional capacity by advancing the implementation of police reforms and strengthening MoIA’s institutional capacity and efficiency in applying the principles of democratic policing in a multi-ethnic society, including by taking gender sensitive policies into account. The Mission also continued to support the law enforcement agencies in strengthening their institutional capacities in the fight against transnational threats, with a focus on combating serious and organized cross-border crime and terrorism, including financial crimes, cyber/ICT security, THB, illegal migration and effective border management.

Activities Related to General Police Development and Reform

Police Development and Reform

In 2021, the Mission facilitated 11 online meetings of the MoIA WG gathering four experts (1 woman; 3 men) and tasked with preparing the application to initiate the process for accreditation of the MoIA’s Training Centre (TC) as an institution for adult learning. With the Mission’s support, the WG completed all supporting documents concerning trainers and teaching tools, and submitted them to the Ministry of Education and Science for review. The Mission will continue to support the accreditation process, in line with the strategic priorities of the Strategy on Developing MoIA’s Training Center 2020-2022.

From 17 March to 21 April, the Mission supported the MoIA WG composed of 11 experts (4 women; 7 men), by facilitating six online meetings to finalize the drafting of the new Strategy for Training and Staff Development of the MoIA Employees 2022-2024 and its Action Plan. In May, the Strategy was approved with a focus on improving the centralized and decentralized training system, career development and advancement of staff, gender equality, fostering the development of a high-performing digital training system, and establishing methodology to identify priority training requirements.

In September, the Mission supported the MoIA in developing an e-course on stress management based on the Mission-funded research from 2020 on stress factors in the police. This e-course is the third online course developed with Mission’s support, while the previous two e-courses focused on forensics and first-line management. The stress management course will be uploaded on the MoIA’s learning management platform, accessible to all police officers.

In September, the Mission supported the MoIA’s TC to deliver a series of refresher training modules to police officers involved in the local election process. In particular, the Mission updated an e-course, a mobile application available to all police officers, as well as health and security protocols for COVID-19 pandemic to be compatible with the current local elections. The TC delivered specific training modules on the role of police during local/municipal elections developed earlier by the Mission.

On 2 November, the Mission facilitated the introduction of a dialogue-policing concept to 18 police chiefs (men) as a tool for de-escalation and prevention of public confrontations at protests and other public gatherings. The MoIA representatives underlined that the proposed concept would be a valuable addition to the existing policing methodology. The next step will entail the selection of suitable officers for trainings including a ToT in 2022.

From 23 to 25 November, the Mission facilitated a three-day online training seminar for the two MoIA’s TC e-course developers (1 woman; 1 man) on advanced e-course design. With this customized training, the e-course developers improved their capacity in designing e-course curricula and... learned how to upload them in the MoIA’s learning management system.

On 10 December, the Mission facilitated a joint workshop with four MoIA WGs dealing with human resource management, disciplinary procedures, development of the TC, community engagement and communication. Some 26 MoIA WGs representatives (20 women; 6 men) participated in the event. The WGs reported progress and challenges in the implementation of the following strategies and respective action plans: the Strategy on Developing MoIA’s Training Center 2020–2022, the Strategy for Human Resource Management 2020–2022, the Strategy for Community Engagement and Communication (CE&C) 2020–2022, as well as on recommendations stemming from the Report on Disciplinary Measures. The workshop served as a prelude to the kick-off event for the MoIA Evaluation Committee chaired by the State Secretary, tasked with monitoring and evaluating of the Mission-funded strategies, to be constituted in 2022.

In 2021, the Mission finalized the research on Enhancing the police knowledge and capacity for the protection of crime victims’ rights in the context of the European policing standards. A report will compile the research findings comparing the legislation of North Macedonia with European Victims’ Rights Directive 2012/29/EU on protecting the rights of victims of crime with focus on police procedures. The research, conducted in co-operation with the MoIA, identified fifteen issues of non-compliance with European policing standards and proposed a number of recommendations. The report aims to be used as a professional textbook in training of police officers from criminal investigation units and other relevant MoIA staff dealing with the protection of victims’ rights.

Human Resources / Police Management

From February to September, the Mission organized five online workshops with 15 MoIA trainers (4 women; 11 men) in charge of delivering first and mid-level management training modules to the MoIA staff. The workshops reviewed the existing curricula on first and mid-level management and identified areas for amendment by adopting a blended learning approach. As a result, the curriculum on first-line management training included methodology on motivation and teambuilding, as well as role-play and group discussions. The same group updated the course outline and format of the mid-level management training.

From 15 to 17 September, the Mission organized a workshop on the promotion exam policy model in the MoIA with the WG on Human Resources Management (HRM) Strategy, composed of eight experts (7 women; 1 man). The WG discussed the concept of establishing a promotion exam for succession planning within the Ministry as well as the mechanisms for establishing a general promotion exam process. The WG decided that the promotion exam for higher managerial positions should be further developed in 2022 and presented to the Minister and State Secretary.

From 16 to 19 November, the Mission organized a training course designed to achieve a more future-orientated leadership for 11 senior police officers (5 women; 6 men) to enhance their managerial and leadership skills and the use of modern technologies. The first part of the training course was held online with specially designed e-learning content and a platform with modules on how to use various digital applications. During the second in-person part of the course, the participants had an opportunity to apply the digital tools in conveying managerial and leadership decisions and to discuss their experience with online modules and tools. The training reflected the need to apply digital tools in communicating managerial and leadership decisions, particularly relevant in light of the COVID-19 pandemic.

The event also promoted the benefits of progressive discipline processes through counselling, training of the personnel and the use of early intervention methods. The outcome of the workshop included a list of conclusions and activities to be implemented with Mission’s support that will promote further professionalization, consistency, uniformity and objectivity of the disciplinary procedures in the MoIA.

From 30 November to 3 December, the Mission conducted a study visit to the United Kingdom with five senior staff (3 women; 2 men) from the MoIA and the Public Security Bureau (PSB) on police oversight architecture. The study visit familiarized the visiting delegation with the anti-corruption

From July to November, the Mission organized three workshops gathering 43 women from Kumanovo region, to increase women’s engagement in issues related to local security concerns affecting the family and the community. The Mission invited local women to share their security concerns, and to discuss and suggest possible solutions to the safety threats they identified. The workshops were designed to provide participants with a platform for discussion of community safety issues and the creation of social network for crime prevention at a local level. The aim of the workshops is to help women develop their capacity to respond to security threats and positively influence community safety by sharing their views, knowledge, skills and make concrete suggestions regarding community security problems. The workshops foreseen for 2022 will also aim to create a network of women community leaders regularly supported by Police Prevention Units and develop their capacity to discuss and address local community security issues.
On 10 September, the Mission facilitated an annual workshop for the Police Prevention Units with participation of 17 prevention officers (5 women; 12 men) from all eight SIAs. The programme included the role of public relations function and spokespersons, basic skills in media communication, and commonly used techniques and tools in public relations. The service provider, the Institute of Communication Studies, focused on the needs of the media and how to formulate and deliver information to them, as well as examining issues relating to code of ethics, writing skills for different platforms and communication strategies in crisis situations. Participants tested their writing and presentation skills with several exercises, including by creating and broadcasting messages, and learning how to behave in front of the camera, give interviews and prepare for public appearances. The event helped the MoIA to address the identified skills and experience gap, and is contributing to the MoIA’s succession planning strategy.

On 25 and 26 November, jointly with MoIA’s WG on CE&C, composed of eight experts (5 women; 3 men), the Mission organized a workshop on monitoring the progress in the implementation of the MoIA’s Strategy on CE&C and its Action Plan. Participants discussed the progress and the reasons for the lack of functionality of LPCs as community-based safety form mechanisms, which was identified as a main challenge in the implementation. On 10 December, all four WGs reported on the progress of the strategies and associated Action Plans, which are funded and implemented with the Mission’s support.

On 6 December, a video clip illustrating the strategic priorities of the Mission supporting MoIA’s Strategy on CE&C was uploaded onto the MoIA’s official webpage, targeting 8,000 police officers and administrative staff at all levels, as main implementers of the Strategy. The video portrays the police-community engagement model, which will ensure better co-ordination between police, institutions, and local authorities on local security issues, and will improve the engagement between police and communities, including by addressing the different security needs of men and women in local communities.

In 2021, the Mission conducted the Survey on Public Perception on Democratic Policing, involving over 2500 citizens and 500 serving police officers. The survey revealed that 47% of the respondents trusted the police, similarly to 2017 (46%), but lower than in 2019 (53%).

Gender-based Violence

From 19 to 22 October, the Mission facilitated a four-day WG session with four MoIA experts (2 women; 2 men) on finalizing the Domestic Violence and Gender-based Violence Guidebook for police officers. The aim of the Guidebook is to enhance police response to and procedures on incidents of domestic violence and gender-based violence. It consists of the new Law on Prevention and Protection from Violence against Women and Domestic Violence and its respective bylaws, but also risk assessment procedures in domestic violence cases, types of domestic violence, investigative procedures and aide memoire, and will include case studies for practical advice. The aide memoire will be prepared separately, in the form of a poster, to be disseminated throughout all police premises. Once approved by MoIA’s Legal Department, the Guidebook will be distributed and used as training material for the next groups of police officers envisaged to be trained on domestic violence in 2022.

Hate Crime

From 2 to 5 November, in partnership with the MoIA and the CSO Centre for Intercultural Dialogue, the Mission organized two two-day workshops on hate speech, hate crime, and gender bias for 43 police officers (13 women; 30 men) from SIAs Tetovo and Ohrid. The workshops offered theoretical and practical guidance on identifying and tackling hate speech and gender bias phenomena. The sessions covered domestic and international legislation relating to hate speech and tips on interacting with young people through awareness raising activities. In 2022, the trained police officers, equipped with presentation materials provided by the Mission, will visit high schools in their respective SIAs, interact with youth, and organize education campaigns against hate speech, hate crime, and gender bias.
Activities Related to Threats Posed by Criminal Activity

Organized Crime

From 16 to 18 June, the Mission organized a three-day online training course on advanced investigation methods and concepts of investigation of serious crimes. The course gathered 26 representatives (9 women; 17 men) from the MoIA Department for Suppression of Organized and Serious Crime and other organizational units. In co-operation with the Embassy of Hungary in Skopje, nine experts (3 women; 6 men) presented ways on how to effectively implement substantive investigative measures, techniques, and methods regarding financial investigation, illicit drug-related crimes and THB.

On 20 October, the Mission organized a workshop on financial investigations and assets recovery for 47 participants (29 women; 17 men). The activity promoted the National Strategy for Financial Investigations and Asset Recovery (FI/AR) for the period of 2021-2023 as well as the establishment of a National Commission to monitor and evaluate the implementation of the Strategy. The Strategy promotes a multi-institutional approach to the fight against financial crime and the establishment of inter-institutional protocols related to information exchange and a standardized format of analysis and reporting.

On 25 October, the Mission organized an online training course on digital investigation tools and the use of the iBase and the Analysts Notebook software. The event gathered ten representatives (5 women; 5 men) from the MoIA and the National Coordination Centre for Combating Serious and Organized Crime. The software donated by the Mission and the acquired skills enabled participants to improve internal and external communication by means of a standardised methodology, thus enhancing institutional and inter-institutional intelligence as well as handling and analysis capacities.

On 27 October, the Mission organized a training course on the use and value of data analysis in investigations of serious crime. The event, gathering ten participants (5 women; 5 men), was designed to build upon participants’ existing knowledge and experience, such as analysts working in national and regional departments for investigation of serious crime. The aim of the course was to support the further development of the ILP model. Specifically, the training examined how ILP can support and enhance the investigative process, by identifying risk and mitigations, developing investigative opportunities, promoting information-based decision-making and ensuring appropriate resource allocations. Participants received inputs highlighting best practice on how to analyse all available data from an investigation in order to produce concise summaries, conclusions, and recommendations as to the next steps in the investigative process. Modern versions of analytical software were used in the training course, offering the opportunity to present analysis in differing visual formats for end users such as prosecutors, police management and operational units in the field.

On 24 and 25 November, the Mission organized a two-day workshop to finalize the content of the National Serious and Organized Crime Threat Assessment (SOCTA) Report. Some 22 participants (12 women; 10 men) from six different state institutions participated in the formulation and drafting of parts of the report, which was finalized and published in early December. The report is a product of institutional co-operation and collaboration and is one of the most important strategic documents in the fight against organized crime in the country.

Small Arms and Light Weapons

In 2021, the Mission officially launched the ExB project Assisting the national authorities of the Republic of North Macedonia to decrease the risk of weapon proliferation and misuse of SALW (SALW II project). The project was developed to respond to the assistance request by the Government of the Republic of North Macedonia and aims to support country’s efforts to implement international commitments in the field of preventing and combating the proliferation of SALW, thus contributing to security and stability in the country. This objective is expected to be achieved through enhancing regulatory, operational and inter-agency co-operation capacities of the MoIA to combat the proliferation of SALW. The project targets three priority areas as identified by the MoIA, and will work to: (i) improve co-ordination and inter-agency co-operation mechanism of the National SALW Commission, (ii) build detection capacity of the K9 assets, and (iii) increase the capacities of national authorities in raising public awareness on the dangers of misuse and proliferation of SALW.

On 10 March, the Mission held the official project launching event, during which an MoU was signed between the MoIA and the Mission. A high-level representation was secured, with representatives from the MoIA and the donor community, as well as from the OSCE Presence in Albania, the OSCE Mission to Bosnia and Herzegovina, the OSCE Mission in Kosovo, the OSCE Mission to Montenegro and the OSCE Mission to Serbia. Additionally, there were online representatives from national media, both traditional and digital outlets, who promoted the launch of the SALW II project. The event gathered a total of 85 online participants and 26 in-person participants (6 women; 20 men).

In the framework of one of the SALW II project activities, entitled increasing illicit SALW detection capacity of the MoIA by efficient deployment of K9 assets, the Mission aimed to support the establishment of appropriate infrastructural, human resource, regulatory and information exchange environment in order to create efficient deployment of the K9 assets. In particular, the Mission provided support to the MoIA’s K9 Unit in terms of capacity-building and establishing adequate regulatory basis. The SALW II project has supported the development of SOPs for the deployment of K9 assets through organizing several workshops during 2021, for which one national and one international consultants were engaged. To implement the activity, a WG was established, composed of nine experts (2 women; 7 men) from the MoIA’s K9 Unit, Special Police, Uniformed Police, the Legal Department and the Police Training Centre.

On 7 and 8 April, the first WG meeting took place in the framework of the above-mentioned project where participants established the preliminary structure and content of the SOPs for K9 deployment of assets. From 1 to 3 June, the second WG meeting took place, further determining the structure, scope and content of the SOP. From 20 to 22 September, the third WG meeting took place, gathering representatives from the MoAs of Western Balkan neighbours. During the event, 25 participants (5 women; 20 men) from the region exchanged experience and information, and shared best practices in order to finalize the SOPs.

In the framework of the above-mentioned project, the Mission also initiated the process of developing Detailed Designs (DDs), Bill of Quantities (BoQs) and quality assurance, as well as control services for civil construction, electrical and cyber/ICT installation works for the upgrade of the infrastructure of the MoIA’s K9 Units. The purpose of this activity was to develop DDs and BoQs for civil and electrical installation works and to provide quality assurance and control services during the implementation of the works at nine MoIA sites throughout the country.

Further, within the above-mentioned project, the Mission procured and delivered 14 specialized K9 transportation vehicles, aiming to increase in the operational capacity of the K9 services by supplying specialized vehicles for the central K9 unit and its regional offices. On 16 December, the process of distributing the specialized vehicles has been finalized with a formal handover and the signing a Donation Agreement. In its efforts to support the field operations of the K9 unit, the Mission will also supply three specialized K9 trailers for the transportation of police dogs, to be delivered in early 2022.

In 2021, the Mission worked on effective countering of the proliferation of SALW, as efficient deployment of the K9 assets requires information exchange within the law enforcement organization and between governmental agencies on a national and on a regional level. Key focus was on supporting the MoIA in establishing an official platform for the exchange of information and intelligence within its units and with other international entities. Based on identified deficiencies, the Mission supported the development of an SOP on real time information exchange among Police and Customs Cooperation Centres (PCCCs). To this end, a specialized WG was established, consisting of nine representatives (2 women; 7 men) of the MoIA and the PCCCs. The WG was supported by a national consultant (woman) who delivered several workshops to support the development of the SOP.

On 13 and 14 April, the Mission organized and facilitated the first meeting of the WG on SOP for real time information exchange. The two-day event took place online and was attended by 29 representatives (9 women; 20 men) from IN-TERPOL, Europol, the European Multidisciplinary Platform
Against Criminal Threats (EMPACT), the Migration, Asylum, Refugees Regional Initiative (MARRI), the South Eastern and Eastern Europe Clearinghouse for the Control of Small Arms and Light Weapons (SEESAC), as well as representatives from the MoIA and the Customs Office. The objective of the first WG meeting was to set baseline requirements for the content of the SOP, taking into consideration all international and national legal acts regulating the aspects of police co-operation and information exchange.

From 1 to 3 June, the Mission organized the second meeting of the WG on SOP for real time information exchange. The meeting, gathering 13 in-person participants (6 women; 7 men), aimed to further develop the principles and procedures related to effective and timely cross-border information exchange. As a result, the second SOP draft was developed taking into consideration practical steps on how to gather and share SALW-related criminal information within the country and across borders.

From 22 to 24 September, the Mission organized the third meeting of the WG on SOP for real time information exchange, gathering 25 participants (5 women; 20 men) from the region, who took part in the review and development of the final draft of the SOPs. The draft was developed to provide support and facilitate the work of the police officers, elaborating on their tasks, steps and workflow for the exchange of information between PCCCs located at the border crossing points. At the same time, the document will embrace the roles of the special units within the MoIA, such as the Europol National Unit, the INTERPOL Unit, the Border Police Unit, the Special Police Unit, the K9 Unit, and the Traffic Police Units. The SOPs will also enable digital cross-checks of data on SALW, people, and vehicles, and will increase the crime controls conducted by duty police officers nationwide via real-time information exchange.

On 22 November, the Mission organized the fourth and final meeting of the WG on SOPs for real time information exchange. The meeting, gathering 15 participants (3 women; 12 men), aimed to achieve a final elaboration of the SOP draft. The discussion highlighted the ongoing initiative to enhance information exchange among Common Contact Centres (CCCs), which would further regulate information exchange with countries other than the neighbouring. In December, the document was finalized, adjusted and submitted to the MoIA for final approval.

The Mission also provided assistance to the National SALW Commission to develop an Orientation Manual (OM), which will take into account the relevant legislative and regulatory aspects, as well as measures for enforcement and prosecution, means of data collection and analysis of information/data, ways of communication and data exchange of the Commission. The objective of the OM is to facilitate the orientation of newcomers, namely staff and members of the Commission, as well as increase its operational capacity.
Based on the new proposed Rules of Procedure (RoP), the roles and responsibilities of its members have been strengthen towards their competencies in order to be able to take on their inter-governmental position to facilitate effective SALW control.

To develop the OM, all governmental institutions and agencies members of the Commission nominated representatives to the WG tasked with reviewing the existing RoP. The WG meetings were used as a platform to support the process of defining and amending the legal grounds on which the National SALW Commission operates. In this regard, the Mission’s SALW II project is continuously supporting and co-ordinating the activities with the president of the National SALW Commission and the Legal Department of the MoIA.
In December, during a formal session of the Commission, the final drafts were presented, moving towards their formal adoption, expected in early 2022.

Additionally, the Mission has provided support to the National SALW Commission in performing a comprehensive analysis on developing and elaborating SOPs on data collection, information tracking and reporting. In 2021, a national consultant (man) has been engaged in desk research of all related international and national legal base that determine the reporting obligations of the Commission towards international organizations and the Government of North Macedonia. The activity is expected to be implemented until mid-2022.
On 29 November, the Mission also organized a working meeting with 20 representatives (4 women; 16 men) from the MoIA, the Customs Administration and the Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Water Economy, to identify possible solutions to strengthen the co-operation among competent agencies in reducing the risk of illegal possession, misuse and trafficking of SALW. As the proliferation of SALW can have a destabilizing effect on social and economic development and can represent a major threat to citizens’ safety, the Mission supported an event where relevant representatives from different units, sectors, departments and agencies determined how they can better co-ordinate their efforts against this threat.

Counter-Terrorism and P/C VERLT

On 22-23 and 25-26 March, the Mission delivered a training course for the Inter-departmental WG for Reintegration and the Local Multi-Disciplinary Teams for Reintegration, in order to increase their capacity to manage the reintegration process with regards to P/C VERLT. The Mission, together with the International Institute for Justice and the Rule of Law (IIJ) and supported by TNTD/SPMU, organized this online training course on rule of law-based multi-actor intervention programmes for preventing and countering violent extremism in North Macedonia for 42 participants (23 women; 19 men). The course provided participants with necessary tools to design and implement multi-actor P/C VERLT interventions underpinned by key principles; identify and include the diversity of stakeholders, including CS that should be involved in the development and implementation of such interventions and leverage respective comparative advantages; adapt specific processes around the capacities of a context which also observe the do-no-harm approach.28

On 1 and 2 June, the Mission organized a two-day online training course on assessing the risk posed by FTFs and home-grown terrorists for 15 participants (3 women; 12 men) from the National Security Agency and the Sector for Countering Terrorism, Violent Extremism and Radicalization of the MoIA. In the context of the training, definitions and legislation concerning VERLT, the emergence of ISIS, detection of sleeper cells and risk assessment models were presented to the trainees.

From 12 to 15 September, in partnership with the MoIA, the Mission organized a three-day regional mapping exercise focused on the protection of critical infrastructure and the importance of inter-agency co-operation and information exchange. The mapping exercise gathered 43 participants (13 women; 30 men) from law enforcement agencies of Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Kosovo, Montenegro and North Macedonia. The event allowed participants to learn from best practices and develop effective operational responses to the different types of cross border criminality that contribute to terrorist attacks, by simulating practical scenarios for the protection of critical infrastructure, including the elements of investigation of SALW smuggling and real-time data exchange.

From 3 to 5 November, the Mission supported a training course organized by ODIHR and TNTD/ATU on preventing terrorism and countering VERLT through a community policing approach. The course gathered 21 police officers and community members (10 women; 11 men) representing CSOs and religious communities, as well as individuals and staff from local governmental agencies. Participants learned about human rights-based, whole-of-society approaches to P/C VERLT, and discussed common challenges and good practices. The course was based on the OSCE’s Guidebook Preventing Terrorism and Countering Violent Extremism that Lead to Terrorism: A Community Policing Approach and on pilot courses run by ODIHR, TNTD/ATU and TNTD/SPMU in Sarajevo in 2018 and Tirana in 2019.

28 The do-no-harm approach is the understanding of the impact of an intervention on existing conflict and its interactions within a particular context, with the goal to limit or prevent unintended negative effects.
On 24 and 25 November, the Mission organized a two-day training course with a focus on the protection of human rights while countering terrorism, delivered by two ODIHR trainers and one international law enforcement officer (1 woman; 2 men). The course focused on human rights standards, the risks originating from human rights violations in counter-terrorism and interviewing techniques that create trust. The event gathered a total of 19 MoIA officers (men) from units involved in countering terrorism.

On 26 November, jointly with the National Committee for Countering Violent Extremism and Counter-Terrorism and members of the Local Multidisciplinary Teams for Reintegration (LMDTRs) from Kumanovo, Skopje, and Tetovo, the Mission organized a lessons-learned workshop, held in Skopje. The event was the first of two workshops on managing community-level rehabilitation and reintegration programs. LMDTRs, foreseen in the National Reintegration Plan, were developed in 2020 with the Mission’s support. On 30 November, the Mission organized the second lessons-learned workshop, held in Mavrovo, for the LMDTRs from Gostivar, Kichevo, Makedonski Brod and Plasnica. The workshops, gathering 52 members (25 women; 27 men) from seven LMDTRs, also incorporated elements of gender sensitivity and gender-related rights, and contributed to the further professionalization of the local-level practitioners in the LMDTRs.

From 26 to 28 November, the Mission organized the first part of a training course for teachers and school support staff on preventing VERLT. The course, held in Skopje, gathered 25 participants (21 women; 4 men) from 15 secondary schools from Bitola, Gostivar, Kichevo, Prilep, Skopje, Struga, Tetovo, and Veles. The topics covered during the first part of the training were (i) the definition of violent extremism, radicalization, indoctrination and terrorism, (ii) the processes of internet radicalization, (iii) push and pull factors, (iv) the role of teachers, parents and the community in preventing radicalization and elements of students’ resilience.

From 10 to 12 December, the Mission held the second part of the above-mentioned training course. The main topics covered during these sessions were (i) stereotypes and prejudices, (ii) critical thinking, (iii) active listening, (iv) media literacy, and (v) conflict resolution as essential competencies for the effectiveness in building resilience and recognizing warning signs of radicalization in the youth. The training courses echoed the need to continue this conversation on difficult subjects with students, teachers and parents, but also involve students in decision-making processes within the school and their communities.

From 17 to 20 December, the Mission supported the ZIP Institute with organizing a four-day workshop for young people and religious studies students, to learn how to eliminate religious-based discrimination and intolerance. The workshop gathered 27 participants aged 16-24 (12 women; 15 men) from communities where radical messages have been spread, communities in possible contact with VE, as well as youth interested in improving interfaith dialogue in their community and with demonstrated interest in peace-building and community resilience.

During 2021, jointly with TNTD, the Mission also provided logistical support to the training programme, implemented by the OSCE and UNODC, aimed at assisting North Macedonia in the implementation of international standards on CFT.

Trafficking in Human Beings

On 10 May, the Mission delivered an online training course on detecting potential victims of THB among large groups of migrants. The training course, led by a national expert, was delivered to 23 police officers (6 women; 17 men) from the Border Police and regional representatives of the National Task Force. Topics covered included interviewing potential victims, possible indicators of THB, relevant legislation, as well as interagency, regional, and international co-operation.

Border Security and Management / Customs

The Mission enhanced inter-agency co-operation and promoted the Integrated Border Management concept to increase the national capacity to combat cross-border criminality. On 12 July, the Mission facilitated an initiative whereby 23 representatives (3 women; 20 men) from law enforcement agencies developed a thorough analysis of the border management system and process and identified the areas in Border Police and Customs interoperability requiring additional support. Participants included senior managers within the Border Police, the National Coordination Centre for Border Management, and other MoIA departments, and as a result, the initiative provided recommendations relating to gaps in Border Police and Customs interoperability.

In 1999, the Mission’s mandate was expanded and includes a provision on ensuring the transparency of the removal and destruction of Russian ammunition and armaments, and co-ordination of financial and technical assistance offered to facilitate withdrawal and destruction.

In 2021, the Mission continued its effort to consolidate the capacity of legal specialists on the right bank of the Dniester/Nistru River.

Activities Related to General Police Development and Reform

Human Rights

On 23 April, the Mission organized an online training seminar on victims’ rights, with a focus on rehabilitation and compensation of victims of serious crimes, such as THB and domestic violence. The training seminar gathered 37 judges and prosecutors (24 women; 13 men) from Moldova. The seminar, led by a Supreme Court of Justice judge, a magistrate from the GPO and a lawyer specialized in THB (2 women; 1 man), focused on the victims’ rights to state compensation and redress, restorative justice and prosecution of crimes, and victims’ rights during trial and post-trial phase.

In September, in order to ensure durability of the capacity-building process, the Mission started working on a Guidebook for legal professionals on how to efficiently implement rehabilitation and compensation provisions, in accordance with the Law on the Rehabilitation of Victims of Crime, entered into force in January 2018. The work on the Guidebook, initiated in December 2020, was continued and finalized in December 2021. Working towards this aim, the Mission contracted three national experts (2 women; 1 man), who have previously led the online training seminar on victims’ rights. The guidebook is expected to be published and distributed across the legal community in 2022. In addition, the Mission plans to provide two training sessions to legal professionals, including lawyers, judges and prosecutors, on the use of the guidebook, so that survivors can benefit from the existing rehabilitation and compensation mechanisms and thus contribute to strengthening citizens’ trust in the governmental system.

Activities related to General Police Development and Reform

Police Development and Reform within Security Sector Reform

In 2021, the PCU supported law enforcement agencies to build their capacity in crime investigation and human rights standards. In May, jointly with the CoE, the PCU held a training course for State Bureau of Investigations (SBI) on the prevention and investigation of ill treatment in custodial settings. The course, gathering 14 participants (4 women; 10 men) from the SBI, improved participants’ skills and knowledge in effective prevention and investigation of torture and ill treatment crimes based on best international practice.

In September, jointly with the CoE, the PCU conducted a training course for 41 SBI officers (7 women; 34 men) on the prevention and investigation techniques related to abuse of authority crimes. A second training course was held for 38 SBI officers (3 women; 35 men), focusing on investigation techniques for specific crimes.

In September, the PCU supported the seventh annual Lviv Criminal Justice Forum, which gathered 106 legal professionals (42 women; 64 men) in person and 1,116 attendees online to explore issues related to criminal justice sector reform, security sector reform, prevention and prosecution of corruption, as well as criminal justice’s constitutional issues. The event served as a platform to present and discuss the draft of the new version of the Criminal Code of Ukraine.

In September, the PCU fostered the exchange of experiences from the OSCE area and discussions on current challenges related to organized crime, law enforcement and the criminal justice system during the fifth Kharkiv International Legal Forum, an event attended by 29 in-person participants (8 women; 21 men) with 374 viewers on the PCU YouTube channel.

The PCU facilitated ODIHR’s legislative review of the draft Security Service of Ukraine (SSU) Reform Strategy and relevant draft SSU Reform Bill, currently under consideration in Parliament. In November, the PCU conducted a roundtable on the reform of the SSU and related criminal justice and security sector reform, also including issues related to integrity and gender.

In November, the PCU held a conference on criminal proceedings in areas adjacent to the contact line, where 74 participants (30 women; 44 men), among which law enforcement officers, prosecutors, judges and academics, shared their experience on the criminal justice under special legal regimes.

On 23 December, during the fifth Kyiv Polilogue on challenges for an effective criminal justice, the PCU provided a platform for the discussion of ongoing issues in criminal justice reform, including in the area of combating corruption, by gathering high-level judges specialized in anti-corruption, criminal investigators, prosecutors, as well as leading academia, attorneys and community experts.

Human Rights and Police Accountability

The PCU supported the Human Rights Protection Department of the National Police of Ukraine (NPU) in developing a human rights-based procedure/instruction for handling and protecting personal data in the police. From July to December, the PCU conducted a series of WG meetings with representatives from the NPU and CS to ensure that the developed procedure is in line with the operational requirements of the NPU, national and international legislative frameworks and a human rights-based approach. In October, two workshops for 52 police officers (22 women; 30 men) were conducted to pilot the drafted procedure. The final document was submitted to the NPU for further approval.

29 “Contact line” is used here with reference to its meaning as per UNSCR 2202 (2015)
Gender-based Violence

In a continuation of its effort to train personnel of police call centres across the country, the PCU developed a new training course for NPU personnel of the 102 hotline on how to handle calls from children reporting domestic violence incidents. The training course was piloted in four regions, namely Dnipro, Kyiv, Lviv and Odesa, during which 202 participants (113 women; 89 men) were trained on age-specific, psychological, and gender-sensitive peculiarities necessary for an effective communication with children calling the hotline.

Other activities, including co-ordination and co-operation

In September, together with psychologists at the MoIA and its affiliated agencies, the PCU developed a course on psychological support in emergency situations focused on the rehabilitation phase. The PCU conducted three training courses for 56 participants (41 women; 15 men) of MoIA affiliated agencies and two ToT sessions for 38 professors (27 women; 11 men) from MoIA institutions, which served as the second phase of in-service training on psychological support.

Activities Related to Threats Posed by Criminal Activity

Organized Crime

In 2021, the PCU assisted the national authorities in the preparation of the 2022 anti-money laundering and combating the financing of terrorism (AML/CFT) risk assessment, by focusing on the areas more susceptible to money laundering and financing of terrorism. In particular, the PCU focused on the identification of ultimate beneficial ownership, the use of ICT tools to prevent money laundering, and the introduction of a risk-oriented approach at all stages of financial monitoring.

In June and December, the PCU organized two workshops for 380 participants (140 women; 240 men) from both the public and private sectors to help participants understand the recent trends in fighting money laundering operations. The workshops covered topics such as virtual assets regulation, mechanisms of ultimate beneficial ownership identification, introduction of a risk-oriented approach, and analysis of best international practices in conducting AML/CFT risk assessments.

The PCU also developed recommendations for improving Ukraine’s financial monitoring system based on horizontal analyses of the FATF, the CoE MONEYVAL mutual evaluation reports, and national risk assessment (NRA) reports. More than 160 country-specific reports have been analysed by PCU experts and the recommendations have been integrated in the financial monitoring authorities’ AML/CFT Strategy for 2022-2024.

To enable better data processing and interpreting, in 2021 the PCU also developed a software for automation of comprehensive administrative reporting in the field of AML/CFT. This aims to significantly enhance the capabilities of financial monitoring authorities in conducting data analysis and strategic planning.

 Trafficking in Human Beings

From May to July, the PCU facilitated five three-day simulation exercises covering ten regions and hosting 163 specialists (98 women; 65 men) in combating THB to improve multi-disciplinary collaboration at the central and regional levels. The participants included migration police officers and investigators, officials responsible for granting the status of victim of THB, social service providers, labour inspectors, and NGO representatives. The training exercises helped participants to better understand the effectiveness of a multi-agency response and a victim-centred and human rights-based approach, as well as reinforce the importance of co-operation and understanding of each other’s mandates.

In September, the PCU developed and organized a three-day quest for cadets from seven Ukrainian higher education institutions of the MoIA to promote a practical approach in police education in combating THB. A total of 21 participants (11 women; 10 men), divided into three teams, took part in simulated scenarios alongside trained actors, to learn how to interview victims of THB, search traffickers’ residences and investigate cyber-facilitated THB crimes. A total of 11 professors from the same universities (5 women; 6 men) participated in the quest, and also completed a one-day training activity on methodological components of the organization, such as a simulation exercise on THB. From November to December, as a result of the acquired methodology, representatives from three MoIA Universities developed and introduced similar quests into their educational programmes.
Cybercrime and Cyber/ICT Security

In July, the PCU supported the Cyber Police Department (CPD) by conducting a pilot training and ToT with the participation of 50 officials (27 women; 23 men). These activities were organized to improve communication and ensure a more service-oriented approach to victims of cybercrimes and to align the CPD of the NPU to international best practices. The PCU also developed a guidance book on high quality service standards for CPD inspectors and operators, which was handed over to the CPD.

The PCU developed five promotional videos for the National Agency for Civil Service and the CPD to promote cyber/ICT security among the public. In November and December, these videos were broadcast at the Kyiv Boryspil Airport and the JSC Ukrainian Railways, as well as on national and regional TV channels.

Border Security and Management / Customs

In 2021, the PCU continued strengthening capacities of state authorities, namely the MoIA, the NPU, the State Border Guard Service (SBGS), and the State Customs Service (SCS) in preventing and combating illicit trafficking of weapons, ammunitions and explosives (WAE), through the organization of training courses, provision of equipment, promotion of expert networking and transfer of international best practices. In April, the PCU completed the implementation of the basic training module, counting five training events in total, on combating illicit cross-border trafficking in WAE, thus enhancing the knowledge and practical skills of 125 SBGS personnel (29 women; 96 men). In October, the PCU also trained 22 communication officers (9 women; 11 men) from the MoIA, the NPU and the SBGS, in developing awareness raising campaigns on the risks stemming from illicit trafficking of WAE.

In July, the PCU engaged two international experts (men) in API and PNR, who gathered and analysed country-specific legislation in API/PNR, passenger information units, and national targeting centres, and developed a concept road map for creating an API/PNR system based on international experiences and good practices. On 21 December, during an online workshop, the PCU presented these materials to 65 representatives (14 women; 51 men) of the SBGS and other Ukrainian law enforcement agencies, as well as national authorities. The materials provided by the experts were published in English and Ukrainian, handed over to the SBGS and the SSU, and uploaded on the PCU website.30

In August, the PCU supported the observation of the 2021 Raven Challenge in improvised explosive device disposal, where the Head of NPU Explosive Ordnance Disposal (EOD) Service widened his knowledge and skills on the subject matter. In December, the Head of EOD Service also undertook a study visit to the ALFORD bomb disposal training centre in Somerset, England.

From September to November, given the crucial role of canine units in combating cross-border trafficking of WAE, the PCU initiated and facilitated a canine capacity-building exchange programme between the SBGS, the SCS, and the Canine Training Centre of Spain’s Guardia Civil. From 22 to 27 November, the OSCE supported a study visit of 15 canine instructors (2 women; 13 men) from the SBGS and the SCS to Spain to assimilate best practices and approaches in canine use for the purpose of countering illicit WAE. These efforts led to the implementation of a full cycle Canine Team Instructor product scent detection course for SBGS and SCS canine instructors, focused particularly on the search of WAE, and scheduled to take place in 2022.

In October, the PCU facilitated a discussion platform for national stakeholders on API System development. The event, gathering 34 participants (4 women; 30 men), among whom were representatives of national authorities and experts, aimed at forging inter-institutional consensus and vision on implementation, inter alia, of the OSCE MC Decision 6/16.

In 2021, the interaction between the PCU and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) resulted in the provision of 25 access-licences to the Canadian Firearms Reference Table, one of the largest firearms databases in the world, to be used by designated representatives from the MoIA, the NPU, the SBGS, the SCS, and the SSU. The access to this resource, combined with the training course for new users held by Canadian experts on 25 October, significantly enhanced the investigative and operative-search capacities of these agencies in the area of countering illicit WAE trafficking.

In 2021, the PCU also provided specialized equipment to selected SBGS units and training institutions, including canine trailers for transportation and accommodation of service dogs, vehicle inspection toolkits, and canine GPS systems, accompanied by instructive training courses. Additionally, ICT assets were provided to SBGS border control and analytical units.

In 2021, the scope of the Centre’s activities were affected by the COVID-19 pandemic and decreased somewhat in comparison with previous years. The situation required changing the format of some project activities to online mode and facilitate a videoconference communication between project beneficiaries and experts. Due to travel restrictions and closed borders, several events and study visits were cancelled or postponed. However, the host government representatives were able to participate via existing video platforms in OSCE police-related activities organized by the OSCE Secretariat and executive structures.

Activities Related to General Police Development and Reform

Police Development and Reform

On 29 and 30 July, the POiB organized a two-day co-ordination meeting for representatives of the local mobile police reception (MPR) Councils, to discuss current issues and possibility to develop MPR activities throughout the Kyrgyz Republic, as highlighted by the results of several public opinion surveys. Some 50 representatives (22 women; 28 men) of the local MPR Councils, coming from 27 territorial police departments as well as participants from the MoI, discussed MPRs’ role in combating domestic violence and preventing gender-based violence, including bride kidnapping and forced marriage. In 2021, the POiB assisted the MoI in launching additional six new MPR vehicles. Currently, 50 MPR vehicles, 39 of which were launched with the support of the POiB, are operating in 46 police departments throughout the country.

From 13 September to 8 October, the POiB supported the organization of a series of training courses on democratic policing principles, prevention of transnational threats and domestic violence for 635 juvenile delinquency inspectors and community policing officers (120 women; 515 men) across police departments located in all seven provinces of the country. The goal of the training courses was to enhance the capacity of participants in the prevention of domestic and gender-based violence, as well as to promote effective communication and co-operation between police officers and the communities they serve.

On 18 November in Osh, and on 23 November in Bishkek, the POiB organized two training seminars focused on the prevention and countering of transnational threats, including VERLT, among the youth for 80 representatives (27 women; 53 men) of the MoI and the Ministry of Education of the Kyrgyz Republic. The purpose of the training seminar was to strengthen the capacities and knowledge of participants in actively detecting and preventing cases of violent extremism and radicalization among youth. As a result, participants gained the necessary skills to identify and analyse the dangerous narratives stemming from extremist groups, exploited by its leaders to recruit young people and other vulnerable target groups.

Throughout 2021, the POiB supported capacity-building activities of the MoI MPR Monitoring and Co-ordination Centre and monitored the operation of MPR vehicles. According to the statistics provided by the Centre, the total number of citizens’ visits to the MPR teams has increased up to 25,162 in 2021 in comparison to the 12,813 visits in 2020, pointing to a general increase in citizens’ level of trust towards the police. From April to December, MPR vehicles were monitored through GPS trackers, whose subscription fee was entirely covered by the POiB. In December, the POiB also assisted the MoI with the procurement of a TV screen to effectively monitor MRP vehicles.

Gender Mainstreaming

In December, the POiB supported the organization of a working seminar and conference on sharing good practices of gender mainstreaming in law enforcement agencies, gathering 70 participants (50 women; 20 men) from all over the country. The events, dedicated to the 10th anniversary of the establishment of the Kyrgyz Association of Women Police (KAWP) and the 5th anniversary of the establishment of the Kyrgyz Association of Women in Security Sector (KAWSS), served as a platform to share the results and key achievements of the associations over the years and to display planned activities for 2022-2023.

Community Policing, Police–Public Relations and Crime Prevention

From 25 to 27 August, the POiB organized a three-day training course for 15 representatives (6 women; 9 men) of the territorial police departments of the MoI on the promotion of UNSCR 1325 on Women, Peace, and Security and its implementation in the Kyrgyz Republic. The goal of the training course was to enhance the capacities of MoI representatives on the subject to further distribute the obtained knowledge in their respective departments, through activities such as ToTs.
In November, the POiB provided technical support in establishing two training classes and conducted a training session for 45 participants (12 women; 33 men) from the MoI Academy and the MoI Republican Training Centre on the Unified Crime Registering (UCR) system. The main goal behind the establishment of the training classes was to help participants develop the necessary hard skills to operate the UCR system as well as to provide a practical overview on the system’s data-entering techniques. Ultimately, the introduction to the use of this system aims to help in combating the concealment of crimes such as corruption, robbery, domestic violence and other crimes.

From 14 to 17 December, the POiB supported the MoI Academy in conducting training sessions focused on behaviour during emergency situations by inviting local lecturers and international experts. The training sessions gathered 130 officers (32 women; 98 men) from the MoI Academy and MoI Republican Training Centre. The main goal of the training courses was to provide the participants with an overview of the available techniques of dialogue with crowds, prevention of conflict situations as well as exit strategies. The training sessions also highlighted the work of MPR vehicles based on the MPR activities during the latest incidents on the Kyrgyz-Tajik border in the Batken province.

Gender-based Violence

From 20 September to 7 October, the POiB supported an initiative of the KAWSS on teaching topics such as human rights, transnational threats and domestic violence to high school students. The campaign, covering 1712 high school students (958 girls; 754 boys) from 15 schools throughout the country, aimed at deepening their knowledge of children’s rights, domestic violence and transnational threats.

From 15 to 19 November, the POiB supported the KAWSS with the organization of a four-day working seminar on the topic of State actors’ action in the prevention of domestic violence and the participation of female staff. The event gathered 20 representatives (17 women; 3 men) of the Office of the President, the Ombudsman, the Office of the Prosecutor, the MoI, the MoD, the Ministry of Health and Social Development and the SBS. The main goal of the seminar was to enhance the capacities of law enforcement agencies in preventing and combating domestic and gender-based violence in the Kyrgyz Republic.

Other activities, including co-ordination and co-operation

In November, the POiB facilitated the participation of the Minister of Interior of Kyrgyzstan and a delegation of Kyrgyz officials at the OSCE HCNM’s 15th Anniversary Conference on the Recommendations on Policing in Multi-Ethnic Societies, held in-person in Vienna. The POiB also facilitated the exchange between Kyrgyz MoI officials and representatives of UN Headquarters’ Police Division, which focused on the creation of a training centre for UN peacekeepers in Kyrgyzstan.

Activities Related to Threats Posed by Criminal Activity

Organized Crime

From June to July, the POiB assisted the MoI with the organization of a series of induction training seminars for 128 police officers (11 women; 117 men) across the country. The training seminars focused on effective investigation of serious and organized crime cases involving the use of modern analytical ICT tools, which were introduced in the MoI in 2014 with the POiB’s support. Additionally, the POiB provided server equipment for maintaining the database infrastructure.

To further support the Witness Protection Program within the MoI, the POiB provided technical equipment and software that allows safe and secure connection to more than 50 courtrooms across the country. In this field, technologic innovations such as voice and image changing features have improved anonymity provisions, while hardware encryption options have ensured high security standards.

Illicit Drugs and Chemical Precursors

Throughout 2021, in close co-ordination with the Ministry of Education and under the guide of the Counter Narcotics Strategy of the Kyrgyz Republic 2021-2025, the POiB supported the organization of a total of 12 illicit drug prevention initiatives. As a result, more than 1,500 children across the country were acquainted with the negative consequences of illicit drug abuse. From March to April, the POiB supported the organization of seven seminars across the country for illicit drug prevention experts. The initiatives aimed at improving co-ordination and analysing best practices in the implementation of awareness-raising campaigns in local communities. The POiB also supported the production of awareness-raising video materials and a practical guidebook for police officers on countering illicit drug-related crimes, scheduled to be further updated according to recent legislative developments. To enhance anti-drug forensic capabilities of the MoI, in December, the POiB also supported the procurement of special analytical scales and provided maintenance service of gas chromatograph equipment.

Activities Related to General Police Development and Reform

Human Rights and Police Accountability

Since its release in May, ODIHR promoted the Principles on Effective Interviewing for Investigations and Information Gathering. Based on rigorous science and experience of criminal investigators, the Principles provide guidance and solutions to law enforcement and other criminal justice actors on moving away from confession based criminal justice systems, thereby reducing the risks of coercion, torture and other ill-treatment. On 2 June, ODIHR and the Swedish Chair supported the Swiss and Danish Permanent Representations to the OSCE with the organization of an online conference on Torture Prevention in the Criminal Justice System: the role and responsibilities of police and other law enforcement. The conference offered an opportunity to introduce the new Principles and discuss the relevance of human rights-based interviewing techniques and of promoting an institutional culture that is human rights compliant and gender-sensitive with a range of stakeholders, including participating States, law enforcement practitioners and CSOs. A document compiling recommendations from the conference at the policy, national legal framework, and practice level was subsequently produced.

Gender Mainstreaming

In June, following a request by the OSCE Mission to Skopje, during a workshop on institutional change based on gender equality, ODIHR delivered a presentation on the Gender & Security Toolkit: Tool 2 on Policing and Gender to 20 senior police officers (15 women; 5 men) from different departments within the National Police. The workshop targeted those units and departments with the lowest numbers of women police officers, dealing with serious and organized crime, border security management and migration, cybercrime and digital forensics.

In September, in co-operation with the OSCE Presence in Albania, ODIHR supported efforts from Albania’s MoI and the Albanian State Police in establishing the first association of women police officers. For this purpose, ODIHR reached out to the European Network of Women in Police and jointly with the OSCE Presence in Albania, organized a dedicated event entitled Advancing gender equality within and through police services: exploring models of associations of women in police, which gathered 15 women police officers.

In 2021, ODIHR also commissioned a comparative study on women police officers associations in the OSCE area, providing in-depth analysis of their legal and decision-making prerogatives, internal structure, as well as their role in the advancement of women, the recruitment process and assistance to policewomen entering the retirement age. The study serves as an entry point for further actions, namely concrete educational and capacity-building programs aimed at advancing police women officers in their career, the elaboration of a set of recommendations for participating States on the challenges faced by women in the security sector, but also to support OSCE participating States in the establishment of such associations based on best practices.

Community Policing and Police-Public Relations

In 2021, ODIHR continued to work on building trust and understanding between the police and Roma and Sinti communities, through the implementation of the ToT programme entitled Effective and Human Rights-Compliant Policing in Roma and Sinti Communities. The programme aims at strengthening the capacity of police trainers, including trainers and teachers in police training institutions, by providing them with the skills and knowledge needed to further deliver trainings to police officers working in Roma and Sinti and mixed communities, in line with human rights standards and ensuring the safety and security of Roma and Sinti people.

From June to October, ODIHR organized four online ToT courses for 73 police trainers (28 women; 45 men), including trainers and teachers from police academies of three different countries. Between June and July, two ToTs were held in Bulgaria, gathering a total of 39 participants (14 women; 25 men), and one ToT was held in Ukraine, gathering 14 participants (7 women; 7 men). In October, another ToT was held in Italy, gathering some 20 participants (7 women; 13 men). Prior to the trainings, ODIHR conducted online training needs assessments to adapt the training curriculum to the national context and existing challenges affecting relations between police and Roma and Sinti communities. The training evaluations showed that participants improved their understanding of the importance of building trust between police and Roma and Sinti communities, the need to overcome existing stereotypes against these communities, and the benefits of working in compliance with human rights standards.

From 3 to 5 November, as part of its work on human rights and counter-terrorism issues and jointly with TNTD and the OSCE Mission to Skopje, ODIHR organized a pilot training course of a new training curriculum on community policing in P/C RELTT. The course, held in Skopje, brought together 20 police officers and community representatives (7 women; 13 men) from different regions of North Macedonia. Following further revisions of the training curriculum based on the evaluation and feedback received during the training course, a final pilot training course is envisaged to take place in Switzerland in 2022.

On 15 December, in connection with its project Words into Action to Address Intolerance, ODIHR collaborated with the United States-based Miller Center for Community Protection and Resilience of Rutgers University to organize an online event on Community-Based Policing and Building Communities of Trust/Community Relationships. The event, gathering 49 participants (28 women; 21 men) from law enforcement authorities and CSOs in Europe and North America, allowed participants to share specific initiatives, programs, and good practices on addressing security challenges in minority communities, including those specific to the COVID-19 pandemic.

In 2021, ODIHR also collaborated with the CoE to develop a common curriculum based on the two Police and Roma training tools offered by CoE institutions. As a result, a joint curriculum will be offered to OSCE participating States and CoE Member States in 2022.

Hate Crime

In 2021, ODIHR continued to support participating States in addressing hate crimes, including through the implementation of the TAHCLE programme. In February, ODIHR signed a MoU with the Police of the Republic of Armenia. As a result, in May, ODIHR organized an awareness-raising seminar on hate crimes for senior officials, gathering 45 participants (21 women; 24 men) online. Subsequently, the TAHCLE curriculum was customized for a ToT to be held at the Educational Complex of the Police of Armenia in 2022. The TAHCLE curriculum for North Macedonia was also updated and customized to incorporate new legislation on hate crime in force since 2018. This was followed by the delivery of a ToT course in Ohrid for 22 participants (7 women; 15 men) from the Police Service of North Macedonia. Following an official request for assistance, ODIHR also started negotiations for a MoU with the MoI of Ukraine to implement the TAHCLE programme. Similarly, following an MoU signed in 2013, ODIHR organized an online roundtable with representatives of the Police Academy, the MoI, the Supreme State Prosecution Office and the Judicial Training Centre of Montenegro to discuss a refresher course on the TAHCLE programme for a new group of trainers as well as possible implementation of the Prosecutors And Hate Crime Training (PAHCT) Programme. In co-operation with the OSCE Mission in Kosovo, ODIHR also provided comments and reviewed the Kosovo Police Guidelines on recording and investigating hate crimes.
From March to September, within the project Words into Action to Address Intolerance and jointly with the World Jewish Congress and the European Commission, ODIHR organized a series of events on responding to anti-Semitic hate crimes and aimed at enhancing the co-operation between law enforcement officials and Jewish communities. A total of five events, gathering 258 participants (119 women; 139 men), were implemented in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia, Latvia, Lithuania, and Serbia. The events improved the understanding of law enforcement’s response to anti-Semitic hate crimes, as well as the effective communication and co-ordination between police and Jewish communities.

On 23 September and 19 November, during two online training events organized by CEPOL, ODIHR also delivered training sessions on hate crime to 145 police officers (59 women; 86 men) from EU countries. Marking the International Day for Tolerance, on 15 November, ODIHR published its annual Hate Crime Report, highlighting the continuous need for a comprehensive response to hate crimes, including through law enforcement capacity-building.

In October, under the project Enhancing Stakeholder Awareness and Resources for Hate Crime Victim Support (ESiAR), ODIHR published its Model Guidance on Sensitive and Respectful Treatment of Hate Crime Victims in the Criminal Justice System. The document provides key guidance and recommendations for law enforcement and criminal justice professionals to help them uphold their obligations and organizational commitments in order to effectively ensure the sensitive and respectful treatment of hate crime victims within the criminal justice system. In December, ODIHR held an online pilot training on sensitive and respectful treatment of hate crime victims in Norway. The training session tested some of the modules of the ESiAR training programme and built the capacity of 14 police and investigative officers (11 women; 3 men) from the Oslo Police Department in engaging with victims of hate crime in a sensitive and respectful manner, thus preventing their secondary victimization. The event provided participants with an opportunity to learn about the impact of hate crime, the needs of hate crime victims and the importance of a victim-centered approach. Participants discussed ways to improve the course and provided feedback, which will inform the training materials to be published in 2022.
On 10 December, jointly with the Ministry of Education and Religious Affairs of Greece, ODIHR launched the Greek translation of its publication Understanding Anti-Muslim Hate Crimes - Addressing the Security Needs of Muslim Communities: A Practical Guide during an in-person event in Kavala, Greece. The event gathered 58 participants (29 women; 29 men) from several ministries of Greece, Muslim communities, law enforcement, CS, and academic institutions. The event facilitated a discussion on addressing hate crimes against Muslims and the usage of the Guide in future awareness-raising and capacity-building trainings for relevant stakeholders in Greece.

Public Order and Crisis Management

In 2021, to assist the OSCE participating States in protecting and promoting the right to freedom of peaceful assembly, ODIHR visited four countries, namely Bosnia and Herzegovina, Finland, the Netherlands, and the United Kingdom. ODIHR continues to be the only inter-governmental institution carrying out independent observation of the facilitation of assemblies for the purposes of supporting better implementation of relevant human dimension commitments.

On 18 March, ODIHR organized an event on law enforcement agencies’ response to the COVID-19 pandemic in Kazakhstan and international best practices. The event, gathering 16 participants (4 women; 12 men), aimed at raising awareness among the representatives of Kazakhstan’s MoIA and Ministry of Health on human rights standards and the applicability of community policing techniques within the context of the COVID-19 pandemic restrictions.

In July, ODIHR published the Guide on Law Enforcement Equipment Most Commonly Used in the Policing of Assemblies, developed jointly with the Omega Research Foundation. The Guide is a complementary tool to the ODIHR’s Handbook on Monitoring Freedom of Peaceful Assembly (Second Edition) aimed at helping assembly monitors in their work. It provides information about equipment and tactics that law enforcement officials might use in policing assemblies, while outlining human rights and health implications of their use.

On 10 December, following an invitation from CEPOL and jointly with the Omega Research Foundation, ODIHR organized a webinar on human rights compliant policing of public assemblies, gathering 104 law enforcement officials (21 women; 82 men) from EU Member States and other countries. The webinar focused on international human rights standards and positive practices regarding police responsibilities in facilitating the right to freedom of peaceful assembly. The webinar highlighted the key principles of ODIHR’s Human Rights Handbook on Policing Assemblies as well as the recently published Guide on Law Enforcement Equipment Most Commonly Used in the Policing of Assemblies.

Activities Related to Threats Posed by Criminal Activity

Counter-Terrorism and P/C VERLT

On 19 and 20 May, ODIHR organized a sub-regional workshop to promote dialogue for human-rights compliant responses to terrorism, including when addressing the threats and challenges of FTFs. The workshop took stock of ongoing and emerging human rights challenges in the development and implementation of counter-terrorism laws, as well as policy and practices in the concerned countries. It brought together government representatives, national human rights institutions (NHRIs), CS and other experts from Austria, Belgium, France, Germany, the Netherlands, Switzerland and the United Kingdom. The workshop was part of the follow-up to ODIHR’s Guidelines for Addressing the Threats and Challenges of “Foreign Terrorist Fighters” within a Human Rights Framework.

In July, jointly with Penal Reform International (PRI), ODIHR launched their new publication Protecting Human Rights in Prisons while Preventing Radicalization Leading to Terrorism or Violence: A Guide for Detention Monitors. The increasing focus on preventing and countering terrorist radicalization in prisons, leads states to adopt various measures impacting human rights in detention facilities. Scrutiny by independent monitors is important to ensure that these measures are based on the rule of law and respect for human rights. The guide seeks to equip detention monitors with tools and knowledge of the subject relevant to their respective monitoring mandates and methodologies.
In November, jointly with the OSCE Project Co-ordinator in Uzbekistan, ODIHR organized a ToT course on protecting human rights while countering terrorism effectively for eight trainers (3 women; 5 men). The course, held in Uzbekistan, helped national trainers to familiarize with the contents, key principles, practical modalities and methodology of ODIHR’s standard law enforcement training on the topic. It constituted an important step towards institutionalizing the training programme at the national level and ensuring the long-term sustainability of ODIHR capacity-building activities in the country. Further training courses co-facilitated by the national trainers who took part in the ToT are foreseen to take place in 2022.

In November, jointly with the OSCE Mission to Skopje, ODIHR organized a training course on protecting human rights and effectively countering terrorism for 20 participants (men), among which counter-terrorism police officers, Special Forces officers and members of the National Academy in Skopje. The training course focused on the link between human rights and the operational effectiveness of counter-terrorism policing. The course covered risks originating from human rights violations in the counter-terrorism context, the impact of human rights violations on both suspects and law-enforcement officers, interviewing techniques, as well as bias and stereotypes, including based on gender, in counter-terrorism policing.

In 2021, ODIHR continued to provide human rights expertise to a wide range of programmatic activities of other OSCE executive structures in the field of preventing and countering terrorism and VERLT. ODIHR contributed with panel-lists to events such as the OSCE Regional Conference on Countering Terrorist Financing and Transnational Organized Crime and the Regional Policy Dialogue with Legislators from South-Eastern Europe on the Prosecution, Rehabilitation, and Reintegration of FTFs.

Trafficking in Human Beings

In 2021, as part of its work to provide legislative assistance to OSCE participating States and reviewing, upon request, legislation and draft legislation to ensure their compliance with OSCE human dimension commitments and international standards, ODIHR issued two opinions related to combating THB which included recommendations concerning the work of police: an opinion on establishment of Child Justice Centre(s) in Ukraine and an opinion on anti-trafficking legislation of Finland.

Border Security and Management / Customs

In October, ODIHR published the policy brief: Border Management and Human Rights: Collection, processing and sharing of personal data and the use of new technologies in the counter-terrorism and freedom of movement context. The document provides an overview of the human rights implications of API and PNR, biometric data systems, algorithmic decision-making, including for screening and risk assessments of travellers, and the use of terrorism watch lists and law enforcement databases in border security. It also provides recommendations to OSCE participating States on how to respect and protect human rights when using new technologies in border management. In December, ODIHR held a presentation of the policy brief and panel debate with international experts.

In October and November, ODIHR experts contributed with specialized human rights expertise to activities organized by other OSCE executive structures in the field of border security, such as to the 5th OSCE-wide Seminar on Passenger Data Exchange, the OSCE Border Management Staff College Roundtable on Afghanistan and Security Threats to Central Asian Region and the OSCE Conference of the CABMI on Afghanistan and the New Border Security Landscape in Central Asia.

Introduction

The High Commissioner on National Minorities (HCNM) provides “early warning” and, as appropriate, “early action” at the earliest possible stage with regard to tensions involving national minority issues. To fulfil this conflict prevention mandate, the HCNM addresses the short-term triggers of inter-ethnic tension and conflict, as well as long-term structural concerns. Drawing on over 25 years of experience, successive High Commissioners have identified certain recurrent issues which either cause or are linked to tensions involving national minorities. These issues are addressed in the HCNM’s nine thematic Recommendations and Guidelines, which aim to assist the OSCE participating States in their efforts to define a comprehensive approach towards developing policies that promote the integration of their diverse societies.

The HCNM also plays a key role in security sector governance and reform (SSG/R), as its engagement with minorities requires SSG responses. For instance, the HCNM supports police reform through a non-discrimination and multi-ethnic approach. Furthermore, the HCNM provides policy guidance to participating States, for example, with the publication of The Recommendations on Policing in Multi-Ethnic Societies (2006) and The Graz Recommendations on Access to Justice and National Minorities (2017).

15th Anniversary of the Recommendations on Policing in Multi-Ethnic Societies

On 5 November, on the 15th anniversary of its Recommendations on Policing in Multi-Ethnic Societies (2006), the HCNM organized a conference in Vienna in a blended format. The conference aimed to promote the principles and practices outlined in the Recommendations and reiterate the readiness of the High Commissioner to support OSCE participating States on policing in diverse societies. The event, organized in co-operation with TNTD/SPMU, hosted 128 representatives (82 women; 46 men) from the delegations of OSCE participating States and Partners for Cooperation, representatives of the OSCE executive structures and field operations as well as other international organizations, with 276 participants streaming the event online. A total of 13 conference panellists (9 women; 4 men) exchanged on positive practices and lessons learned with a number of experts and practitioners, by including country-specific examples from Bulgaria, Canada, Hungary, Ireland, Kazakhstan, the Kyrgyz Republic, Montenegro, North Macedonia, Norway and the United States. The conference highlighted the importance of recruitment, representation and continuous training of police services as to reflect the diversity of the societies they serve. The conference also reviewed relevant aspects of mainstreaming gender into policing, as well as the intersection between gender and national minorities. Furthermore, its focus included aspects such as gender-responsive approaches to community engagement, operational methods and reporting, specifically in cases of gender-based violence. Success stories and activities conducted with OSCE’s support were also shared. Experts’ discussions stressed the need to effectively build trust and enhance communication and transparency between the police and the communities they serve, for example, by avoiding ethnic and racial profiling that structurally undermines this trust. Finally, participants called for an increased collaboration with CS and academia, highlighting the need to gather disaggregated data, including gender disaggregated data, for evidence-based policing, as it allows better evaluation of police effectiveness in diverse societies.

OSCE MC and PC Decisions, Declarations and Action Plans with a Focus on Police-Related Activities

Taskings on police-related issues are contained in OSCE Summit Decisions as well as in the growing list of Decisions of the Ministerial Council and the Permanent Council, including a number of OSCE Action Plans.

The latest comprehensive set of OSCE mandates on police-related activities was adopted in 2012 with the Dublin MC Decision No. 4/12 on the OSCE’s Efforts to Address Transnational Threats, which endorsed four PC decisions from 2012, including the OSCE Strategic Framework for Police-Related Activities (PC.DEC/1049) and the OSCE Concept for Combating the Threat of Illicit Drugs and the Diversion of Chemical Precursors (PC.DEC/1048). With the adoption of these decisions, the participating States reaffirmed the key role that OSCE police-related activities play in the Organization’s efforts to address threats to security and stability posed by criminal activity, as well as its efforts in the areas of conflict prevention, crisis management and post conflict rehabilitation in the OSCE area.

The Charter for European Security adopted by the Istanbul Summit Meeting (1999) represents the platform for the OSCE involvement in policing. It contains the commitment of the OSCE participating States to enhance the OSCE’s role in civilian police-related activities as an integral part of the Organization’s efforts in conflict prevention, crisis management and post-conflict rehabilitation. Such activities may comprise the following: (1) police monitoring, including to prevent police from discriminating due to religious and ethnic identity; (2) police training, which could, inter alia, aim to improve the operational and tactical capabilities of local police services and reform paramilitary forces, provide new and modern policing skills, such as community policing, and anti-drug, anti-corruption and anti-terrorist capacities, create a police service with a multi-ethnic and/or multireligious composition that can enjoy the confidence of the entire population; and (3) promoting respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms in general.

The Ninth Ministerial Council in Bucharest (2001) declared the OSCE’s decision to increase and promote co-operation among participating States in countering new security challenges, including by providing advice or arranging for the provision of expert advice on requirements for effective policing (needs assessments) and how to meet them, and encouraging where appropriate the exchange of information among and between participating States regarding lessons learned and best policing practices in countering these new security challenges.

The Bucharest Plan of Action for Combating Terrorism (2001), adopted on the same occasion as the above Decision on police-related activities, recognized the need to assist participating States, on their request, through measures to combat THB, illicit drug and SALW, in accordance with relevant Permanent Council decisions. This assistance could also include provision of advice and assistance on restructuring and/or reconstruction of police services; monitoring and training of existing police services, including human rights training; and capacity-building, including support for integrated or multi-ethnic police services. To this end, the plan of action acknowledged the requirement for reinforcing existing police-related activities in conflict prevention, crisis management and post-conflict rehabilitation.

In its Decision No. 448 (2001), the Permanent Council decided to establish the seconded post of Senior Police Adviser in the OSCE Secretariat.

In the Declaration on Trafficking in Human Beings adopted by the Tenth Ministerial Council of the OSCE (Porto 2002), its members called on participating States to enhance international co-operation in combating criminal acts such as trafficking in illicit drugs and arms, as well as smuggling of migrants. They emphasized the need to include in this co-operation international law enforcement bodies such as Europol and INTERPOL, as well as the Southeast European Cooperative Initiative (SECI), with a view to investigating and prosecuting those responsible for THB in accordance with domestic law and, where applicable, international obligations. In this regard, they also asked the Senior Police Adviser to devote increased attention to the fight against THB.
This tasking was further detailed in the OSCE Action Plan to Combat Trafficking in Human Beings, which requested the SPMU to further promote the concept of community policing and facilitate the exchange of information between participating States on best practices to be used by relevant investigating units to check the possibly criminal and trafficking-related origin of suspicious assets. The SPMU was also tasked to continue developing training materials for law enforcement on trafficking and sex crimes investigation, identify law enforcement trainers to conduct training, and facilitate the funding of training sessions for law enforcement authorities in OSCE participating States.

One of the aspects of policing of ethnic minorities was addressed by the OSCE Action Plan on Improving the Situation of Roma and Sinti within the OSCE Area (2003). The SPMU was tasked to assist participating States in developing programmes and CBMs, such as community policing, to improve the relations between Roma and Sinti people and the police, particularly at the local level, and to produce a compilation of police best practices in the OSCE region with respect to policing and Roma and Sinti communities. Another established task was to assist the participating States in developing codes of conduct to prevent racial profiling and improve inter-ethnic relations.

The OSCE Strategy to Address Threats to Security and Stability in the Twenty-First Century, adopted by the 11th Ministerial Council in Maastricht in 2003 stated that the SPMU was set up to improve the capacity of participating States to address threats posed by criminal activity and to assist them in upholding the rule of law. The aim was to enhance key policing skills, including respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms.

The 2004 OSCE Action Plan for the Promotion of Gender Equality, adopted by the 12th Ministerial Council of the OSCE (Sofia 2004), urged the participating States, the Secretariat, institutions and field operations to ensure that a gender perspective is integrated into OSCE activities, programmes and projects. The aim shall be to promote the practice of gender equality in the OSCE area, which is essential to comprehensive security. In this context, the SPMU was specifically tasked to enhance its project development to assist participating States in reacting to sexual violence offences and in including elements such as special investigation techniques, and interview skills designated for use with victims of sexual assault including children, and information on referral mechanisms for victim assistance, in the police training curriculum.

The fight against organized crime came to the forefront of OSCE priorities during 2005 and was recognized in a Decision on Combating Transnational Organized Crime adopted by the 13th Ministerial Council of the OSCE (Ljubljana 2005). It tasked the OSCE Secretary General with providing the requesting participating States with support for the mobilization of technical assistance, including the necessary expertise and resources, from relevant competent international organizations for the implementation of the United Nations Convention Against Transnational Organized Crime and its Protocols. The Decision also tasked the OSCE Permanent Council to work on designing, with the support of the Secretary General and the relevant OSCE institutions, possible measures and forms of assistance that could be available to requesting participating States with a view to improving and promoting the functioning of criminal justice systems.

Ljubljana Ministerial Decision No. 15/05 on Preventing and Combating Violence against Women urged participating States, with support and assistance of the OSCE, to take all necessary legislative, policy and programmatic monitoring and evaluation measures to promote and protect full enjoyment of the human rights of women, and to prevent and combat all forms of gender-based violence against them. The decision also tasked the Permanent Council to encourage the development by relevant OSCE institutions and structures of programmes, projects and policies to assist participating States, at their request, in combating violence against women and girls and providing assistance to victims.

The Ljubljana Ministerial Council also adopted the OSCE Border Security and Management Concept, which first and foremost provides participating States with a political framework for their co-operation on border-related issues. It provides objectives and principles for this co-operation and finally defines modalities for OSCE activities in this area. The OSCE “acts upon the request of participating States” to ensure dialogue on border-related issues through, inter alia, “exchange of information, experience and best practices”, the establishment of a National Focal Points Network, holding of workshops and conferences.

Permanent Council Decision No. 758 Enhancing International Anti-Drug Co-operation (2006) tasked the Secretary General and relevant OSCE institutions with providing participating States, upon their request and in close consultation and co-ordination with UNODC, with assistance/advice on anti-drug issues, inter alia, through awareness-raising activities, the organization of regional workshops and facilitation of training.
The Decision on Combating Sexual Exploitation of Children adopted by the 14th Ministerial Council of the OSCE (Brussels 2006) encouraged relevant OSCE executive structures, within their existing mandates, to devote attention to the area of sexual exploitation of children, including links to trafficking in persons, and emphasized the need for them and the participating States to co-operate with other international organizations, NGOs and CS in combating the sexual exploitation of children.

The 14th Ministerial Council of the OSCE (Brussels 2006) adopted the follow-up Decision on Organized Crime, reaffirming the importance that the OSCE was giving to this subject. The Decision’s tasking to the OSCE Secretary General and the relevant OSCE executive structures, within their respective mandates, included giving enhanced attention to the key role of criminal justice systems in institution-building and in the promotion of the rule of law, as well as co-operating and co-ordinating more closely in order to take better into account the interaction between the components of those systems. A further major task was to build on and consolidate the knowledge and experience on criminal justice and organized crime, and to continue co-operating with UNODC in matters including combating organized crime and illicit drugs.

Recalling the Ministerial Council Decisions Nos. 3/05 (Ljubljana) on combating transnational organized crime, and 5/06 (Brussels) on organized crime, Permanent Council Decision No. 810 (2007) on Implementation of the United Nations Convention Against Transnational Organized Crime tasked the Secretary General to support the implementation of the UNTOC convention in co-operation with UNODC, and to organize a workshop in co-operation and co-ordination with the Secretariat of the Conference of the Parties to the UNTOC.

Permanent Council Decision No. 813 (2007) on Combating the Threat of Illicit Drugs and Precursors emphasized the continuing spread of illicit trafficking of opiates from Afghanistan and chemical precursors throughout the OSCE area. The Permanent Council called on the Secretary General to further develop co-operation in the field of anti-drug matters with UNODC, the Paris Pact and other relevant international structures and organizations by, inter alia, organizing joint regional and sub regional workshops and other activities. Furthermore, the Secretary General was tasked with continuing training activities on illicit drug-related matters.

The need for continuing training of Afghan police officers in addition to providing assistance to Afghanistan in the fields of border security and combating illicit drug trafficking was also a core topic of the Ministerial Decision No. 4/07 on OSCE Engagement with Afghanistan (Madrid). Participating States tasked the Secretary General to provide support for intensifying the involvement of Afghan counterparts in OSCE activities related to the fields of border security and management, policing and the fight against illicit drug trafficking, and those in the training facilities in Central Asia and in the rest of the OSCE area. While tasked to avoid unnecessary duplication of existing efforts of other international actors, the Secretary General was also mandated to explore all possible co-operation options, in co-ordination with the UN and other relevant regional and international organizations and other actors.

At the Helsinki Ministerial Council in December 2008, the participating States turned their attention once again to the issue of THB. Decision No. 5/08 on Enhancing Criminal Justice Responses to Trafficking in Human Beings Through a Comprehensive Approach emphasized the need for training on combating THB for law enforcement personnel and urged the participating States inter alia to ensure co-operation between law enforcement agencies and other relevant actors at the national and international level, and “to intensify measures to disrupt trafficking networks, including by means of financial investigations, investigations of money laundering connected to human trafficking and the freezing and confiscation of the assets of human traffickers”.

Reaffirming the participating States’ commitment to pro-actively implement the OSCE Action Plan for the Promotion of Gender Equality and recalling Ljubljana Ministerial Council Decisions on Women in Conflict Prevention, Crisis Management and Post-Conflict Rehabilitation, and on Preventing and Combating Violence against Women, the 17th Ministerial Council of the OSCE (Athens 2009), in its Decision on Women’s Participation in Political and Public Life, called on the participating States to consider providing for specific measure to achieve the goal of gender balance in all legislative, judicial and executive bodies, including police services.

Acknowledging the “[…] diverse and multifaceted OSCE work, experience and lessons learned in the policing field, in particular the work of the SPMU and the field operations within their respective mandates”, the Permanent Council, in its Decision 914/09, adopted in Athens, expressed its conviction that the time had come to take stock of what had been done so far in policing and to “[…] initiate a thorough dialogue on how to further enhance police-related activities within the OSCE.” The Permanent Council tasked the Secretary General, “[…] within existing resources and in consultation with relevant OSCE executive structures, to prepare a report on police-related activities of the OSCE executive structures up to the end of 2009". The report was to be based partly on the annual reports on police-related activities, reflecting existing mandates and OSCE commitments, and was “[…] to include an assessment of those activities and a forward-looking perspective, offering long-term strategic recommendations". Moreover, the Permanent Council decided that this report would be further discussed during the next Annual Police Experts Meeting in May 2010 as well as at the 2010 Annual Security Review Conference.

The Athens Ministerial Council Decision No. 2/09 on Further OSCE Efforts to Address Transnational Threats and Challenges to Security and Stability took note of, inter alia, the OSCE’s contribution to international efforts to fight organized crime through the provision of relevant law enforcement expertise and assistance to participating States and called for exploring further ways to strengthen synergies in OSCE activities against transnational threats, addressing them in a comprehensive and cross-dimensional manner and focusing on areas, where the OSCE has a comparative advantage and can complement the work of other international organizations.

“Recalling that the OSCE, as a regional arrangement under Chapter VIII of the Charter of the UN and as a primary organization for the peaceful settlement of disputes within its region, is a key instrument for early warning, conflict prevention and resolution, crisis management and postconflict rehabilitation”, the participating States, in the 2011 Vilnius Ministerial Council Decision No. 3/11 on Elements of the Conflict Cycle, Related to Enhancing the OSCE’s Capabilities in Early Warning, Early Action, Dialogue Facilitation and Mediation Support, and Post-Conflict Rehabilitation, reiterated “[…] that the OSCE’s ability to deploy civilian, police or unarmed military expertise rapidly is essential to effective conflict prevention, crisis management and post-conflict rehabilitation”, and expressed their expectation for “[…] the OSCE Chairmanship and the executive structures to take full advantage of their respective mandates to address all phases of the conflict cycle” and while urging the Chairmanship and participating States to use, swiftly and to the greatest extent possible, all available tools and procedures as applicable to a particular crisis or conflict situation […].”

“Reiterating the determination expressed by Heads of State or Government of the OSCE participating States in the 2010 Astana [now Nur-Sultan] Commemorative Declaration: Towards a Security Community to achieve greater unity of purpose and action in facing emerging transnational threats, such as terrorism, organized crime, illegal migration, proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, cyber threats and the illicit trafficking in small arms and light weapons, drugs and human beings”, the Vilnius Ministerial Council, in Decision No. 9/11 on Strengthening Co-ordination and Coherence in the OSCE’s Efforts to Address Transnational Threats welcomed “the proposals by the Secretary General included in the 2012 Unified Budget Proposal for the creation of a department to address transnational threats, consistent with the OSCE’s mandates and within available resources, with a view to ensuring better co-ordination, strengthened coherence and more efficient use of the OSCE’s resources in addressing transnational threats […]”.

To further strengthen the OSCE’s efforts to address transnational threats, the Dublin Ministerial Council adopted Decision No. 4/12 in December 2012. This so called ‘chapeau’ decision endorses four decisions which had been adopted in 2012 by the Permanent Council on the Development of confidence-building measures to reduce the risks of conflict stemming from the use of information and communication technologies (PC Decision No. 1039), the OSCE Concept for Combating the Threat of Illicit Drugs and the Diversion of Chemical Precursors (PC Decision No. 1048), the OSCE Strategic Framework for Police-Related Activities (PC Decision No. 1049) and finally, the OSCE Consolidated Framework for the Fight against Terrorism (PC Decision No. 1063).

In the PC Decision No. 1039 on the Development of Confidence-Building Measures to Reduce the Risks of Conflict Stemming from the Use of Information and Communication Technologies, the Permanent Council “decides to step up individual and collective efforts to address security in the use of information and communication technologies (ICTs) in a comprehensive and cross-dimensional manner in accordance with OSCE commitments and in co-operation with relevant international organizations. The PC further tasks the OSCE Chairmanship to establish an open-ended, informal OSCE WG under the auspices of the Security Committee to elaborate a set of draft CBMs to enhance interstate co-operation, transparency, predictability, and stability, and to reduce the risks of misperception, escalation, and conflict that may stem from the use of ICT; and to help build consensus for the adoption of such a set of CBMs in 2012”.

The OSCE Concept for Combatting the Threat of Illicit Drugs and the Diversion of Chemical Precursors (PC Decision No. 1048) identifies areas and activities for a short-, medium and long-term engagement in combating the threat of illicit drugs and the diversion of chemical precursors that requires sustained efforts, and establishes a political framework for comprehensive action by the OSCE... participating States and the OSCE executive structures to combat this threat. The Concept stresses the participating States’ commitments to support the implementation of the respective international obligations in this area, with a particular focus on the related UN Conventions and decisions. It also sets principles and major objectives of co-operation, and provides a platform for OSCE’s co-operation with international organizations and partners in recognition of the important role played by CS, including the media and nongovernmental organizations, in addressing illicit drug-related crimes, as well as preventive measures aimed at reducing illicit drug abuse and dependence, and illicit drug-related harm to health and society, especially to children and young people. According to the Concept, the participating States’ co-operation will include, inter alia, the exchange of best practices and scientific evidence-based information on combating the threat of illicit drugs; as well as the facilitation and promotion of cross border interaction between relevant criminal justice agencies and other competent national structures of the participating States in the prevention, identification, suppression, detection and investigation of illicit drug-related crimes, and the apprehension and extradition of criminals in accordance with existing legal frameworks.

The OSCE Strategic Framework for Police-Related Activities (PC Decision No. 1049) defines the Organization’s priorities in this area, such as police development and reform and the fight against organized transnational crime, including trafficking in illicit drugs and precursors, THB, the sexual exploitation of children on the internet, and cybercrime, within a wider OSCE approach to security. Through needs assessment, capacity-building, institution building, training and evaluation the OSCE will assist the law enforcement agencies of the participating States to address the threats posed by criminal activity. All of these activities will be done in line with the promotion of the principles of democratic policing, such as the importance of the rule of law; due respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms, including gender and minority issues; police-public partnerships; effective and accountable criminal justice systems; and enhanced criminal justice co-operation among participating States and international and regional organizations. The decision highlights the importance of co-operation with governmental authorities as well as CS, in a long-term approach, that fosters local commitment and ownership to as well as sustainability of police-related programme achievements.

The OSCE Consolidated Framework for the Fight against Terrorism (PC Decision No. 1063) further strengthens the profile of the Organization in the struggle against terrorism. The Decision builds on relevant decisions of the Ministerial Council and highlights the OSCE’s anti-terrorism profile listing comparative advantages of the Organization. The Decision provides guidance for the Organization outlining strategic focus areas for counter-terrorism activities. Therewith the Decision is a roadmap for any further OSCE action to be taken in the area of countering terrorism.

In the 2012 Dublin Ministerial Declaration on Strengthening Good Governance and Combating Corruption, Money Laundering and the Financing of Terrorism, the participating States encourage the OCEEA and the TNTD “within their respective mandates to assist the participating States, at their request, in their efforts to counter money laundering and the financing of terrorism, including through the development, adoption and implementation of legislation and practices to improve interagency and external co-ordination mechanisms in this area.”

In 2013, the participating States, with PC Dec. No. 1106 adopted the Addendum to the OSCE Action Plan to Combat Trafficking in Human Beings: One Decade Later, which amends the 2003 Action Plan, providing the participating States with an updated toolkit to combat all forms of THB, and helping to address the current and emerging THB trends and patterns, as well as the most pressing challenges related to the prosecution of the crime, its prevention, and protection of trafficked persons.

In 2013, the participating States adopted the Initial Set of OSCE Confidence-Building Measures to Reduce the Risks of Conflict Stemming from the Use of Information and Communication Technologies (PC Decision No. 1106) in order to enhance interstate co-operation, transparency, predictability and stability and to reduce the risks of misperception, escalation and conflict that may stem from the use of information and communication technologies. According to the decision, the participating States will voluntarily facilitate co-operation among the competent national bodies; share information on measures that they have taken to ensure an open, interoperable, secure and reliable internet; and use the OSCE as a platform for dialogue, exchange of best practices, awareness raising and information on capacity-building regarding security of and in the use of ICTs, including effective responses to related threats.

The 2014 Basel Ministerial Council adopted several decisions and declarations related to policing activities.

The Basel Ministerial Decision No. 5/14 on the Prevention of Corruption underlines, inter alia, “the central role played by law enforcement bodies and judicial institutions in preventing and combating corruption” and encourages the relevant OSCE executive structures to facilitate the exchange of best practices in the prevention of corruption among participating States upon their request.

The Basel Ministerial Decision No. 7/14 on Preventing and Combating Violence against Women reaffirms earlier commitments to prevent and combat violence against women, including domestic violence, and calls on participating States to improve their legal frameworks for preventing and combating such violence and to collect and make public data and statistics regarding all forms of violence against women. It encourages participating States to enhance awareness raising and other prevention programmes, to ensure the protection of victims of all forms of violence against women and to “strengthen the efforts to investigate, prosecute and punish the perpetrators of all forms of violence against women and provide victims with protection and appropriate remedies.” The decision tasks the OSCE executive structures to assist participating States, at their request, to facilitate the exchange of information, improve co-ordination and provide technical assistance and training to help participating States fulfil these goals.

The Basel Ministerial Council Declaration No. 5/14 on the OSCE Role in Countering the Phenomenon of Foreign Terrorist Fighters in the Context of the Implementation of UN Security Council Resolutions 2170 (2014) and 2178 (2014) calls upon the OSCE executive structures, inter alia, “to offer assistance in capacity-building activities to the requesting participating States, in accordance with Permanent Council Decision No. 1063, and to organize, where appropriate, regional and sub-regional events to identify potential weaknesses in international legal and operational co-operation mechanisms in order to foster better co-operation and co-ordination nationally and internationally”; “to continue to promote OSCE efforts to counter violent extremism and radicalization that lead to terrorism, including through community policing approaches to preventing terrorism, in particular at the local level”; and “to support requesting participating States in the implementation of their commitments regarding travel document security and border management and to facilitate technical assistance in this field by INTERPOL and other relevant international organizations to requesting participating States.”

The Basel Ministerial Council Declaration No. 6/14 on the OSCE Role in Countering Kidnapping and Hostage-Taking Committed by Terrorist Groups in the Context of the Implementation of UN Security Council Resolution 2133 (2014) calls upon the OSCE executive structures to continue promoting the international legal framework against terrorism, to explore ways to exchange information between intelligence agencies and the criminal justice systems and to promote capacity-building for managing, investigating and prosecuting cases of terrorist kidnapping and hostage-taking.

The Belgrade Ministerial Council Declaration No. 2/15 on the OSCE Activities in Support of the Global Efforts Tackling the World Drug Problem states the need for a balanced and integrated approach to tackling the world drug problem, for further co-operation between the OSCE with UNODC, the International Narcotics Control Board, and other relevant multilateral organizations, especially with the emergence and spread of dangerous new psychoactive substances and the diversion of chemical precursors, and for further co-operation in preparation for the UN General Assembly Special Session on the world drug problem (UNGASS 2016).

The Belgrade Ministerial Council Declaration No. 3/15 on Reinforcing OSCE Efforts to Counter Terrorism in the Wake of the Recent Terrorist Attacks condemns all terrorist attacks and reaffirms the OSCE’s commitments to remain united in combating terrorism, while underscoring the respect for human rights, fundamental freedoms, and the rule of law as complementary to effective counter-terrorism measures.

The Belgrade Ministerial Council Declaration No. 4/15 on Preventing and Countering Violent Extremism and Radicalization that Lead to Terrorism calls upon participating States to strengthen and adapt their efforts to counter violent extremism and radicalization that lead to terrorism and to support a multi-dimensional approach, including community policing, to countering VERLT within the OSCE region.

The Hamburg Ministerial Council Decision No. 1/16 on Strengthening OSCE Efforts to Prevent and Counter Terrorism underscores the central role of the UN in preventing and countering terrorism, including the importance of OSCE commitments to the UN Global Counter-Terrorism Strategy, and that participating States have the primary role in preventing and countering terrorism and violent extremism and radicalization that lead to terrorism (VERLT), while stressing the need for participating States to take appropriate steps to prevent and suppress financing of terrorism. The decision also positively appreciates the implementation of the #Unite4CVE campaign, and welcomed the activities by OSCE executive structures in the field of preventing and countering terrorism.

The Hamburg Ministerial Council Decision No. 3/16 on OSCE’s Role in the Governance of Large Movements of Migrants and Refugees encourages participating States to use the OSCE platform for improving dialogue on miigration related matters by developing effective measures and common approaches to address such matters, and encourages OSCE executive structures to reinforce the exchange of best practices and to enhance dialogue and co-operation with Partners for Co-operation.

With MC Decision No. 6/16 on Enhancing the Use of Advanced Passenger Information the OSCE participating States commit to: 1. Establish national advance passenger information (API) systems in accordance with the provisions contained in ICAO’s Annex 9 to the Convention on International Civil Aviation (the Chicago Convention) and aligned with the WCO/IATA/ICAO Guidelines on Advance Passenger Information (API), including those on privacy and data protection, in order to effectively collect passenger and/or crew data from airlines operating in their territories; 2. Consider establishing at the national level an interactive system to exchange API data (API) in order to prevent the movement of foreign terrorist fighters in line with UN Security Council resolutions 2178 (2014) and 2309 (2016); 3. Adhere to ICAO Document 9082 “ICAO’s Policies on Charges for Airports and Air Navigation Services” in the context of establishing an API system, recognizing that States are responsible for ensuring the implementation of adequate security measures at airports; 4. Collaborate with all relevant national stakeholders in the implementation of national level API systems, and consider establishing one authority to receive, on behalf of all other authorities, all forms of passenger data through one single window data entry point; 5. Increase the added value of API data by seeking to establish automated cross-checking of this data against relevant national, regional and international watch lists, in particular INTERPOL databases and UN Sanctions Lists; 6. Provide assistance to support other requesting participating States in establishing an API system.

The Tirana Ministerial Council Declaration No. 1/20 on Strengthening Co-operation in Countering Transnational Organized Crime, underlined the importance of strengthening national co-ordination and international co-operation in countering transnational organized crime, through direct contact and engagement between relevant authorities, and by exchange of information and best practices, as well as by using the tools provided by the OSCE, UNODC, and other relevant international organizations. It recommitted to maintaining the countering of transnational organized crime among the priorities of the OSCE by enhancing implementation of the respective international obligations and the OSCE’s existing commitments, as well as reaffirmed the tasking of the relevant OSCE executive structures to brief the participating States regularly on OSCE activities related to the implementation of existing OSCE commitments to address transnational organized crime, and encouraged continued discussions on this topic among participating States.
