DECISION No. 1302
2018 OSCE MEDITERRANEAN CONFERENCE

(Malaga, Spain, 25 and 26 October 2018)

The Permanent Council,

Welcoming the willingness of Spain to host the 2018 OSCE Mediterranean Conference, to be held in Malaga, Spain, on 25 and 26 October 2018 as decided by Permanent Council Decision No. 1292 of 17 May 2018 on the dates and venue of the 2018 OSCE Mediterranean Conference, and further to discussions with the Mediterranean Partners for Co-operation,

Adopts the agenda, timetable and organizational modalities of the Conference, as contained in the annex.

AGENDA AND ORGANIZATIONAL MODALITIES OF THE 2018 OSCE MEDITERRANEAN CONFERENCE ON THE IMPORTANCE OF ENERGY FOR ECONOMIC GROWTH AND CO-OPERATION IN THE MEDITERRANEAN

Malaga, Spain, 25 and 26 October 2018

I. Indicative agenda

Introduction

Guaranteeing sustainable and reliable energy at affordable prices is the precondition for prospering economies and peace and security throughout the OSCE and its Mediterranean Partners. Arguably, there is hardly another domain than energy in which the indivisibility of Euro-Mediterranean security is more manifest – and more consequential – for the stability of States, the prosperity of the local economies, and the well-being of societies around the basin and beyond. Traditionally at the centre of the world’s fossil fuel market, the Mediterranean region is now increasingly becoming a main driver of energy innovation and transformation.

The development of clean or renewable energy technologies can provide economic opportunities to countries with substantial conventional energy resources as well as those who lack such resources by offering an alternative means to power their economies and generate jobs for their citizens. Renewable energy today is embraced as a key solution to the triple challenges of energy supply, security and climate change which are all of concern in the Mediterranean region.

The OSCE serves as platform for dialogue and fostering co-operation and security and stands ready to provide a platform to exchange best practices and build capacity to maximize the economic benefits of renewable as well as of traditional forms of energy, and facilitate public and private partnerships and the transfer of know-how in the energy sector. Against this backdrop, the 2018 Mediterranean Conference and in particular its high-level political segment will focus on how to leverage energy to promote economic growth and co-operation in the Mediterranean region. The conference will bring together key energy experts from the public and private sector from both sides of the Mediterranean to discuss policies, develop strategies and identify business opportunities in this respect.

The first session will be devoted to connectivity, growth and co-operation: the role of energy.

The second session will be focused on the protection of critical energy infrastructure.

The third session will delve into the benefits of renewables.

The Conference will provide the participating States and Partners for Co-operation with an opportunity to exchange views, experiences, best practices, and lessons learned in connection with the role and importance of energy in promoting economic growth and co-operation in the Mediterranean. The Conference will serve as a platform to further develop dialogue and enhance co-operation for the sake of enhancing security in the Mediterranean, in line with the OSCE principles and commitments.
