Agenda of the Joint OSCE/UNODC Technical Experts Conference on Border Management and Security

Vienna (Hofburg), 7- 8 September 2004

1. General information

On 7 and 8 September 2004 a Joint OSCE/UNODC Technical Experts Conference on Border Management and Security will take place in Vienna at the Hofburg Congress Centre. The Conference will be co-chaired by Ambassador Lamberto Zannier, Director of the Conflict Prevention Centre within the OSCE Secretariat and Bernard Frahi, Chief of the Partnership in Development Branch of UNODC.

Interpretation into the six official OSCE languages will be provided during the Conference.

The participating States of the OSCE will attend the Conference at expert level. They are asked to focus on their respective experiences with international organizations.

The aim of the Conference will be to share international organisations' experience in promoting more effective border management and security, and to develop a more strategic and co-ordinated approach to delivering international assistance. The Conference will highlight the capacities of the respective international organisations for providing assistance in capacity-building in the area of border control and management, and work toward co-ordination, streamlining and avoiding duplication in international co-operation while providing assistance in this area.

The expected results and outputs from the Conference will lead to improved co-ordination, streamlining and the avoidance of duplication, while providing assistance in the area of border management and security capacity building. These considerations might include a follow-up system of regular meetings, at which, inter alia, expertise, results and best practices could be shared.

Strategies to counter corruption in international border management and security assistance initiatives should be discussed as well as ways to identify modalities where international organizations might act in partnership in the field of border related activities following the identification of areas of specific expertise and value added among respective international organizations. Each international organisation should seek to identify good practices in border management and security as well as impediments to effective co-operation in border issues and their related activities, including legal obstacles, resources, political mandates, and organizational constraints and to consider measures to overcome them, and to agree a statement of intent to work closely together over all border related activities.

2. Concept of the Conference

The Conference will be divided into three sessions over two days. The first session will concentrate on identifying the principal issues and challenges in border management and security; the second session will examine more specific border management and security issues, including controls, effective policing, customs requirements and addressing corruption; the third session will consider mechanisms to support closer co-operation with recommendations for specific co-ordination between international organizations, taking into account areas where they can provide added value.

Please note that keynote speeches should not exceed ten minutes and interventions from the floor three minutes.
