Representatives of Partners for Co-operation, OSCE executive structures as well as representatives of civil society and international organizations will have a number of assigned seats. The exact seating map will be made available in the meeting’s manual distributed at the venue.

Interpretation: The meeting will be interpreted into the six official OSCE languages: English, French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish.

Guidelines for debate: To ensure a free and interactive debate, participants are strongly discouraged from reading out prepared statements. Prepared statements, background documentation, comments or written materials may be submitted for circulation at the Documents Distribution Desk and hence can feed into the discussion.

The moderator will help to ensure that the participants engage in a constructive debate aimed at achieving the meetings’ objectives and improving the implementation of OSCE human dimension commitments and formulating recommendations.

List of speakers & speaking time: Participants are kindly asked to familiarize themselves with the rules on speakers list and speaking time.

Only the delegations of participating States will have a right to speak during the opening and closing sessions. All participants have equal access to the list of speakers in order to provide their contribution to each working session.

The speakers’ list will be opened inside or just outside the plenary hall one hour prior to the start of each session. Earlier entries will not be accepted. To ensure that there is sufficient speaking time throughout the meeting, the list will be limited to 50 speakers per session and therefore might be closed before the start of the session, once the limit is reached.

Once the limit of 50 is reached, participants will be signed up, in order of appearance, on a reserve list. The reserve list will be used in case of no-shows from the main list. Participants signed up in the main and reserve list can agree exchange of places - subject to negotiation and agreement between them.

The moderator of the session will ensure that the order of the list of speakers is followed. In general the interventions should not exceed 5 minutes. In case there is a high number of participants wishing to speak, the interventions during working sessions might be limited to the time defined by the moderator and the moderator will be strict with this. Longer interventions can always be submitted to the Documentation Desk for distribution. to all participants (if possible ahead of the relevant working session in order to stimulate a more lively debate and to facilitate interpretation).

A (representative of an) organization/institution/participating State can speak only once during a session. If the speakers list is exhausted before the end of the working session, the remaining time might be made available for questions or for other participants who have not had a chance to speak on a particular issue addressed earlier.

Participants are kindly requested to read the meeting’s manual for the guidelines.

Right of reply: At the end of working sessions as well as at the opening and closing plenary participating States will have the possibility to exercise their right of reply. Participating States should indicate to the moderator early enough before the end of the session their wish to exercise their right of reply so sufficient time is allocated.

Display of documents: Participants may display information materials on the tables in the lobby of the plenary hall room. There will be the necessary facilities for the display and distribution of relevant publications, documents and information materials outside the plenary hall.

Distribution of documents: Any participant wishing to distribute documents during the Human Dimension Meeting will only be able to do so through the Documents Distribution System (DDS), in accordance with special guidelines available on the website prior to the event. All documents submitted for distribution during the meeting will be scanned, uploaded to the system and available electronically at the venue through a number of computer terminals. Participants will have the possibility to request printed copies or to have documents sent by e-mail.

Meeting’s Manual: Detailed information for participants of the meeting, including the information about the logistics, organization as well as the schedule of social events schedules and contact information for diplomatic representations in Warsaw will be available in the meeting’s manual.
