Frequently Asked Questions

Can men apply for the programme?

Both women and men can apply for the 8-week online course. Participation in the in-person training course in Vienna is reserved for women only.

Is any specific experience or prior knowledge required?

No. However, some participants find prior knowledge or familiarity with the topics beneficial for getting the most out of the programme.

If I'm selected for the online training course, will I automatically be considered for the in-person training course?

By filling out an application form, your candidacy for the online training course will automatically be considered. The selection of participants for the in-person course will take place based on the individual participant's successful completion of the online training course and her expression of interest collected by organizers during the programme.

How will the online training be conducted?
	The online training will run for 8-weeks on the OSCE E-Learning platform.
	Each week, the participants will have a thematic session, which they are expected to complete in a self-paced manner within 10 days.
	Each session contains text, pre-recorded videos, links, interactive elements, diagrams, and guizzes.
	Throughout the online training, an instructor will be available to answer participant questions.
	Each week will feature a live thematic online session with participants and the instructor, as well as guest presenters. As not all participants will be able to attend, the sessions will also be recorded and shared on the platform. The sessions will usually last around 1.5 hours and include time for questions and discussions.
Will I receive a certificate of completion?
	If you pass the online final exam, you will receive a certificate of completion for the online training programme.
	Successful participants of the in-person course will receive a certificate of completion based on the online and in-person training courses.
